UPPER VALLEY MAN BOOSTS FOR PUTNAM
Editor The News: J. R. Putnam of the Upper Valley, who is a candidate for county commissioner, is well fitted to represent the interests of the people, as shown by his proposition that he was perfectly willing to withdraw in favor of any other candidate nominated by a mass meeting, while others absolutely refused to pay any attention to the wishes of the Upper Valley people.
Mr. Putnam is a progressive resident of Hood River and has done much toward the improvement of the valley. He has had business experience along lines that would fit him for the position of commissioner and has business interests in the city of Hood River, which is significant of his desire to benefit the whole county and not any particular section.
The Upper Valley will produce thousands of boxes of apples this season and with a large acreage coming into bearing this section is entitled to representation. The Upper Valley is practically sold for Mr. Putnam.

CIRCUS IS COMING ON THE THIRTIETH
With the coming of Al. G. Barnes' big three-ring wild animal show, the small boy will be in his delight on Tuesday, April 30, when the first strain of the band announcing the big parade will be heard, and it will continue to be a red-letter day for him until the last car is loaded.
Barnes' wild animal show is the only real animal show in the world, with 350 wild trained animals doing feats which border on the impossible, not one of which can shirk his duty on former laurels or ancient name. Everywhere this has been acclaimed by the press as the most thrilling and spectacular show which has ever been seen west of the Rocky Mountains. Lions ride swiftly running horses, elephants give a vaudeville performance all by themselves, bears convulse the audience by their funny antics, monster African lions perform under the direction of a clever young lady who finishes this remarkable act by feeding the beasts raw meat with her naked hands.
