Weather Machine, more at CEBU

This week at CEBU Lounge:
Friday, April 24, The Weather Machine, 9:30 p.m. High Energy NW Folk Rock. "Critics have compared The Weather Machine to The Kinks and Paul McCartney. The truth? This band is hard to categorize, which is a big part of the appeal. Their high-energy live show has struck a chord with Northwestern audiences, resulting in sold out performances at Mississippi Studios and the Sisters Folk Festival, a featured performance at Bend's Les Schwab Amphitheater. They're touring in support of their sophomore full-length album 'Peach.'"
Saturday, April 25, Amber & The Pale Ales 9:30 p.m. Hood River Soulful Rock. "Amber and the Pale Ales are a four-piece acoustic folk-rock band playing covers and originals, incorporating three-part harmonies and melodic guitar solos, and based around the powerhouse vocals of Amber Nelson." PREPPING FOR FASHION

The April 16 HRVHS Fashion Club spring show was a creative and financial success, reports club advisor Cathy Carter. Twelve club members displayed fashions they created, and helped about 20 youngsters who participated in fashion camps this month and in the fall. Alondra Gaeta applies makeup while Elexis McAllister, center, and Casey Holzman work on Leah Ralph's hair. At right, Gaeta steps out in a white gown during rehearsal. About 80 people attended the event, which raised $1,370 for the fund to assist the family of Lila May Schow, 4, who has cancer. The "fringe fashionistas" from 2014 showed their styles, and the 2015 crew walked out in their new Tyvek tops and tutus — the tutus in honor of Lila May. The May 9 Tutu Trot at Mark Hatfield Trailhead is the next benefit for the Schow family.
