ROAD TROUBLES OF THE AUTOIST

Information Regarding Why Many of Them Are Caused.

HOW THEY CAN BE AVOIDED.

If Car is Properly Cared For After Each Run Motorist Will Experience Little Trouble—Examining Your Motor Before Run.

Aside from tire troubles any of the following may occur on the road: The motor may misfire, or it may overheat or may stop and start, or one or more of the cylinders may be missing, or there may be hissing sounds, knocking or pounding or puffing noises.

When the motor misfires very badly it may be due to any of the following: Spark plug needs cleaning or the points may be too far apart; weak batteries cause misfiring; a broken wire or a loose connection or poor contact will also cause misfiring.

When the motor overheats any of the following may be the cause. Poor water circulation caused by obstruction in pipes or a broken or worn pump; a shortage of lubricating oil or a poor grade; too rich a mixture with a retarded spark will cause overheating; the spark bears a fixed relation to the mixture, which is best learned by experience. When the motor stops and suddenly starts it may be due to any of the following: Gasoline almost exhausted or the cock in the pipe leading from the tank to the carburetor may be only partly open or there may be dirt in the pipe, which affects the flow of gas. There may be a leak around some of the joints about the carburetor, allowing the air to enter, thus affecting the mixture.

A hissing sound is caused by a leak in the compression, which may be found around any of the following: Spark plug, valves, rings or a gasket may be blown out. Knocking is sometimes an indication that the piston is about to seize from a lack of lubrication, or advancing the ignition too far will cause a heavy knock, especially on a hard pull. A broken valve stem, valve spring or a loose or worn crank pin will cause knocking or pounding.

If a puffing noise is heard which keeps time with the exhaust of the motor and still does not affect the running of the motor it will be found to be either a cracked exhaust pipe or the connection leading from the cylinder to it has worked loose, allowing a part of the outgoing charge to escape from the pipe.

Road troubles will be of little importance if the car is cared for after each run as it should be. It is very seldom a well kept car needs any great amount of adjustments made on the road, for the little things are cared for and looked up by the wise owner of the car before they have developed so far as to give road troubles.

The Use of Spring Washers.

There are a number of places on a car where it is desirable that while being properly secured the parts may be taken down readily. As is well known, the ordinary nut has a tendency to shake off on the smallest provocation and possibly allow some part to come adrift when least expected. On the covers of gear boxes, engine crank case covers and any inspection holes or grease plates it is necessary perhaps every two weeks or monthly to remove these for an inspection of the parts or for placing therein grease or oil. In such case the type of split spring washer placed under the nut, which can then be fairly tightly screwed up, is the most satisfactory method, and furthermore there are then no small split pins to take out, and on cleaning the car the ends of the split pins are not there to cause scratching of hands, this being a common experience where split pins are largely used in these places. The usual split pin fitted to the car is a chronic offender in this respect, however carefully turned over and unobtrusive it is made.

Good Test of an Engine.

A good test of the condition of a motor is to run it slowly as possible, observing whether its action is perfectly even or not. In many cases where a motor runs to all intents and purposes well at a good speed it will be found to perform haltingly at slow speed. The missing that will be sometimes noticed when an engine runs at slow speed is usually due to bad carburetion or some derangement of the ignition. An engine that runs well at slow speed will usually do good work at high. Examinations of the carburetor and ignition departments will show the cause.

When Turning a Corner.

If the clutch is released when the car is turning a corner it relieves the differential gearing and also relieves the tires of the driving strain. Furthermore, the slipping of the clutch in letting it in again would relieve the motor of much of the strain of picking up speed on the high gear.

Testing the Accumulator.

A simple test for ascertaining whether an accumulator contains current is to place the tongue on the terminals, when a prickling sensation, but no shock, will be felt if electricity is present.

Sumpter is getting together a splendid mineral exhibit from all eastern Oregon districts for the mining congress that meets there October 20 and 21.

Hazing has been abolished at Oregon Agricultural College and in place of the horrors awaiting the timid freshman he is welcomed with open arms and protected and guided by the upper classmen.

With the final approval by President Taft of the plans for raising the battleship Maine, it is expected work on the sunken warship will soon be completed and the memorable hulk will be taken out to sea and given a deep sea burial forever.

Portland has accomplished more hard-surface paving since the first of January than any other city of like population in the United States, fifty miles of hard surface streets having been laid since that date, and ten or fifteen additional miles will be completed before winter sets in in earnest. This has been a record year for Portland in street paving, and fifty additional miles are already contracted for next year.

Oregon's apple crop is receiving very wide attention. Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, is taking interest in the coming exhibit and offers a cash prize of $250 for the best exhibit of apples from any district tributary to the Great Northern. Two cash prizes of $250 each will be presented for the best exhibit of apples. Fruit growers of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana will be eligible in these two classes.

When the doors of the Portland Hunt club horse show were thrown open Thursday the ring was circled with as handsomely gowned women as have ever graced the boxes and added the charm of their presence toward the success of any show. Delicate colors prevailed, with here and there a gown of brighter hue, lending a touch of brilliance to the scene. It was a great show and terminated successfully to all concerned.

The eyes of the fruit raising communities of the northwest will be centered from now until November 14 on the preparations for the Third National Apple Show in Spokane, which will be followed this year by an exhibition in Chicago under the auspices of Chicago Association of Commerce. About two million apples will be exhibited this year, exhibits ranging from single apples to car load lots. The cash prizes aggregate $20,000 and every apple growing district in the United States will be represented. Entries close November 8, except for the car load prizes, which close three days earlier. The show itself, opening November 14, will draw thousands of visitors to Spokane.

Seattle's graft investigation, begun by Acting Mayor Wardall and now in the hands of a committee of the city council, is not making much progress, but is serving to advertise Seattle as the wickedest city in the country, a reputation which is being spread more by the reformers than by the present administration, which was going along peaceably and keeping quiet. Seattle may not be a model city, but she is probably not half so black as she is being painted. The charge of graft against the police force has not yet been substantiated. An effort is being made to use the "recall" provision of the city charter on Mayor H. G. Hill. The "recall" has never been used in Seattle, or in fact anywhere in the Northwest, and the result of this effort will be interesting. Friends of the mayor declare that he has broken no promises and violated no statutes, and that his enemies are simply trying to revive the issues of the campaign, which were settled by his election last spring.

How to Enter the Office.

Advance to the inner door and give three raps. The devil will attend to the alarm. You will give your name, postoffice address and number of years you owe for the paper. You will be admitted into the sanctum and will advance to the center of the room, where you will address the editor with the following countersign: Hold the right hand about two feet from the body, with the thumb and fingers clasping a ten dollar bill, which you will drop into the editor's hand, saying, "Were you waiting for me?" The editor will grasp your hand and the bill, pressing it, and will say, "You bet!"—Thayer (Mo.) District.

It pays to advertise.
