NORTHWEST NOTES

Editors of the state will be welcomed in Portland September 21, 22 and 23, when the annual meeting of the Oregon State Editorial Association will be held. The convention will meet in the auditorium of the Portland Commercial Club. The Portland Press Club plans a special entertainment for visiting scribes.

Oregon fruit districts, and this includes about all the state, are looking forward to apple shows this fall. The best exhibits will be forwarded to the All-Oregon show at Portland November 16-17. Points outside of Oregon, also, will have displays of apples at this show, making a collection of fruit that will be well worth visiting.

Tri-county development for has been discussed by the special Portland Commercial Club committee the past week and a convention will be called for some time this fall or winter, probably at Arlington. A special farm demonstration train will be run through the three counties, calling attention to the opportunities for improved agricultural methods and diversified farming. Prizes will be offered by the committee for the best products resulting from the new treatment of the soil, and the Portland people will co-operate in making the Tri-County Fair, planned for the fall of 1912, a

It is thought the rule will be felt most in factories and schools, and in this way the message of the law will be scattered and young people brought to realize the danger of infection that lurks in the public drinking vessel. It will also be a violation of the foundation of the property of th ing yessel. It will also be a violation of the law to lend another per-

The problem has been solved in the iew depot at Hood River by a porcelain drinking fountain in which the A Fredenburg, se's, sw's, sec 21 to 1N. water spurts up eight or ten inches from the mouth of the fountain, allowing the thirsty to drink direct from the stream, so that no cup is necessary. This method will no doubt comply with the law and also be highly sanitary, but it would Morrow, Sherman and Gilliam seem that it might be necessary to supply napkins or towels after a wrestle with the spurting water.

City Gives Picnic

Not many municipalities give picnies for campaign purposes. But such a novel method was employed recently by Seattle to arouse interest in a big bond issue that is to be voted on for the extension of the city water system. Arrangements were River, where extensive improvements are under way. Two thousand people went on the excursion. Besides learning a great deal about one of the finest municipally owned water systems in the world, they had an made to take the people to Cedar excellent outing in the hills.
