

Arnold celebrates 50 years of dance Saturday

Charlotte Arnold is celebrating 50 years of tap instruction with a special dance performance on June 27 at the Rockford Grange, 4250 Barrett Drive, from 2-5 p.m. Arnold's current and former tap students, as well as anyone who has danced with her during her formative years, are invited to come before the 2 p.m. start time to get ready.

Because the weather is expected to be in the 100-degree range, participants are asked to come in comfortable active wear — or even an old dance costume.

While the event is casual, participants should come in clothing suitable for dancing. Wear tap shoes if you have them.

Hazel Bowe

Hazel Bowe was born on Sept. 3, 1930, to Mart Porterfield and Nellie Belle Young Porterfield in Windsor, Mo. She passed away in Hood River, Ore. on June 23, 2015, with her children in attendance.

Hazel moved with her family to the Hood River Valley in the spring of 1937. They came because of the Dust Bowl in the Midwest. Mart had $25 in his pocket when they arrived and he went to work immediately with her two older brothers, Eugene and Leonard.

Hazel attended schools in Mount Hood and Parkdale and graduated from high school at age 16. She then attended Eastern Oregon College for one year and then spent a year in Portland working.

In 1949 she married Charles Stuart Bowe (Chuck). He was attending Willamette University on the GI Bill. Within the next four years Larry, Lindea and Marty joined the family.

Hazel has been an active and involved member of her community, always active in church guilds, and was a 50-year member of Beta Sigma Phi. She was also a volunteer at Providence Hood River and Providence Newberg Medical Centers.

The greatest joy of her life was as a wife, mother and grandmother and she was fabulous in those endeavors. Hazel always had a beautiful flowering landscape and was a wonderful cook.

Hazel is survived by her children: Larry (Kelly), Lindea (Ricky) and Marty (Wendy); her grandchildren: Travis Bowe, Taylor Tanner and Spencer Gray, and Aden Kirschner; and great-grandchildren Ryan Parker Bowe, Luke and Georgia Ryan Bowe; and her brothers Leonard and Scott Porterfield (Arlene).

She was predeceased by her parents, her husband, Chuck, her brother Eugene and his wife, Joyce Porterfield, and sister-in-law Gertrude Porterfield; and grandchildren Ryan Bowe and Olivia Ussery.

No flowers, please; remembrances are encouraged to be made to Hood River Rotary Club for the "Bowe Family Scholarship" or Hood River Community Education for the Ryan S. Bowe Scholarship.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, June 29, at Anderson's Tribute Center.

Arrangements under the direction of Anderson's Tribute Center (Funerals • Receptions • Cremations), 1401 Belmont Ave., Hood River, OR 97031; 541-386-1000. Please visit andersonstributecenter.com to leave a note of condolence for family.

Juanita Clymer

Juanita Marie Clymer was born Nov. 6, 1919, in Hood River, Ore., to George and Delphia (Giggey) Burris. Juanita grew up in the Hood River Valley and attended schools at Barrett and Hood River High.

On Nov. 2, 1940, she married Keith Henry Clymer, and moved to his family farm in Pine Grove off Highway 35, and remained there until 1992; then moved to town on Tucker Road.

At the time of her death she was at the Hood River Care Center on Belmont in the Expressions unit.

In her 95 years here on Earth she was busy living and caring for the family orchard along with her husband and their three children: Vicki, Keith Jr. (Bill) and Sharon. She also was involved with the Rebekah Lodge in Odell, a bowling league in Hood River and Amicus club in Pine Grove. Juanita and Keith also helped family members (and friends) with letting them stay if needed on the farm, taking care of children through the church who were waiting to be adopted and helping a couple of young men at the time have a safe haven.

Juanita and Keith attended Hood River Valley Christian Church, where they were members of the congregation for many years. They had many happy years together, traveling at every chance they got, whether it was a day trip or extended trips, from around the area where they lived, to Hawaii and Europe. Of course Juanita's favorite places were casinos; she liked to gamble for fun and usually walked away with more than what she started with.

She had many friends, but her lifelong friends were Frances Chambers, Jennie Vann, Shirley Winters and Carol Picking; Dorothy (Dode) Radliff and June Campbell preceded her in death.

Juanita will be missed by many, along with her children and their spouses: Vicki and Kiyoushi, Keith and Marlene, and Sharon and ex, Alan; brother James with wife Elsie, and brother Rex; and sisters Anita and Karen; grandchildren, great-grandchildren and her numerous nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Keith; sister Mary and brothers Hartley, John, Robert, George, Chuck and Donald.

We would like to thank Hood River Care Center's staff and Heart of Hospice.

A funeral service will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 1, at Idlewild Cemetery, 980 Tucker Road, Hood River. A celebration of life will be held July 11 at 2 p.m. at the Hood River Valley Christian Church, 975 Indian Creek Road, Hood River. Remembrances may be made to Heart of Hospice.

Dr. Kristen Dillon named director of Gorge Coordinated Care Organization

PacificSource Community Solutions has hired Kristen Dillon, M.D., as director of the Columbia Gorge Coordinated Care Organization. Dillon will also serve as associate medical director for Medicaid programs.

In her role, Dillon will connect and advance the work of Columbia Gorge CCO partners, including the Columbia Gorge Health Council and regional healthcare and social service providers. The PacificSource Columbia Gorge CCO serves more than 13,300 Oregon Health Plan members in Hood River and Wasco counties.

"As an experienced family physician, Dr. Dillon will be a dynamic addition to the PacificSource team and to the communities we serve," said Dan Stevens, PacificSource Health Plan's executive vice president of product line management. "Her deep roots in the Columbia Gorge medical community and her experience practicing Dillon is a board-certified family physician who has been in practice in Hood River for 15 years. Prior to joining PacificSource, she provided primary care services, including hospital,

Give your trees a deep drink during hot weather

The weather forecast is calling for high temperatures around most of the state through the weekend and even into the middle of next week. It's a time to keep fire prevention uppermost in our minds, and also, to remember to protect the health of trees in yards and landscapes by deeply watering them.

"Summer temperatures can be hard on trees, especially landscape trees in our urban areas," said Kristin Ramstad, an urban forester with the Oregon Department of Forestry. "If they aren't well-watered, warm weather and prolonged drought eventually make trees more susceptible to insect and disease problems," said Ramstad.

Seems like a good time to remember that when temperatures in Oregon get warm and stay warm, it can take a toll on trees as well as people. The Oregon Department of Forestry suggests a few tips for keeping your trees healthy during times of heat stress.

Symptoms of drought
One of the first signs that a deciduous tree (i.e., trees like birches or maples that drop leaves in the winter) needs water is that its leaves begin to look dull, and sometimes, limp.

More advanced symptoms of needing water are browning of leaves, wilting, and curling at the edges. Leaves may also develop a scorched or burned look, turning yellow or brown on outside edges, or between leaf veins. Leaves may even appear smaller than usual, drop prematurely, or turn brown but remain on the tree.

When drought-stressed, the needles of conifers (evergreen trees such as Ponderosa pine or Douglas-fir) may turn yellow, red, purple or brown.

Watering tips

Given their benefits, longevity, and contributions to the environment, give your trees higher watering priority than lawns. Keep in mind that if trees are only provided with shallow water every so often, they're probably only getting a fraction of what they need. Watering trees for short periods of time encourages shallow rooting, which can lead to future health problems for the tree.

To make sure your tree gets the water it needs, saturate the soil within the drip line - that's the circle that could be drawn on the soil around the tree directly under the tips of its outermost branches. Using a regular hose or a soaker hose, water deeply and slowly - slowly is important, so the water doesn't run-off. To make sure it gets enough water, keep moving the hose around different areas under the tree.

For conifers, water 3 to 5 feet beyond the drip line on all sides of the tree. Also, if you have a choice, water trees during the cooler part of the day. Another way to water trees slowly is to put a nail hole in the bottom (near the edge) of a five gallon bucket.
