ODELL

It is impossible to do full justice to all the events in Odell during the past week.

The occasion which filled Odd Fellows Hall beyond its seating capacity was furnished by the graduating exercises of the 8th grade of Odell. Exercises were also given by younger classes including school and college songs. One adapted to Odell from the Cornell song was given by a leadership of Mrs. Guy Smith, whose exceptional musical abilities are so freely and kindly given to Odell. The usual class papers were given by the girl members of the class. Their colors were red and white. Miss Virgene Hager gave the valedictory studies, she stands first in the county and second in the state. We hope the promise of her lovely girlhood may be fulfilled. The graduates for 1913 were: Irwin Bowerman, Earl Sam Boles, Miles Lockman, Alice Clark, Virgene Hager and Lulu Prather. Looking at them on the platform they seemed quite too young for these honors and certainly much credit is due Principal Rush for their success. Odell is fortunate in securing his services next year.

On Tuesday of last week Mrs. L. D. Boyed entertained the 8th grade graduates at her home, the teachers also being present. Miss Vera Laferty was an invited guest as she has made up what she lacked in her 8th grade work for 1912 and completed the 9th grade work by grit and perseverance. While the young folks were at Mrs. Boyed's the strains of music were heard and the choir who were to sing Thursday gave a fine serenade to the class. This has been a satisfactory school year and we regret that all the teachers can not be here for another.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rhoades were driving in a single buggy from their home in the Middle Valley. Their horse took fright above the rocky hill beyond Frank Massee's, ran down the hill and upset the buggy on a sharp curve. Mr. Rhoades was so severely bruised from being thrown on the rocks that he could not walk and has been in bed ever since. Dr. McVay saw the accident. He telephoned to O. H. Rhoades and they took the young couple to his father's home where they could have every necessary care. Mrs. Rhoades' injuries, although painful, were not permanent. O. H. Rhoades hitched up and drove the young horse next morning.

Sunday Mrs. James Eggert and Mrs. Hagey as delegate Rebekahs, Otto Ehrck and R. H. Kemp for Kemp Lodge departed for Portland and were to leave on the special train Monday noon for the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows at Medford. The lodge work will not be over until Thursday night.

Mrs. H. S. Lewis came from Portland on the 12th to visit her son and also some other relatives and friends. She returned home last week as Helen is attending High School and Gladys, beside her school duties, has three music pupils. The girls were ably keeping house in her absence.

The first game was in singles played by Francis Miller of Barrett and Elmer Anderson, Frankton. Doubles were then played by Wade Robbins and Alfonso Firebaugh representing Barrett and Donald Nickelsen and Leander Anderson. Both games were won by Barrett. After a most delicious dinner a program was given in the High School room. The opening number was a song, "Oregon," by the school, a recitation by Archie Cayes, then a play, "Kindness to Animals," by the pupils of Mrs. Steele's room. This was followed by a duet by Erma Boyce and Bessie Ames, mechanical dolls, recitation by Lois Murphy, Bird Club play, then a song, "Dixie Land," by six boys, recitation by Susan Dowdell, presentation of diplomas by Prof. Thompson. There were three eighth grade graduates, Edna Thornbury, Merid Selton, Mattie Jensen and one tenth grade graduate, Ella Ox-borrow. Prof. Harrison gave a short talk and the program concluded with the singing of "America." After the program the men of the district played the boys a game of ball and were beaten, 19 to 13.
