

NEWS FROM NEARBY TOWNS

From White Salmon Enterprise:
C. C. Smith of Hood River was a visitor in White Salmon Monday.

Miss Ruth Morlan has returned from Hood River where, she attended school the past year.

Miss Venlee Callison went to Hood River last week to attend the wedding of a friend. She is stenographer for the local land company.

Refusing to abide by the decision of the umpire at the beginning of the 5th inning, Hood River's manager called off the team and refused to play, Umpire Coate thereupon declaring the game forfeited 9 to 0. The score at the time the teams ceased playing was 2 to 1 in favor of White Salmon. The break-up was a disappointment to the largest crowd that ever gathered on the grounds, for the boys on both sides were playing good ball.

Rev. J. G. Tate says that things are quiet in a real estate way at Hood River. Realty investments have been slow all over the country. Reverend Tate had a conversation with Judge Rolapp, of the Mt. Hood Railway, whose home is in Ogden. The Judge had recently returned from Europe and New York City. In the latter place he found that investments are slow because money has become timid. Bankers told him that depositors were placing their funds in the bank with instructions to leave the coin there, one banker having just received a deposit of one million dollars in money and told to "keep it there." Many are waiting to see what the present congress does, while still others are watching the big fellows, who really control finances, to see which way they are going to jump. The Judge said there was absolutely no fear of a panic, but for the time being capital is conservative in the East.

From The Dalles Optimist:
C. M. Dow went to Hood River Tuesday Morning.

John P. Thomson of Hood River transacted business in town Friday.

in the Hood River valley.

Mrs. A. Sexton and daughter, Miss Della, of Abilene, Kansas, arrived Friday from Hood River where they had been the guest of valley relatives and will visit with Sexton relatives in this city. Miss Della is in the west for her health and feels benefited already. She expects to remain during the summer.

Frank T. Fahn and Miss Glesie B. Ware were united in marriage Saturday evening at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. J. D. Lewellen. Miss Ware is a Hood River young lady and the groom is a recent arrival in the city employed as a jeweler by Herbert Knox & Co. They expect to make this their home.

From Carson Journal:
The Carson Valley Development Club has made arrangements with Capt. Nelson of the Tahoma to run an excursion from Hood River to Carson on Sunday, June 18. This excursion is given for the purpose of giving the grangers and others of Hood River Valley an opportunity to look over Carson Valley, to visit the various Hot Springs, and enjoy an outing in one of the prettiest spots on the river. All available passenger vehicles will be at the landing to convey excursionists up town. The Tahoma will leave Hood River landing at 9 a. m., and returning will leave Carson landing at 5 p. m. If you have friends in Hood River it will be a good opportunity to extend them an invitation to come.

From Stevenson Pioneer:
This year Stevenson is beginning to ship a few crates of strawberries to outside markets. It is the first real shipments we have made. Last year we shipped several crates to different points, but it was only an experiment, to see whether our berries would bear shipping, and whether it was a paying proposition. The experiment proved a success, and our berries are now selling alongside Hood River and White Salmon berries, in the different markets, and bringing the same prices. This year about 500 crates will be shipped from here, and this amount will increase rapidly as the years go by.

From Ringen Observer:
Rev. J. L. Hershner, of Hood River, was in town Wednesday.

Mrs. McKnight made a trip over to Hood River yesterday.

Mr. Davenport of Hood River was a visitor in town Wednesday on business. It has been a year since he was here, and he echoes the sentiment of every stranger, that with a little hustle and enterprise Ringen could within a couple of years become one of the largest and most important towns on the North Bank.

From The Dalles Chronicle:
C. M. Dow went to Hood River June 6.

E. M. Fleming of Hood River is transacting business here.

NEW GOOD ROADS CLUBS ORGANIZE

From present activity manifest by members of the Oregon State Automobile association the prospects for greater road improvement throughout the state are exceptionally bright.

The policy of the association for the ensuing year is to operate through the road supervisors in the different counties throughout the state, getting their cooperation in locating impassable roads, repairing same and making them passable for the traveling public in particular and the traveling public in general, using section 3637 Lord's Laws as their platform.

It is contemplated that an open road from Hood River to Portland and also to the coast will soon be built. A second main road is contemplated, running from Vancouver to Ashland and eventually through the Crater Lake district, making a splendid 900 mile tour for the Oregon tourist on his two weeks' vacation.

CITY AUTHORITIES TRANSACT BUSINESS

At the meeting of the city council held Monday evening the petition of property owners residing on Columbia street, asking to have their street graveled with crushed rock, was granted. The judiciary committee was instructed to draft ordinance covering same.

Several automobile owners were present and petitioned to have license payment periods changed from yearly to quarterly. On motion, lost.

Recorder Langille reported there was no remonstrance entered against work in sewer district No. 7. Also inquired into delinquent assessments to ascertain if fees were payable thereon.

The Wind River Lumber Co. refused an offer of $25 for a strip of land on the water front, needed for the extension of First street.

Uhlen & Co., of Chicago, to whom the bonds had been awarded, telegraphed they would have to decline purchase of same, on advice of their attorney.

The finance committee returned approved and unapproved bills.

The recorder's letter to the finance committee, suggesting the issuing of large warrants to replenish general and road funds in order that small warrants might be paid, was recommended by committee to council, and by them adopted.

Other matters of interest were discussed at the meeting.

Bank statements have been called for this week. The statements of the Butler Banking Company and the Hood River Banking & Trust Company are published in another column.
