SAY SALEM APPLES ARE SOLD AS HOOD RIVERS
"Willamette valley apples that are so good that they are being shipped under a Hood River label are being sold to New York parties and this section is losing the credit for quality which it rightly deserves," says the Journal.
"The Wallace orchard at Salem, which has the reputation of producing some of the best fruit grown in the Pacific northwest, recently sold its extra select apples to a Hood River firm and they are being sent out with the Hood River label from the Salem orchard.
"While the fruit from the Wallace place is fancy stock, other shippers take exception to the method of selling the product to enterprisers. It is stated that for several seasons the Wallace extra fancy apples have been labeled as Hood River fruit and although they have been giving satisfaction at extreme high prices, the buyers thought they were getting the Columbia river stock.
"While the extra fancy apples were sold to a Hood River firm and were sent out with the Hood River label, the fancy stock was sold to a local house and they are being sold for what they are."
BELIEVES CANAL WILL BENEFIT FRUIT GROWERS
That the completion of the Panama canal will mean millions of dollars annually to the fruit growers of the Pacific northwest was the statement of J. N. Teal in an address to the State Horticultural Society at its annual meeting. He believes the fruit grower will profit more by the opening of the canal than the man engaged in any other industry, with the possible exception of the lumberman, although producers generally will be much benefited.
Mr. Teal told of the reduced freight rates to the markets of the world that will follow when the canal is opened, while at the same time better rates will lower the cost of almost everything the horticulturist uses. Markets for fruit will be widened greatly because of cheapening of transportation and Mr. Teal estimates a saving of approximately $20,000,000 in freight charges to growers of the northwest each year.

FRUITGROWERS HONOR SMITH AND CARDWELL
Smith, and I am sure nobody ever heard of E. L. Smith without hearing something of Hood River," said H. C. Atwell, ex-president of the Horticultural Society, in introducing W. K. Newell, president of the state board of horticulture, who formally presented Mr. Smith, who years ago owned and has since enjoyed the sobriquet "Hood River Smith."
"Mr. Newell in a happy ten minute talk gave Mr. Smith much credit for the part he had played in developing the horticultural industry of the state. It was Mr. Smith who, as speaker of the house of representatives at the 1889 session of the legislature, secured a reconsideration and accomplished the enactment of the bill creating the State Horticultural Society after it had been defeated in the lower branch of the state's lawmaking body. In all, Mr. Smith served as president of the State Horticultural Society and state board of horticulture for eight years.
"Responding to the introduction, Mr. Smith modestly waived claim to any praise for founding the horticultural industry in this state and ascribed credit for the establishment of that industry to Henderson and Seth Lewellyn and William Meeker, who founded the original nursery in this state at Milwaukie. In his reference to the dangers faced, obstacles surmounted and the great heritage these intrepid pioneers had given the state, Mr. Smith was especially eloquent. He congratulated the officers of the horticultural society for what they had done to widen the scope and extend the usefulness of the organization, and bespoke even a greater success from a continuation of the same diligence.
"In the evening a silent toast was drunk to the memory of Millard O. Lowndale, one of the most energetic and enthusiastic horticulturists of the state, whose death occurred a few months ago while he was a member of the state board of horticulture.
"Others to respond to toasts at the banquet were: F. A. Huntley, commissioner of horticulture for the state of Washington; H. E. Lounsbury, general freight agent for the Southern Pacific; W. C. Wilkes, assistant general freight agent for the Northern Pacific; R. B. Miller, traffic manager for the O.-W. R. & N.; Chas. J. Sinsel, chief judge of exhibits, Spokane National Apple Show; Dr. C. H.

Cold, damp weather is bad for those subject to Rheumatism. It chills the blood and brings on an attack. Use

Ballard's Snow Liniment

It is a Powerful Preventive, as Well as a Speedy Cure

Rub it in on the parts affected whenever the conditions seem to indicate a spell of this painful ailment; it will warm the joints and ward off the trouble. If the disorder has already commenced, the treatment is the same, the rubbing helps the liniment to penetrate to the seat of pain. The relief is prompt and very satisfactory; the aching joints are relieved, the muscles relaxed so that the sufferer feels again the strength and suppleness of youth.
For flesh wounds of all kinds, it is a wonderful remedy. Try it for cuts, burns, bruises, sores, galls, chafed spots, barbed wire cuts, sprains, swellings, frost bites. It cures quickly and completely.

Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per Bottle.

GRANGE WILL MAKE PINE GROVE VILLAGE

"We are going to start a village in the heart of the valley," is the statement of A. I. Mason, according to the Telegram. The grange has closed a deal for the purchase of an acre of land adjoining its property and work will at once be begun to divide the land into town lots. The Pine Grove grange is very prosperous. On the property already owned by it a handsome building has been erected. The structure is provided with one of the best playhouses in the valley and each winter is the scene of numerous entertainments for the diversion of the orchardists.

Lost Mine Again Attracts Attention
F. A. Schenckle and a party of miners passed through Husum, according to the Bingen Herald, lately bound for the Niggerhead country in Northern Skamania county, where the "Lost Mine" was rediscovered last spring. The party will work the free milling proposition and take out ore on pack animals. Mr. Schenckle says that the almost inaccessible character of the region where the gold abounds is the only drawback to the proper development of the mines.
