ODELL

The light showers which fell Sunday showed at sunset to have been snow on the hills beyond Neal Creek. It was quite cold here that evening.

The plum and cherry trees are now all a lovely garden and added to their color is the brilliant red of the wild flowering currant, which will well repay transplanting. There was even a sort of crude poetry in the long line of gravel wagons which was bound early Monday morning for Ben Krohn's gravel pit. The faithful and intelligent work of Supervisor Lacey shows to great advantage now on our roads. We never had better and he means to keep them so.

Percy Shelley of Sandy came up for a few days, leaving Monday morning for Portland to meet Mrs. Shelley and John, who came from a visit to their grandparents at Hillsboro.

J. T. Mitchell expects to have Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Young's new house done this week. It is a beautiful building. One of its chief features is an upstairs sleeping porch which will mean, we hope, health and long life to those who use it. Their many friends congratulate them on their possession of so lovely a home set in such glorious mountains. Why does anyone seek a home elsewhere?

Other church notices not previously handed in could not be obtained by phone as the wires were out of commission and as a consequence the phone service has been dead about half the time lately and it is hard after having had good service, to get what we have had lately, but we believe it will very soon improve.
