HAPPY NEW YEAR.
 The New Age extends to its many patrons a greeting of good cheer in the sincere wish that they may, without exception, enjoy a happy New Year. May their prosperity continue unbrokenly in every legitimate pursuit.

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

The year about to close has been one of extraordinary events in the history of our proud nation, in the rapid formation of which the whole world is deeply concerned. We have added to our territory possessions of rich resources. We have added largely to our military strength in order to be able to defend them, and maintain peaceable conditions therein. We added grandeur to the character of our nation in matters of international moment. We have increased our domestic wealth most wonderfully and developed our resources in a most remarkable measure. In short, in no previous twelvemonth in the history of our republic have we so substantially shown to the world our strength as a nation, our progressive ambition as a people and our purpose as one of the great powers of the world.

A great task is before us during the next 12 months. We have only made beginning along our new lines of activity. Our duty appears in mere outline. The great work is yet to be done, and its magnitude will increase as we proceed with it. Whether our fortune will favor us in the year about to open so conspicuously is a question to be solved largely by the power and wisdom with which we manage our operations, both at home and abroad.

The New Age believes that our national affairs will continue to be administered by statesmen of wisdom; that prosperity will continue to abound and that our material development will give us reason for self-gratulation in a degree equally as satisfactory as that which now marks the change from the old to the new year.

A BLEMISH OF INFAMY.

Citizens of the United States generally view with a pardonable sense of pride the culmination of the events of the past year, in much of which our people happily join; but there are political features of one element of this progress which afford us only pain and alarm. The unjust and unconstitutional disfranchisement of the Negroes in certain Southern states, the avowed purpose to pursue a similar course in other states, and the general indifference with which this political outrage is regarded by those whose friends the colored voters have steadfastly been, are aspects of the work of the year which no impartial citizen of intelligence ought to regard with unconcern. Such an outrage at the close of the 19th century carries with it to the first page of the succeeding century a blemish of infamy which ought not to be suffered in this enlightened age in the foremost country of progress on the face of the earth. We have hope that it shall not be long tolerated, but that hope is faint when we find scant encouragement in "the house of our friends."

For this political affliction our people cannot be joyous. They are downcast, but determined. They accept this crown of thorns as an emblem of their patience, but their fortitude is not all-enduring. Native intelligence, finished education, strength and skill in industrial pursuits, progress in the arts and sciences, good citizenship in every walk of life and undiminished ambition to keep steady pace with the leaders in the march of advancement in every legitimate line of activity will win back "the lost heritage" of our people and again clothe them with their rights, privileges and the honor of American citizenship.

LEGISLATIVE SIDE ISSUES.

Ex-Senator S. L. Moorhead, of Junction City, who was chief clerk of the senate in 1898, is again a candidate for the place. A. V. R. Snyder, of McMinnville, who was journal clerk of the house in 1898, is said to be after the chief clerkship of that body. Frank Motter, of Portland, and ex-Railroad Commissioner J. B. Eddy, of Forest Grove, are willing to serve as reading clerk of the senate; Motter was reading clerk in the house in 1898, and Eddy read for the senate in 1891. E. W. Allen and Penumbra Kelly, of Portland, are candidates for sergeant-at-arms of the house. Frank Davey, of Salem, wants to be reading clerk of the house. Frank C. Middleton, of Portland, wishes to return to his position as calendar clerk of the senate, and D. B. Mackie, of Portland, wishes again to serve the house as calendar clerk. Bruce Cain, of Clackamas, is candidate for sergeant-at-arms of the house. Chas. W. Fulton, of Clatsop, and W. A. Howe, of Yamhill, are mentioned as the two prominent candidates for president of the Oregon senate. L. B. Reeder, of Umatilla; George L. Story, of Multnomah, and J. N. Smith, of Marion, are the prominent candidates spoken of for speaker of the house of representatives.

CORBETT BEYOND DOUBT.

Accessions to the Corbett ranks are being made every day. They come not only from the leading men of the state in civil life, but from the foremost officials in various capacities, including members of the legislature who do not affiliate with the Republican party on strictly partisan matters. But they wisely conceive that this is not by any means a party matter. The question of the character, capacity and influence of our next United States senator is one of momentous interest to every intelligent resident of the state. It is a business affair in which common interests are at issue and in which popular interests should predominate. The outlook is in every way enthusiastically reassuring for Mr. Corbett, for the party, for the people and for the material interests of the entire state.

Leonard Fowler, the bright editor and publisher of "The State," of Tacoma, was in the city this week. Mr. Fowler was accompanied by Mrs. Fowler, a most charming and estimable lady, whom the genial editor has just taken unto himself. This, of all others, is indeed the most propitious of seasons for such an undertaking, and The New Age extends to the happy couple not only the compliments of the season, but its best wishes for their future welfare.

Small Gardens.
 Nearly 100,000 pounds of snails are sold daily in the Paris markets to be eaten by dwellers in that city. They are carefully reared for the purpose in extensive small gardens in the provinces, and fed on aromatic herbs to make their flavor finer. One snailery in Dijon is said to bring in to its proprietor seven thousand francs a year. Many Swiss cantons also contain large small gardens where they are grown with much pains. They are not only regarded as a great delicacy, but are reckoned as very nutritious. Hygienists say that they contain 17 per cent of nitrogenous matter, and that they are equal to oysters in nutritive properties.
