Deadline extended

The Hood River County Education Foundation will administer eight separate scholarships in 2020 for Hood River County students who have graduated from Hood River Valley High School, will be in their sophomore, junior or senior years of college starting in the fall of 2020, and are currently enrolled in college. Applicants must be planning to complete a minimum of two semesters (or three trimesters) in college, community college, or a technical/trade program by June 30.

To apply, download instructions and forms at hrcef.org/college-scholarships. Email the application as an attachment from your email address and attach the Student Aid Report (page 1 only) from your 2019 FAFSA to ed.foundation@hoodriver.k12.or.us. Transcripts should be mailed to HRCEF, 1011 Eugene St., Hood River, OR 97031. Letters of recommendation must be signed by the person writing the recommendation and be sealed in college/university envelopes and sent to the mailing address above or emailed directly from the recommender's college email address to the email address above.

The Foundation has extended the college scholarship application deadline to April 17 in light of the coronavirus-related closures, said a press release. Contact the Foundation at ed.foundation@hoodriver.k12.or.us for additional questions or concerns.

Available scholarships are as follows:

- Ruth and Horace Daum Memorial Scholarship (up to six scholarships, $2,000 each): Students attending any two- or four-year college may apply. Available only for students studying nursing, music or any science-related field.

nesses, including restaurants and other food and beverage establishments offering take-out or delivery services, are allowed to stay open.

The order also authorizes the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department to close any property or facility where proper social distancing can't be maintained, and establishes guidelines for areas that do remain open.

Childcare facilities are allowed to remain open if they can keep children separated in "stable" groups of 10 or fewer — which means that the same kids need to be in the same group each day, and that groups aren't in the same room — and facilities are directed to prioritize the childcare needs of first responders, emergency workers and healthcare professionals, followed by critical operations staff and "essential personnel."

The order directs people to "minimize travel, other than essential travel," defined as travel to work, to obtain food, shelter, "essential consumer needs," education or healthcare; travel to care for family/household members and other vulnerable populations including the elderly, minors, persons with disabilities and vulnerable pets or livestock; and government-mandated travel, such as travel to court.

"I'm asking all residents and visitors who love Hood River to please pay attention to guidance from healthcare professionals and stay home."

Mayor Kate McBride

People are advised to obey social distancing guidelines "to the greatest extent possible" when they do leave their homes, and allows people to go outside for "recreational activities" so long as it is possible to maintain appropriate social distancing.

"The purpose of this executive order is to reduce person-to-person interaction with the goal of slowing transmission," Brown said. Shortly after Brown issued

"Stay Home, Save Lives," the City of Hood River announced that all of its public facilities — including Waterfront park, Jackson Park, Children's Park, Tsuruta Tennis Courts, Collins Field and neighborhood parks — are now closed to promote social distancing and public health.

"I'm asking all residents and visitors who love Hood River to please pay attention to guidance from healthcare professionals and stay home," said Mayor Kate McBride in a press release. "We need to stop all non-essential travel both into and out of our community."
