After the Doctor--
THE DRUGGIST

The doctor's work is only half what has to be done for the patient. And if the druggist be lacking in ability and care the prescription might as well have never been written. But we make a special study of each case and our own medical knowledge is thorough enough to be of great use to us in those sometimes occurring cases when the doctor, in his haste, makes a slight error.

BOTH YAKIMA AND WENATCHEE HERE

Representatives from both Yakima and Wenatchee were present at the mass meeting held Saturday between the Board of Directors of the North Pacific Distributors and the Hood River growers.

At an all-day meeting held by the executive committee of the Yakima association last week the seven members were unable to reach a final decision on the question of joining with other districts in the creation of the central selling agency for the marketing of the crop of 1913.

No committee from the seven was willing to assume the responsibility for decision and it was determined that the situation warranted the entire membership coming to Hood River last Friday for a conference with the trustees of the Apple Growers' Association preliminary to the mass meeting held here Saturday.

Those who came were as follows: G. E. C. Johnson and L. B. Parsons of North Yakima, E. Farwell Morris of Grandview, J. J. Rudkin of Kennewick, O. S. Follansbee of Zillah, Dr. A. J. Pressy of Selah and Frank Sicksels of Naches. J. H. Robins, manager of the Yakima Association, was also present.

Although Wenatchee had decided not to join the Distributors it was to act as a selling agency, growers of that section sent John Gellatly as a representative. W. L. Clark of Wenatchee has taken no part in the plans since his resignation as president of the Distributors and Wenatchee now has no representative on the board of directors.

That section was invited to send a representative to the meeting here, however, and at a meeting last week of the Wenatchee Produce Co. (the Conrad Rose organization), Wenatchee-Columbia Fruit Co., Wenatchee Valley Fruit Growers' Association (the Clark organization), and P. H. Holcomb, Mr. Gellatly was designated. The Wenatchee World says:

"The Wenatchee delegate was empowered by the interests represented to affiliate with the Distributors to the extent recommended in the report of the special committee adopted at a conference of growers held at the Commercial Club some two weeks ago, when it was decided not to affiliate with the Distributors this year in a selling capacity, but the recommendation was in favor of a central organization having for its object the gathering of fruit statistics, advertising the Northwest apple, looking up markets, seeking better freight rates and work on general community interest."

WHITE SALMON (From the Enterprise)

George H. Anderson of White Salmon and Miss Marie Rose of The Dalles were married at Hood River, May 22. Mr. Anderson has been in the employ of the Swan-Hamann mill for several years.

County Commissioner Morginson was in White Salmon the latter part of last week, and in company with Messrs. Van Vorst and McClintock, two of the Commercial Club road committee, and Road Supervisor Temple, ran a temporary line for a new road from Cook's Addition to the Trout Lake road by way of the powder house. He considered the road feasible.

George W. Marshall shipped the first strawberries of the season last Saturday. It was a full crate of the large, luscious berries which have made White Salmon famous. They were grown on Mr. Marshall's place below the bluff. The first crate he shipped last year netted him over $11.00, but they were two weeks earlier than this year.

Arrangements have been made by the Commercial Club for two lectures here by E. A. Chamberlain, Development Commissioner of the Great Northern Railway, at 2:00 and 7:45 p. m., Monday, June 9. The services of Mr. Chamberlain were procured by the North Bank Road, the same people who had Professor Shaw deliver his two excellent addresses here two weeks ago.

NEW BORDERED FABRICS MAKE CHARMING SUMMER FROCKS

Those who skeptically shrug their shoulders and say, "O yes, those bordered materials are rather nice, but we get them every year" surely have not seen the wonderful weaves offered at the shops today, and they speak merely from past experience. To see those almost magic productions of the loom is to be crazy about them all, as they are enough to create an irresistible desire to embody at least some of them in frocks.

There is such a wide range of colors and textures for you to select from that it may prove a bit confusing unless you decide beforehand on the style of your dress.

And also in style we are given greater latitude than ever, individuality being insisted upon as the stamp of good taste in dress, with just a moderate adherence to certain prevailing modes. One of these, for instance, being the decidedly narrow lines at the foot, so narrow in fact that in many cases the slash has to be resorted to in order to insure comfort in walking.

These slashes, for which there has grown a sort of fondness, make it necessary to wear smart looking underskirts as there are glimpses caught of them now and then.

But to return to those bordered fabrics, one of them you can select for the making of the fetching little model shown here, as it is adapted for that kind of material.

This little dress is really quite simple and is not at all beyond the home sewer. There is that graceful drop-shoulder effect and the skirt is made in one piece, laid in soft plaits at the top, while the tunic, which is slightly draped, is also in one piece, and you know how easy that makes it. You can use bordered voile, chiffon or tulle, and the only trimming necessary is a bit of soft bright-colored silk for the giraffe.

AESTHETIC BLACKSMITHS

Messrs. Shively and Driscoll have demonstrated that they are aesthetic as well as practical blacksmiths by decorating the exterior of their shop with a pleasing variety of flowers. Instead of the dirt and grime that is supposed to surround a blacksmith shop, this one is clean and attractive to the eye. Flowering geraniums, heliotrope and mignonette as well as sweet peas and roses are included in the garden, which occupies a narrow strip around the building.

SEES CANNERIES AS A GREAT NEED

W. H. Paulhamus, president of the Puyallup (Wash.) Valley Fruit Growers' Association, firmly believes that canneries and evaporators should be installed in every fruit district in the Pacific Northwest. Mr. Paulhamus has made a wonderful success in handling the berry industry of the Puyallup valley.

"Growing the fruit," he says, "is only part of the fruit industry. After the fruit is grown it must be sold at a profit to insure a permanent industry. In my judgment, our people of the Northwest have been devoting too much of their time to planting trees and selling real estate, and not nearly enough of their time in establishing a market for their fruit after it is grown. I believe that the year 1912, with its low prices, has been one of the best things that has happened to our apple growers, for it will give us an opportunity to 'stop, look and listen.'"

It doesn't make any difference how high class our fruit is if we are unable to sell it, but we all realize that a large percentage of the fruit grown on the best handled orchards is second, third or fourth class, and, in fact, some of it might be better designated as culls. It is a much easier task to sell the 40 per cent high class fruit than the 60 per cent of the lower class under the existing conditions. The market for our high class fruit has been developed in a small way, but the marketing of the large end of the crop up to the present time has been entirely overlooked.

"I am satisfied that we must give our attention to evaporating plants, cider and vinegar plants, and canning plants. This is not a pleasant condition to face, but it is a real condition and not a theory. It is a well established fact that the greatest percentage of the output of California is of the dried product, and we growers of the Northwest must make a study of the various methods through which we can market our fruit before the industry will be on a permanent basis. Expenditure in establishing the evaporating end of the business will not be very heavy. But in order to do the work properly a study must be made of the evaporator work done by other growers of like fruit."

Christian and Missionary Alliance Sunday School at 9:45, H. C. Dietz, superintendent. Preaching at 11 a. m. Young People's Meeting at 7:15 p. m. Evangelistic service at 8 p. m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:45. These are all gospel meetings. Our motto: "Jesus Only." All are cordially invited. W. P. KIRK, pastor.
