AN ODE TO THE CROAKER

A lot of old fossils with whiskers in tassel are always predicting the worst, we're in for a panic and evils titanic, and everything's going to burst. A lot of old grouches get up from their couches and beef till they toddle to bed, there looking with horror on every tomorrow and each has a boil on his head. This dirge they keep humming: "There's trouble a coming, 'e storm clouds are thick in the sky! They're gathering faster, the clouds of disaster, and there'll be a flood by and by!" Go to with your grunting! Go to with your hunting for omens of trouble and woe! The future's as pleasant and calm as the present, as smooth as the sweet long ago! A lot of old croakers in celluloid chokers sit around in the grocery store, and say we are bumping away to the dump, and sigh for the brave days of yore. But heed not their drivel, the grocers are too civil or they'd kicked into the street; the world is improving, the people are moving to glory on jubilant feet. The world's growing better so heed not the fretter and prophet of evil and gloom, but by the neck take him and biff him and push him clear out of the room.
