A Personal Problem.

"Why so thoughtful, Brother Gobbler?" inquired the patriarch of the flock.
"I was just pondering a question which will be of vital importance in the hereafter," explained Brother Gobbler.

"It is always profitable to dwell upon that time which is inevitable to all of us, but I trust you distinguish between simply idle speculation and the elevating contemplation of the essential, fear brother," admonished the patriarch.

"Well, I suppose you would hardly call it that," replied Brother Gobbler, reflectively scratching at a retreating worm. "The fact is, I was just wondering which is the most delicious, white or dark meat?"

Palmer's Patent

The Bucket

Made entirely of metal. Substantial and durable. No canvas

The past season exploded the canvas idea. Instead of being a protection it wrinkled and collected spurs and sticks which scratched and nattered the fruit. And it was subject to weather conditions and would shrink and stretch. The canvas bottom would sag and the fruit bruise when the bucket was set on the ground.

NO STRINGS to stretch, wear out and break and let the fruit drop.

NO SPRINGS or clasps or levers to get out of order.

THE RELEASE simple and easy; no complicated arrangement of straps, strings and levers to tinker with.

By a simple, rotary movement the bottom is drawn away and the fruit is gradually and evenly deposited in the box, two buckets levelling a box so that another box may be set on top.

After emptying the bucket the bottom drops automatically into position and the picker is ready for action, without wasting time over straps, loops, or puckering strings.

Take up the bucket, from any position, by the handle and the bottom automatically adjusts itself. All the fruit in the bucket may be discharged, or just enough to complete the filling of a box, and the rest taken to another box.

THE HOOK works on a swivel and is always rigid and upright, ready to hook to the ladder or a convenient limb, and when desired can be hooked in a harness suspended from the picker's shoulder so he can use both hands. Can be instantly removed.
