LOCALS AND PERSONALS

June 14th is Flag Day. Third street is being oiled.

A. J. Derby was a Portland visitor last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Hall were visitors at Portland during the past week.

A cool wind from the ocean put an end to a period of warm weather lasting from Saturday to Thursday.

Miss Myrtle Doane and several lady friends made up a party to attend the rose festival in Portland this week.

J. R. Nickelsen was the first Hood River citizen to name his farm according to a new law, and will call it Alder Brook.

The regular meeting of the Music Club will be held on Monday afternoon, June 12, at the home of Mrs. E. A. Dutro. All persons interested in this work are cordially invited.

W. G. Aldrich, a former resident of Hood River, arrived here last week from Kamiah, Idaho. He hardly knew Hood River, this place having made a wonderful growth in the last year.

The owners of Paradise Farm are disposing of acre tracts at prices that are not high when it is considered that they are within the city limits and are desirable for a suburban home or as an investment.

Mrs. A. L. Page visited relatives at The Dalles Friday.

Frank Dayton is painting Capt. C. P. McCann's new residence south of the city.

J. H. O'Neill, traveling passenger agent of the O-W-R & N. Co., was in the city on business last Wednesday.

Mrs. G. H. Labbe came up from Portland Thursday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Carver.

An enjoyable time was had Saturday evening at a birthday party given in honor of Guy Miller and Miss Georgia Chambers.

Hotel Wan-Gwin-Gwin, by pre-arrangement, serves Sunday dinners to guests who make that beautiful place a day of sight-seeing and pleasure.

A concrete walk has been laid on Oak street, in front of the concrete building on Third street, A. W. Outhank's real estate office, J. C. Johnston's store and P. C. Young's meat market.

Miss Nelle Horner, of Portland, visited friends in Hood River several days last week. Miss Horner is a former Hood River girl and was at one time a compositor in the News office. During the past few years she has been studying elocution and of late has recited before pleased audiences at Portland. She intimated that she would probably make a date for Hood River in the fall, when her many friends here will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this young lady elocutionist.

A. O. Adams was up from Cascade Locks one day last week.

L. J. Stuart, liveryman at Underwood, was in Hood River Thursday on business.

O. R. Ball, manager of the American Type Founders Company, was up from Portland on business Wednesday.

The river is rising steadily and will soon reach high tide, when the boats will again be able to land in front of the Mt. Hood hotel.

The first annual meeting of the Hood River Apple Growers' Fellowship Association will be held at the Commercial Club at 2:30 p. m. on Tuesday, June 20th. A. W. Peters, Secretary.

There are thousands of strawberry pickers and packers in the valley, and it does seem that help is plentiful, but a grower informed the News the other day that there was, as yet, a lack of experienced packers.

Concrete walks are being laid on State street in front of a number of residences. The entire street is to be lined on both sides with concrete walks in the near future. Other parts of the city are also receiving their share of similar improvements.

Mayor and Mrs. E. H. Hartwig, accompanied by Miss Mildred Huxley, attended one of the Southern and Marlowe productions at the Heilig in Portland Thursday. The engagement of these two foremost artists for eight performances was said to have given the city its most brilliant and momentous dramatic event. The attendance was composed mostly of the literary, social and theatrical-going public of Portland, and many Hood River people were also in evidence.

Mrs. E. S. Mayes is visiting with relatives and friends in Tygh valley.

Chas. O. Hall and Harry DeWitt are making an auto tour of the central Oregon country.

Rev. J. R. Hargreaves attended the meeting of the Willamette Baptist Association, which closed a session at Portland recently.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lender, of Portland, spent a few days with friends in Hood River last week. Mrs. Lender, accompanied by Miss Pearl Deltz, left for her home Monday, while Mr. Lender will remain a few days to help out in the News office during a rush of work.

The property owners on Columbia street now feel that the new roadbed needs a filler, so a petition was circulated, and neatly signed, asking that a top filler of three inches of crushed rock be put on it. It is believed that by this method the road may be preserved several years, until macadamizing is needed.

In the Woman's Club article in last week's News, the name of Miss Alta Poole was omitted from the names composing the social committee. The committee consists of the following ladies: Mrs. G. H. Steinhoff, chairman; Mrs. L. M. Bentley, Mrs. W. L. Ramsey, Mrs. C. A. Cass, Mrs. W. G. Snow and Miss Alta Poole.

The weather during the hot period was welcomed by growers of strawberries and thousands of pickers who came here to harvest the crop. Among the pickers are, as usual, several tribes of Indians, numbering several hundred. Many of the Indians are gaudily attired like the costumes of by-gone days and present an interesting appearance in the community.

Mrs. Wm. Yates and children will spend the summer at Cannon Beach.

Clyde T. Bonney, of Tygh Valley, spent Decoration Day visiting with his brother-in-law, E. S. Mayes.

Rev. T. J. Potter, of Spokane, spoke at the Alliance chapel Tuesday night and will speak again tonight. The remainder of the week Mrs. A. L. Graham, a missionary from Sudan, Africa, will speak. Mrs. Graham has stereopticon views of Africa which she will show each night. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Save Your Radishes and Onions
"Carbolic acid emulsion is used to destroy the eggs and young maggots which infest radishes, onions and similar garden stuff, and occasionally for other insects," is a statement of H. F. Wilson, entomologist at the Oregon Agricultural College.

"To make such an emulsion, dissolve a pound of hard soap in a gallon of boiling water, add a pint of crude carbolic acid, and churn (preferably with a hand pump) until the mixture is a creamy white. This forms a stock which may be diluted by adding thirty times as much water as stock. It should be applied to the surface of the ground about the plants."
