UNDERWOOD HEIGHTS

The Underwood Telephone Co. is about to extend its line through to Chenoweth, bringing the people of that neighborhood into communication with the rest of us. With the telephone, rural mail delivery, good roads and automobiles, rural life becomes more attractive. Now let us have parcels post, some reduction in the cost of transportation and marketing of produce and some lessening in the cost of farming, and the cry "Back to the Soil" will receive some general response.

A good many improvements have been going on along the Heights all summer. Dr. Manners has had clearing on his place and a large tract has been cleared and put in potatoes by the Ariss Bros. Mr. Shipley is building a fine residence on his twenty-acre tract and Mr. Knapp is also building a new house.

The road district has recently been divided, W. F. Cash being supervisor of the lower section and E. M. Cummings of the upper end. A great deal of work has been put in during the summer all along the line and the roads are now greatly improved. Good roads are a large asset to civilization and rural betterment. If a small part of the vast sums of money we are now spending on war and warships with which to fight other Christians, or to keep them from fighting us, could be spent on good roads, with the resulting better schools and churches, civilization and religion might be so advanced as to make us see the awful wickedness and waste of war and the stupendous folly of going armed to keep the peace.

RIDDLES OF THE UNIVERSE.

A Scientist Says Science Really Knows Very Little.

I have been asked to define the word "energy." I cannot. Suppose that I should be asked, "What is the cause of light moving with the incessant specific speed of 186,383 miles during each successive second of time?" I would be utterly unable to reply. First, I cannot think of the cause of this unthinkable velocity. How answer? The fact is, science does not know what anything really is. Electrons are the vanishing points. They are on the limit of knowledge. Of even hope, of thought. All are agreed that they are electricity, but that does not help in the solution of any riddle of the universe.

It does not seem possible that science will come to an end in any attempt at explaining. Some new discovery surpassing all others may yet be made. Really, such a discovery must be made or science will come to an impenetrable wall, for we cannot at present think of mind, life or an electron. How progress or advance in search of anything if we are unable to think of it? This is a gloomy outlook, but just now it appears to be hopelessly impossible to discover any fact as to what mind, life and electricity are.

I have printed during thirty years that the human mind is illimitable in its powers, but I may be obliged to finally admit that it cannot find what itself is—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

An Artist's Feat.

One of the most remarkable and most artistic of twenty-four hours' records stands to the credit of Sir Edwin Landseer, who had promised a picture for the spring exhibition of the Royal British Institution in 1845. On the day before the opening he was found standing in front of an untouched canvas. "I shall send that to the institution tonight, a finished picture," he declared to the astonished messenger who had been sent by the hanging committee to see if the promised picture was ready, "and have consequently given orders not to be disturbed." True to his word, Landseer put the finishing touch to his canvas and dispatched it to Pall Mall that very evening, and as "The Cavalier's Pets" it was one of the greatest successes of the exhibition.

An Uncrowned King of France.

The president of the French chamber enjoys an almost regal state. Every time he goes to his official palace in the Quai d'Orsay he is greeted by beating drums. Whenever there is a ministerial crisis he must be summoned by the president of the republic to give his advice. He receives what is an extraordinary salary for a French official—100,000 francs per annum. The appointment dates from the days of the convention. On Sept. 21, 1792, was held the debate by which the appointment was created. The first president was Petion, a violent Girondist. His six secretaries were also Girondists. It was symptomatic of the times that eight months later the seven were condemned to the guillotine by the deputies who elected them.

The Bread We Offer is a boon to women worried with home baking. It is delicious in flavor, as wholesome as the best materials and sanitary methods can make it and of full weight. Try a loaf or two and you'll realize the foolishness and extravagance of doing your own baking. Six loaves for 25c. Ask for tickets.

After the Doctor-- THE DRUGGIST

The doctor's work is only half what has to be done for the patient. And if the druggist be lacking in ability and care the prescription might as well have never been written. But we make a special study of each case and our own medical knowledge is thorough enough to be of great use to us in those sometimes occurring cases when the doctor, in his haste, makes a slight error.
