

Society Women In Tableaux to Aid Suffragists

WOMEN whose names are known to every reader of the papers will appear on the stage, where they may be seen by all who have the price of tickets, in tableaux to be given at Maxine Elliott's theater in New York early in January. But they will not be seeking financial gain for themselves. They will be assisting in raising funds for the Equal Franchise society.

Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay is the president of the society, and she is arranging the tableaux. Besides raising the money needed to carry on the campaign, Mrs. Mackay, whose husband is the millionaire head of the Postal Telegraph company, hopes to offer through the tableaux proof that women have always been important in the world's affairs and that they are entitled to the ballot.

One of Belasco's stage managers has been engaged to superintend the production of the tableaux, and he says the performance will be one of the most remarkable exhibitions ever given in New York, not only because of the women who take part, but because of the care and attention to detail that will mark the productions.

The stage manager explains that Mrs. Mackay insists on historical ac-
