DOINGS OF WOMEN

COLLECTED INSECTS.

TO her early studies in entomology Miss Mary Youmans owes a splendid ranch in northern California worth $40,000. Miss Youmans went to California twenty years ago and settled with her two brothers in what was then the wilderness. At her home in England she had been interested in the study of insects, and had, in fact, made a collection of butterflies. She knew something about what were rare specimens and how to prepare them for the cabinets of collectors. She soon found that the woods and fields about her new home were full of rare and beautiful species and set about preparing them for the market. She opened correspondence with colleges and museums in this country and Europe and soon built up a large and profitable business. Now she owns a handsome property, for which she has chiefly to thank the bright-winged butterflies and beetles of California.

American Girls.
If an Englishman wants to succeed in public life, in fact, if he wants a mascot, he straightaway seeks out an American girl for his wife. That the American girl brings luck, fame and generally wealth to her English husband has been demonstrated over and over. Look at Curzon's career. Since he married Miss Lettice he has become Viceroy of India. Glance at the Duke of Marlborough. His fortune was rehabilitated by his taking of Consuelo Vanderbilt to wife, and now he is to be made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Lord Randolph Churchill married Miss Jerome, and became a member of the British cabinet. Joseph Chamberlain is a power in English politics, and his wife was an American girl, Miss Endicott. Even Rudyard Kipling must be classed among the greatly successful Englishmen who have American wives. Truly, the American girl is a treasure and nobody knows it better than the American boy.—Chicago Democrat.

Novelties in Hats.
While hats have been generally conventional, there are a few odd shapes that catch the eye and please the feminine taste as being pretty and decorative.

Women Head the List.
The proportion of women among centenarians is nearly twice that of men. A group of people cited by one of the most careful and least credulous of the numerous authors of works on the subject, shows that out of sixty-six persons who were 100 years old and upward there were forty-three women and twenty-three men.

Knows Her Latin.
Miss Eva Johnston has been chosen assistant professor of Latin in the University of Missouri. For the last three years she has had the chair of Latin at the Columbia, Mo., high school. She was selected for the university over a large number of applicants.

The Popular Girl
She never talks dress when men are listening.
She writes to men only upon very special occasions.
Never keeps a man waiting if she has an engagement.
The girl we picture goes out of her way to do kind things.
Popular girls are never spiteful, seldom jealous and never stupid.
Is careful to be correctly dressed for every occasion, and never overdresses.
She is gentle toward children, animals and elderly people, and polite toward those inferior to her in social position.
She is never slangy, nor does she permit men to chaff her or wax familiar, yet she enjoys a joke and likes merry-hearted companions.
The ancient Britons often wore the dragon or serpent as a helmet crest.

French Women's Papers.
A copy of a curious newspaper has been found in the French national archives. It is dated Jan. 4, 1808, and is called L'athene des Dames. The articles are evidently written by women, and the object of the paper seems to have been an equal footing with men. The feminine pioneers of 1808 were evidently nearly 100 years ahead of their times. La Fonde, the Parisian newspaper, written, printed and published by women, is now in its third year, and appears to be successful, while only one copy of L'athene des Dames is to be found.

You Make a Mistake.
In imagining that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained.
If you think that the more you eat the fatter and stronger you become.
In thinking that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in.
If you think that the more hours a child studies at school the faster he will learn.
In eating without any appetite, or continuing to eat after it has been satisfied, merely to gratify the taste.
In concluding that, exercise being healthful, the more violent or exhausting it is the more good it will do.
In advising another to take a remedy which you have tried on yourself, without special inquiry whether all the conditions are alike.

The Touchstone of Amiability.
Is there any woman who cannot be amiable? Do not understand me to mean the forced sweetness that degenerates into flattery. Such an attitude is unworthy. The first definition of "amiable" given in the dictionary is "worthy of love." To be worthy of love we must get ourselves into right relationship with the world. Love begets love, and the woman who would be amiable in the highest sense must learn to love her fellow-man. She should seek out the older people, and find what delightful companionship she has hitherto missed. If she will sympathize with the younger boys and girls she can be most helpful in their affairs of heart and ambition. The love affair of Jack of 21 and Betty of 18 may seem to her foolish in the light of her larger, deeper experience, but she should remember her own life-story, and bring some of the great tenderness which seeks for an outlet to the unraveling of their tangled skeins of perplexity.—Woman's Home Companion.

Because She is a Woman.
Because she is a woman, Mrs. Merris H. Abbott cannot be prosecuting attorney of Ogemaw County, Michigan. She was elected to the office last fall, and now she must step down and out because she is a woman and for no other reason. This is the decision of a majority of the justices of the Michigan Supreme Court in the case of the Attorney General against Mrs. Abbott, which was argued at the April term of court, and which has been under consideration for six months. Mrs. Abbott appeared and argued the case in her own behalf. She is a duly qualified attorney at law, graduating from the university, and there was no bar to her occupancy of the office except her sex.

MRS. ABBOTT.

To Retain One's Beauty.
Don't roll your eyes up into your head as if they were marbles; a fine pair of eyes will be utterly ruined by this operation. A girl with a pretty mouth will purse it into the prettiest bouton, and continue the habit until many lines form about the lips, and the once lovely mouth has to be put into the hands of the beauty doctor. Nearly every woman bites or sucks her lips. Others contract the brows and produce two furrows between the eyes.
Others wrinkle the forehead with frowns.
Others perpetually wear a tip-tilted nose.
It must be remembered that a truly expressive face does not consist of a set of features hung on strings or wires. Cultivate placid features.

Women at Harvard.
Professor Wendell's attack on the present liberal policy of Harvard's administration towards the women in the Radcliffe annex calls attention to the growth of this branch of the university. It was only after a long and stubborn fight that the annex was established, twenty years ago. There are now more than 500 women in attendance, the number increasing each year. At the opening of the present term it was announced that 111 courses were open to the women. Not many avail themselves of all; the course in Sanskrit last year, for instance, was taken by only one student.
