CONGRESSMAN TONGUE AND OTHERS.

The unusual contest promised in the First Congressional District for Hon. Thomas H. Tongue's seat in the national congress reminds the New Age that the latter's official record is in no degree disparaged by a full and impartial comparison with that of any of his predecessors in that high place. There is no doubt that among those who are already manifesting their ambition to receive the nomination are able men. The same is true with respect to the incumbent of any important public office and those who would be pleased to occupy his place. But the question for the people of the First Congressional District to determine for themselves is whether or not a change at this time, at the very inception of a new type of history in the commercial and political life of the Pacific coast, and particularly of Oregon, would result in advantage to them and their common interests.

Congressman Tongue is now serving the period of his second term in the national body of law-makers. His service has throughout both terms been marked with signal ability and unquestionable faithfulness to the interests of his constituents. His alertness and persistence in behalf of the general interests of Oregon have on all occasions of public importance secured for him pronounced commendation from the people and the press of the state. He has been fair and impartial in every official act and is regarded in the house of representatives as one of its most sincere, able and conscientious members. In Oregon he is too well known as a man of integrity, honor and sterling ability to require praise of his personal qualities in these columns.

Without degrading a single virtue his competitors for the congressional nomination this year may possess, for they are all gentlemen of more or less ability and good reputation, the New Age believes it is in harmony with public sentiment in this state when it expresses belief that Hon. Thomas H. Tongue should be returned to congress again this year to enable him to pursue to completion, as no other man can at this time, the great bulk of good work he has so excellently begun in behalf of the substantial progress of this commonwealth, and particularly to enable him to finish his well-directed effort looking to public improvements in his district, inaugurated at the present session of congress under conditions of great embarrassment produced by the exigencies of war and the consequent depletion of the public treasury. Suppose we make it a purely business proposition this time and send Congressman Tongue back to his great task in Washington.

HON. J. M. CHURCH.

The election of Hon. J. M. Church to be president of the Republican League of Oregon was an honor most creditably bestowed. The position was unsought by the old "war-horse" of Union county, and at first he urged his disinclination to permit his name to be used to the embarrassment of those who were really ambitious to gain the honor. Finally, however, observing that the sentiment in his behalf was too strong to overcome, he yielded, and, although opposed by another candidate from the bright little city of which Mr. Church is mayor (the opposition being predicated on the assumption that a "slate" had been covertly arranged by the Multnomah delegation), Mr. Church was elected by a vote of 509 against a ballot of 276 for Mr. J. W. Scriber.

Hon. J. M. Church is one of the notable figures in Oregon politics. Against most embarrassing odds he has fought a valiant battle in Union county for the success of the Republican party on every issue it promulgated. So effective was his courageous work that Union county, in the last election, was second only to Jackson in the matter of gain in Republican strength. Mr. Church's method of campaign is that of a modest, but earnest man. He appeals to the intelligence of men rather than to their prejudice. He reasons with them rather than to engage them in fretful altercation. Facts and figures are at his command and he employs them most substantially. Merchants, farmers and professional men of every class give him audience because they know that he will not express an opinion on important public matters which is not fully supported by current conditions.

Of such men as Hon. J. M. Church the character of the Republican party is made. His election to the presidency of the Republican League of Oregon was an honor justly bestowed. It was an honor due to Eastern Oregon, and in Eastern Oregon no one more richly deserved it than Hon. J. M. Church.

Mr. McBride is entirely too small a man for the senate at such a time as this, when Oregon needs and deserves so much at the hands of congress and the various departments of government. Mr. Corbett is already a man of national reputation, and if elected he would at once take a high and dignified rank among the nation's lawmakers. Gentlemen and discriminating generosity counts for a good deal these days in such a position, and no Oregon man could or would exhibit so much of the kind of liberality that "takes" in Washington as he. He would care nothing about emoluments, but only to make a fine record for the state in which he has spent nearly all his manhood, and been successful.

HON. THOS. H. TONGUE, Congressman From the First District, Who Will Undoubtedly Receive Renomination.

An Excellent Company. A warm welcome awaits the appearance of the popular Moore-Roberts company at Corvay's next week. This theatrical organization gained many admirers in this city by virtue of the talents of its members. The company is well and evenly balanced, the minor roles invariably being in capable hands, while the principals are most excellent. Miss Moore has recovered the use of her voice so that playgoers will now have an opportunity to hear some of the songs which have made her famous in Australia. H. R. Roberts is an actor of great promise, who won numerous friends by his consummate art. The engagement will open with "Mrs. Quinn's Twins."

Money to Push Railroad Building. The Bellingham Bay & British Columbia railroad has given a trust deed to its property in Whatcom county to the Bank of California to secure the payment of $1,000,000 in first mortgage bonds. The deed was executed in San Francisco on December 1, and was filed for record in the auditor's office in Whatcom county on January 23. The document is the most voluminous of any ever filed there, and it required $499.50 in revenue stamps. It is the purpose of the company to pay off an indebtedness of about $60,000 on the road, and the balance realized from the sale of the bonds to the Bank of California will be used in construction work. The instrument calls for the completion of 24 miles of additional road this year, on which will be issued in bonds $17,000 per mile. This extension is the one now under survey from Sumas to Boulder Creek.

Nine workhorses, at Elgin, have brought $85 to $100 a head.
