H. COLEMAN MEETS DEATH BY DROWNING

Harry Coleman, who formerly conducted a restaurant here, was drowned Monday at Stella, Wash., a logging town, 50 miles north of Portland, according to messages received here yesterday. Coleman was running a donkey engine. He left the hotel at noon and started to cross the mill pond on the dam. A short time afterwards his hat was seen floating on the water and when the pond was dragged his body was discovered.

ROMANCE ENDS IN WEDDING HELD HERE

A romance of long standing ended happily here Saturday when Robert C. Wright, a Portland attorney, and Miss Della Smith of Chicago were united in marriage by Rev. E. A. Harris in the presence of Miss Frazier and Mrs. C. H. Galligan. The wedding was kept a profound secret from their friends and when Miss Smith came from the East she was met here by the prospective groom. Mr. Wright met his bride years ago in a railroad office where both were employed and the wedding was the result of the courtship that was started at that time, when Mr. Wright was still a law student. After the ceremony they went to Portland to make their home.

GOVERNOR VETOES LOCAL SALARY BILL

Governor West has vetoed the bill introduced into the Legislature by Representative Stranahan and raising the salaries of the local county officials. This bill was introduced by Mr. Stranahan early in the session. When Governor West introduced his general salary bill, putting all salaries throughout the state on a uniform basis, Mr. Stranahan withdrew the bill. The Senate failed to pass the Governor's bill at the last moment and the local bill was again introduced, being the last measure to be passed by the House. The Senate also took favorable action, but the Governor consistently used the veto on all local salary measures.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Wickham, 421 12th street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

WANT MORE FRUIT WHEN CANAL OPENS

The London Daily Telegraph published on February 1 a lengthy article on the prospects for an increased sale of California, Washington and Oregon fruit in England consequent on the opening of the Panama canal. A few extracts therefrom follow:

The American means to cajole the British public into eating much more American fruit, and his method is the very popular one of providing it at lower rates than hitherto. It is the Panama canal that is to confer this boon on the fruit lovers of the British Isles, and, incidentally, to make the American harvest golden for all concerned.

Briefly, there is a scheme to bring large consignments of fruit from the Pacific Coast direct to England, via the Panama Canal. There are many knotty problems to be considered. Fruit from that part of the country is by no means unknown in this country. California sends regular supplies, the principal items being apples, seedless oranges, pears and plums. Oregon provides apples and pears, and Wenatchee in the state of Washington, is already famed for its magnificent apples. British Columbia likewise produces and exports apples of first-rate quality and handsome appearance.

The present facilities for transport, although admirable, involve much labor and expense. There is first the 300-mile journey across the American continent, and then a 3000-mile sea voyage. The actual mileage is not a matter of much moment; it is the cost and trouble of the transcontinental route that shippers are anxious to avoid.

BAND DIRECTOR LOCATES HERE

The Hood River Cornet Band has secured the services of Thomas Hill as leader. Mr. Hill is a graduate of the Royal Academy of Music, Kneller Hall, England, where he graduated in 1882. He occupied a position in the English army for eight years; served as musician in the 22nd, 3rd and 17th Infantry U. S. A., and went as bandmaster to the Philippines with the 45th U. S. V. Mr. Hill had charge of the Minneapolis Tribune Band and other bands for a number of years. The Hood River Band will be made up of 20 musicians who are all experienced players. Mr. Hill has opened a tailor shop here.

The committee which was appointed to investigate the matter of an electric line from the downtown section to the Heights has a comprehensive report to make at a meeting of all persons interested to be held at the home of Dr. Scobee next Monday evening.
