The Dock Question

That the voters of the county favor bonding for the construction of a public dock by a majority of three to one, is indicated by replies received to date by County Judge Culbertson, who has been sending out circular letters to all registered voters. The fact that Hood River is one of the heaviest shipping points in the Northwest is in itself a sufficient reason why every effort should be made to secure the best possible facilities. It is now predicted that the apple crop next year will amount to a million boxes. The shipment of this huge crop will be a matter of paramount importance. Movement of the fruit crop will mean thousands of dollars annually to the orchardists of the valley, and if a public dock will facilitate shipment and at the same time place the county in a position to regulate freight rates for all time, then there can be little doubt that it would be a good investment and one which would pay for itself within a short time.

Among the letters which Judge Culbertson has received on this proposition is one which mentions some of the advantages which would no doubt result to the fruitgrowers from the building of the dock. An excerpt from the letter follows: "In a conversation which I recently had with an official of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Line, I was pleased to hear him say that with the opening of the Panama Canal they anticipated handling fruit cargoes in refrigerator ships, and referred to Hood River among other points from which they expected to draw their tonnage. The taxpayers of Hood River county cannot make a better investment, if for no other reason than to be in a position to regulate freight rates for all time, but the benefits of a public dock will be directly felt in the ability of the fruit growers, and others, to transport shipments with dispatch, and under most favorable conditions, to Portland for transshipment to the Atlantic seaboard via water, as well as transshipment to railroads not reaching Hood River direct."

Civic Harmony

It is not necessary to employ any of the higher mathematics in order to prove that harmony is necessary for a community's growth and development. Conflicting interests pulling in opposite directions can only serve to retard progress. Without intending that this should apply to any particular instance, it is true that the greater the unity of purpose and endeavor that can be accomplished the more effective must be the work of the community at heart. With opposing factions working at cross purposes, energy that would otherwise result in benefit to all is worse than wasted. Unless all signs fail, Hood River city and county are entering upon a year that should be rich in accomplishment. The time is opportune for those who possibly can to bury their hatchets and pull hard and altogether. It has been demonstrated what lack of cooperation can do in the way of retarding much needed public improvements. The time is ripe for everybody to put his shoulder to the wheel and bring about a realization of the splendid plans which are being made for both city and county during 1912. That they can be realized is assured if sectional and selfish interests can be forgotten in the larger question of what is best for all. The News wants to do its part; and to encourage civic harmony and to miss no opportunity to boost for a bigger and better Hood River will be our constant endeavor.

The Political Sphinx

At the present writing the Sphinx has nothing on Colonel Roosevelt as a mystery. The Colonel is evidently determined to let no one know, not even Brother Bill, what hand he holds or how he intends to play his cards in the political game of 1912. After his three years of semi-seclusion he has again appeared on the political stage, made up, this time, as a big interrogation point. Candidates who have been cherishing presidential hopes are now holding their breath in anticipation of a word from the Sphinx. Even the White House is apparently puzzled over the political situation, although friends of the President maintain that his colors are nailed fast to the mast. It is generally conceded that while the redoubtable Teddy is not anxious for the nomination, he is holding himself in readiness to accept if his nomination is demanded. Not a few leaders declare that in Roosevelt lies the only hope for a Republican victory this year. Between him and the nomination, however, stand the ranks of the organization pledged to Taft, and probably the Colonel will want to size up his chances in the convention pretty carefully before announcing that "Barkis is willin'."

Light On the Horizon

With the arrival of 1912 a light has appeared on the horizon. It is clearly apparent that from now on better business conditions may be looked for and one of the indications of the immediate future is the report that comes from Pittsburgh that 100,000 idle workmen will be given employment the early part of this month in the iron and steel industries of the country. This action has been taken because there is a demand for all kinds of steel and iron, principally though, railroad steel, structural iron and tube iron. The rolling mills will be run at their full capacity. The American Tin Plate company has announced that it will give employment to 5,000 men at Newcastle, Pennsylvania, from the very beginning of the year. It is said that fifty tin plate mills will be put in operation. The iron and steel works all over the country, it is reported, will be in full swing without delay in order to fill the contracts which have been entered into for their product. Prosperity among the class of men referred to, means better times in business lines generally and the confidence, which this resumption of work will bring about, will spread rapidly to other industries in our entire country.

There is food for thought, especially in this state, in the comparison of criminal records in St. Louis and London. In the former city, which has a population of 700,000 people, there were from January 1 to December 1, 1911, 86 trials for murder. In only 20 cases were convictions returned, and in not a single case was the death penalty imposed. In London, with a population of 7,000,000, or about ten times that of St. Louis, there were in the last twelve months exactly fourteen murder trials. Of the fourteen defendants eight were sentenced to death and duly hanged. Three others were given long terms at penal servitude. Three were acquitted.

An item published a few days ago, calling attention to the personnel of Hood River's delegation attending the short course on horticulture at the O. A. C. should have some influence in dispelling any stigma which may attach in the minds of the ignorant to life "next the soil." A bank president and ex-state senator were among the number, as well as retired business and professional men and society dames who have abandoned the ballroom for the ranch. And, best of all, every mother's son and daughter of them waxed eloquent when they preach the "back to the soil" gospel."
