The Voice of Mary Etta

It Proves a Safeguard in Time of Need

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Never mind, Ben," encouraged Mary Etta as her husband shrugged into his overcoat and pecked up his hat...

The sullen expression deepened on Ben Madison's handsome face. "It isn't so easy going back to work under a foreman after being my own boss for five years," he said bitterly.

"I know all the advantages," said Ben impatiently. "But you don't understand how I feel about it, Mary Etta! It's sort of admitting I've failed on the farm, just as your father said I would."

"His wife's eyes flashed strangely. 'You don't understand father, dear. He has already admitted he was mistaken in his estimate of you, for you have done splendidly—no one can deny that—and who could prevent the long drought we have suffered? I know he'd think it was splendid if you to pitch in and make the farm pay by doing everything you could this winter.'"

Ben turned away, a discouraged droop to his shoulders. Of course Mary Etta didn't know that he had gone to her father the night before and asked him for a loan of $500 to tide them over the winter and spring—in fact, until his crops would begin to pay along in May and June, for his market garden and forcing house had proved a very paying branch of the Madison farm.

He reddened resentfully as he remembered how old Peter Lloyd's white eyebrows had lifted incredulously when his son-in-law asked for the loan. "No, Ben," Peter had said slowly; "I'm not saying I ain't got the money, for I have, but I guess I'll keep it awhile longer. If Mary Etta was a widow, now, and needed my help it would be different. You're a strong man, and you've done well so far. It would only weaken you to borrow this money of me. Find a way out yourself. You'll be the better off for it in the end, and I wish you good luck. If you was sick or there was an accident of some kind I'd be the first one on hand to help you out. As it is, you and Mary Etta have started out for yourselves, and you're both capable of fighting it out to the end—same as the rest of us have to do."

When he reached the road that turned down to the mill he hesitated and then walked slowly on, head down, moodily thinking. At last he came to the railroad station, where a few loungers awaited the passing of the noon train. Ben looked down the shining length of track that led to the city beyond. There might be opportunities for other work than that he had left behind when he married Mary Etta five years ago. He had hated the bench work, the long hours and the carrying of the dinner pail. They chafed his Madison pride.

As the whistle of the approaching train shrieked from some distant crossing Ben Madison seemed to make up his mind to some course of action. He glanced quickly at the loungers congregated about the station stove and stepped out of the station house and walked up the track to the raised platform where there was a little heap of baggage. He pulled his hat down over his eyes and muttered under his breath: "I just can't go back to the bench again. I'll get something to do in the city and send for Mary Etta to come. I can write to her when I get there and tell her how it is. She'll understand."

When he was in the train he tried to persuade himself that Mary Etta would understand just how he felt and look on his decision in exactly the same manner that he did. Mary Etta had pride too. He had taken her from a comfortable home, where as the only daughter of a well to do farmer she had had little hard work and many luxuries. All of these things she had gladly given up to marry the man she loved, and Ben prided himself on the fact that by the work of his hands

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them.

Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by all druggists, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Warning Notice is hereby given that School Superintendent's warrant No. 29, issued April 4, 1910 by Ernest C. Smith, county school superintendent Hood River county, to J. W. Hicks, clerk school district No. 11, for the sum of $488.85 has been cancelled and will not be paid by the county treasurer of Hood River county if presented, for the reason the said warrant has apparently miscarried through the mails, having never been received by Mr. Hicks. Any person into whose hands this warrant may come is hereby warned that it has no value, and anyone attempting to cash it will be prosecuted.
