HORSES WINTERED

DON'T send your team to eastern Oregon to winter and get a skeleton back that isn't fit to handle your spring work. Keep it here in the valley where you can see it at any time and see what good shape it is in. It will not cost you much more.

We have just put up some of the finest grain, timothy and alfalfa hay in the Upper Valley. We have a big stock barn and are prepared to care for a number of teams during the winter. We are making up our list now. If you want your team well cared for this winter, you had better write or phone for terms at once.

RECOMMENDS FARM FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Mrs. Alma L. Howe, writing to the Oregonian, recommends that the care of consumptives should be solved by the establishment of a state farm. She says in part:

Now that the tuberculosis question has been brought more forcibly before the people in the form of a tuberculosis day, let us stop to consider the best methods of fighting this white plague. I would like to offer a few suggestions as they have come to me. Each state should buy a large tract of land of 200 or 300 acres in its most isolated section, where it would be high and dry a good part of the year. Special care should be used in selection of a locality which offers those climatic conditions most inimical to the disease.

Those suffering from the disease should be divided in such a manner as to offer the best conditions for the recovery of each class of patients. Thirty or forty should be placed in each colony or camp in tents, with a central dining tent conducted on the cafeteria plan thus lessening the general expense by allowing each one to wait upon himself.

One camp should be for those in a less advanced stage who may have gone into a slight decline from continued colds, unchecked, until the system has no power of resistance.

Another camp should be for the less hopeful, many of whom no doubt could be helped if not cured. These two classes could assist upon the farm with light work, helping to produce their own necessities, vegetables, fruits, butter, etc.

Then comes the next class which has reached the incurable stage for which there is no hope but a merciful release. They should be segregated from the other classes, so that they might have no depressing influence upon the others.

"FOWL" CRIMES ARE BEING COMMITTED AT MOSIER

A recent item in the Mosier Bulletin says:

Some one in this neighborhood has a healthy appetite for chicken. Quite a number of the people have suffered from the depredations of the hen roost artists and many Sunday dinners have been minus a chicken. In two instances the nocturnal visitors to the poultry parlors left clues to their identity, but they were never followed up and of course the owners of the "claws" were naturally too modest to come forward and claim their property. At one place a bunch of keys was left in a padlock on a chicken house door and at another place a silver watch was accidentally left behind. Stealing chickens is a "fowl" crime and if these midnight marauders should chance some dark night to stop a load of birdshot, beans or salt, they might be somewhat pained, but need not be unduly surprised.

WHITE SALMON

(For the Enterpriser)

The largest local wager of the campaign was a bet of $50, made by Bryan R. Dorr with Wm. Rafter that Taft would not receive 50 electoral votes. Dorr did the collecting.

The Bailey Gatzert and J. N. Teal have been taken off the Portland and Dalles run, leaving The Dalles City of the Regular Line and the Tacoma of the Open River Line to handle the freight and passenger business. E. W. Creighton says both boats will run on schedule as heretofore.

W. Scott Coe and family have left for Minneapolis, where they will remain until the first of the year. A happy event of their visit in the East will be the marriage of their son Earl to a young lady who was his classmate in college. Earl and bride will return to White Salmon and make their home northeast of here.

Frank Walsh, engineer for the Northwestern Electric and for Bridges & Co., who took over the drainage of Conboy lake, says that work will be completed in about two weeks. Over five miles of ditch have been made, with lateral, the cost of which will reach about $100,000. The ditch is taking the water off most satisfactorily, farmers already having turned over soil which has never felt a plow. The project has reclaimed about 8,000 acres of rich soil, and besides adding to the productivity of the valley has materially increased the valuations of holders of the land drained. It has been just like adding to their bank account.

Regular Sunday excursion to Parkdale. Pleasant trip for yourself and friends.

ALL EUROPE WANTS HOOD RIVER APPLES

Harry E. Von Groenwald, former superintendent of the Portland Pinkerton detective service, has returned from a tour of Europe, where he spent six months and visited every country in the old world save the ones now at war. He tramped along their border lines, but the allies were then preparing for trouble and were not welcoming visitors. But the Portlander did Russia, Sweden, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Wales, France, Spain, Austria, Denmark, England, in fact every country in which an American can eat and make merry, von Groenwald saw. He says:

"Everyone out here has heard that the Oregon apple is favorably known in Europe, but until I visited there I had no idea that it was as popular with the classes who can afford to pay for it as it is. The finest hotels and restaurants in Great Britain and on the Continent serve this fruit whenever they are able to secure it, and the supply is never equal to one fourth of the demand. I was asked hundreds of questions about the Hood River country, this district being the best known of the Pacific Northwest fruit districts, although there is a growing interest in the Rogue River region, and I heard some talk of the new orchard district of the Chehalis Valley near Newberg.

"I had numerous inquiries regarding the possibilities of good investments from men of moderate means and capitalists with modest fortunes. I firmly believe the Panama Canal will mean much more to this part of the United States than the people living here realize. And I am more pleased with Portland than ever."

MAY NOT PERMIT FIVE DEER KILLED

The deer season which closed October 31, may be the last in which each hunter will be allowed to kill five deer. State Game Warden W. L. Finley is working for a reduction of the limit from five to two or three, probably two and a measure to that effect will be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

Oregon is the most liberal state in the Union at present, and although deer are still plentiful, the fact that their sequestered glens are being approached by steam and electric railroads makes a reduction of the limit necessary for the perpetuation of the species, according to Mr. Finley.

California and Washington, states which have as much deer ground as Oregon, allow the hunter to get but two deer in any season, while Montana permits three.

This measure may find considerable opposition from some hunters, but Mr. Finley is confident that the majority will be glad to see a reduction of the number allowed.

The season past has been marked by the absence of infractions of the laws, or at least absence of cases brought to the notice of officials. Other years many hunters were usually caught for killing deer after the season had legally closed.

Apple Propaganda and Onions

The apple growers are pushing with vigor the propaganda of the fruit which started Eve on her discovery of our great national institution, "moving day," and which led to unpleasantness on Olympus when Venus was awarded an apple in a beauty contest. "Eat an apple a day and you'll keep the doctor away," is a slogan many of the apple men are shouting. It sounds all right, but a wag replied: "Yes, and if you eat an onion a day you'll keep everyone away."

However, the apple is a fine fruit, and if more people ate it there would doubtless be fewer doctor's bills.

Incidentally, the growers would find the market for their fruit improving very rapidly.

Local Voters "Crisscrossed"

According to a local dispatch to the Portland Journal, it was noticed that in many instances local ballots that were marked for Wilson were also marked for Bourne. Many ballots marked for Roosevelt and many marked for Taft were marked for Lane, and nearly the entire vote cast against woman's suffrage was cast by those who voted the Progressive ticket for president. All of the county officials elected are Republicans.

Inspect Cascade Locks

General W. H. Bixby, Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., who is making an inspection tour of Government work on the Pacific Coast, visited and inspected the United States Canal and Locks on Wednesday, November 6th. General Bixby was accompanied by Captain Henry H. Robert, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, who is in charge of the First District, Portland, Ore.

SHORT COURSE MORE POPULAR THAN EVER

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis.—"It looks like a big short course attendance in horticulture," said Prof. C. L. Lewis, head of the division of horticulture at the Oregon Agricultural College, in discussing the heaviest short course mail ever received here. "There were 155 in attendance last year, 75 the year before and we are planning now to handle a registration much increased over any previous year."

"Our correspondence from outside the state is greater than ever. A leading New York apple grower will send his son and we have letters from many other states in the East. One of last year's students has gone into commercial orcharding in Massachusetts and another is superintending one of the largest peach orchards in the United States."

"Prof. V. R. Gardner, Prof. A. G. Bouquet and I will take with us to the Land Show at Portland some 30 of the regular horticulture students. I would not allow them this trip if I did not feel that they would receive more from it than from the class and laboratory work of the same period. Portland will be used as a nucleus for various horticultural trips, to the market garden regions, early morning trips to the truck markets, trips to the orchards, canneries, by-products manufacturers and the like. The students will gain much from the opportunity to study the exhibits at the show. We will pick out 100 plates of apples to be used in the fruit judging and identification contests. Then, when I am judging fruits and Prof. Bouquet is judging vegetables, the boys will be with us and will have new opportunity to learn points on judging."
