20 Acres
OF
Fine Red Shot Soil Hood River Apple Land in the Famous Oak Grove District
Ten miles out in the southwest part of the Hood River Valley, Hood River, Oregon.
The tract is partly improved with 5 acres in young commercial orchard, has fairly good house, barns, etc., and a fine spring well which is capable of being developed sufficiently to irrigate 40 or more acres. This tract is in the best apple section in the valley composed of all red shot soil. The surrounding country is being rapidly developed and growing into big money.

LIVELY INTEREST SHOWN IN ELECTION
Although yesterday was a bad day to get about keen interest was manifested in the election and the streets were filled with voters during the day and late into the night. The vote was close to the registration figures of 1909.
The greatest number in several years swore in their registration, more than 75 voters taking advantage of this eleventh hour provision. From street talk it was not possible to gain any idea of how the election was going, but it was manifest that the wet and dry propositions were arousing as much interest as the vote for governor or congressmen.
The vote in West and Center precincts was the heaviest, with Baldwin, East and the others trailing in after. It was not until a very late hour at night that the vote for candidates was counted and the count on the amendments was not completed in some of the precincts until this morning.

A WOMAN'S HAT.
There's a Large Pot of Trouble Brewing For One Milliner.
Mr. Standish was mad when he went into the millinery establishment, and the longer he stayed the madder he got. Presently he walked over to a stunning black creation that hung on a peg near the window and said:
"This is the hat I want to see you about."
The proprietor came forward.
"What can I do for you?" he asked.
"You can fix this hat over the way my wife asked you to," said Standish explosively. "She wants the feather put on the other side, that bow moved to the front, and she wants the rim to bulge a little more over the temples."
Seeing a guilty flush creep over the proprietor's face, Standish went on with increased heat.
"She says you have refused to make any alterations on the ground that a stitch added to or subtracted from the hat is bound to ruin it, but I tell you that's all nonsense. My wife knows how she wants her hat to look, and if she can't stand up for her rights I'll do it for her. She is coming around this afternoon to try the hat on again. If it isn't ready by that time there will be no end of a row."
The proprietor twirled the black hat on his forefinger and looked from it to the head saleswoman lugubriously.
"I remember," he said, "that the lady who ordered that hat did bring it back yesterday to be remodeled. Perhaps it will be possible to make the alterations suggested after all."
The manager's humility made Standish feel very proud of himself.
"That's the only way to deal with those fellows," he said when he left the shop. "You've got to meet them on their own level. It takes a man to do that. No wonder women get cheated out of their very eyeteeth. They haven't got sand enough to say the things that have to be said to secure their rights."
Throughout the day Standish continued to revel in self congratulations, and he actually went home half an hour ahead of time to see if his wife's hat had been metamorphosed into the thing of beauty he had suggested.
"Well," said he jubilantly, "was the hat all right?"
"All right?" said Mrs. Standish. "They hadn't even touched it. How could you expect it to be all right when you didn't stop in to see about it?"
"But I did stop," protested Standish. "I saw everybody about the place and laid the whole establishment out in great shape. Here's their card to prove I was there. I picked it up as I was passing out."
Mrs. Standish took up the card and read the name aloud.
"O-o-o-h!" she cried. "Is that where you went? Why, you got into the wrong place. What on earth will that manager think? He must think you are crazy."
"I don't care if he does," said Standish limply, "but I would like to know what the owner of that black hat will say when she sees it made over according to my directions."—New York Herald.

NORTHWEST FACES TURKEY SHORTAGE
The seizure by the state pure food authorities in Seattle of a shipment of several thousand turkeys from California, which were infected with a great many more microbes than the law allows, has served to call general attention to the fact that the Pacific Northwest does not begin to supply its own cities and towns and logging camps with poultry, eggs and dairy products. It seems strange indeed that the great states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho are unable to supply the people of Seattle, and other cities, with their Thanksgiving turkeys, yet the facts of the seizure of spoiled poultry in a cold storage warehouse in Seattle illustrates clearly the fact that the northwest is not yet self-supporting in some lines.
Pine Grove Grange Meeting
The Pine Grove Grange met Saturday, Nov. 5, and an interesting session was held. The next meeting will be held Saturday, Nov. 19, and will be of a social nature. The Worthy Master and Lecturer are preparing for an interesting time, and you are sure to miss something if you are not present.
The question box will be ready to receive all questions, which will be answered and discussed during the lecturer's hour. Following the business meeting will be an interesting program consisting of recitations and songs. The rest of the evening will be devoted to other social amusements, followed by refreshments.
Oregon Fir for Big Ship
Oregon fir will be used for the decks of the world's largest steamship, the keel for which has been laid at Stettin, Germany. The ship Omega has reached the harbor for the lumber required, which is 2,000,000 feet. The new liner will be operated between America and Europe by the Hamburg-American line and will have a speed of 22 knots. She will be of 45,000 tons gross register, with a length of 880 feet, beam 96 feet and will have accommodations for 5,000 passengers.
