Presence of Mind. Thus she reproached him: "Alfred, this is the first time you have come to see me for more than a month!"

Thus he explained: "Kitty, I've decided that when a young fellow can't keep from thinking of a girl every moment of his life it's time for him to quit seeing her."

"Kiss me, Alfred, dear."

He hesitated a moment—and was lost.—Chicago Tribune.

Artemus Ward's Account. An Ohio man who attended the dedication of a monument recalled Artemus Ward's account of one of these ceremonies: "It was a fine parade, a very fine parade. The marching column was fully a mile and three-quarters long—as was the prayer of Dr. Chaplain, the chaplain."

Deceiving. Minister—I'm sorry to find you coming out of a public house again. Hamish, after all you promised me. Hamish—Aye, sir, it's wunnerful what an awfu' deceivin' thing this mist is. D'ye ken, I went in there the noo thinkin' 'twas the butcher's shop.—London Tit-Bits.

WOULD WITHDRAW THE LIGHT SUIT

A surprise was sprung on the city council at its meeting Monday when Attorneys Wilbur and Strong, in behalf of J. F. Batchelder, offered to withdraw the suit and dissolve the injunction which prevents the city from entering into a contract for street lighting. They offered to do this on condition that the city would agree to submit the street lighting to competitive bids, all conditions of the contract to be submitted to both the local companies for their bids and any other companies that might desire to bid.

The council held an executive session to consider the matter and decided to reject the proposition submitted by Mr. Batchelder.

The case of Mr. Batchelder against the city is set for trial next Monday, September 16.

A report of tests made by Calvin S. White, state health officer, showed that the newly-installed filters are not doing satisfactory work and the filter company will be consulted in an effort to remedy this condition.

Antiquity of Gloves. How early did mankind think of the convenience of the fingerless glove? Little was said of gloves in ancient times, but in most cases it is obvious that they had fingers. Those worn by the secretary of the younger Pliny, used when he visited Vesuvius, so that he might keep on jotting down notes in spite of the cold, must have been fingered, no less than those of the glutton in Antheusus, who wore gloves at table so that he might handle the meat while hot and get in advance of his bare handed fellow diners.

Upper Valley Visitors Leave. After an extended trip to Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Harris of Johnson City, Tenn., spent the past fortnight with his sister, Mrs. George W. Allen at Parkdale. They will return via California, leaving their son Lester on the ranch and to later study at the O. A. C., after which he will decide whether or not to become a Hood River orchardist.

MAN VERSUS NATURE. Marvels That Are Wrought Through Synthetic Chemistry.

Nature, we may reflect, has a hard time in competition with the chemist. Her slow, laborious processes are one by one being superseded.

Her most delicate perfumes, which she dishes to us in drops, are made by the gallon in the laboratory. The infinite delicacy of her tints we stimulate from a material so unromantic as coal tar. We squeeze a cellulose product through a tiny hole, and we have the silk of the silk worm. We transform trees into paper and educate the world. We imitate the precious stones which Nature has produced by gigantic forces in upheaval, and the only difference, as was stated in our courts recently, is that the artificial product is more perfect than the real. Now the chemist takes starch, an unromantic material enough, and makes of it that rubber on which the wheels of the world go round.

In the course of his experiments man discovers a cheap method of making acetone, an essential of our modern high explosives. Somehow or other all man's experiments lead ultimately to the explosive, which again shows how we reverse processes, for, while Nature begins all her work with an explosion, man works up to the explosion as the highest expression of his conquest.—Westminster Gazette.
