The young men at West Point who men have again been making an exhi-bition of themselves. They are undergoing an investigation by the two branches of congress for the alleged hazing of a cadet which resulted in his death. Like the New York police, it is almost impossible to get a cadet at West Point to tell the truth in any investigation into their hazing or other rescality. They are as skilled jugglers with the truth as they were when they hounded Whittaker out of West Point years ago. If the investigaton does nothing else it will hitch upon these gentlemen the fact that they are past grand masters of the art of prevarica-tion, and that they do not hesitate to violate the rules and regulations established by the military authorities for the government of West Point. This will be a point gained.

It is to be hoped that the investiga-West Point and to the managers of the such a policy at the school as will at least make gentlemen out of men who are ultimately to command our army. That they carry the bad manners which they cultivate at West Point into the active service of the army was demonstrated in the treatment accorded to Lieutenant H. O. Flipper, to Alexander, and to all the other men of ours who have got into active service and who have got into active service and who were either aidetracked; because of persecution or hounded out of the service. The army and navy are the only aristocratic branches of the government which arrogate to themselves the exclusiveness which amounts to a national offence.

The Washington atmosphere is much agitated by the applications of Afro-Americans who want to succeed the Hon. Judson W. Lyons as register of the treasury, the Hon. H. P. Chestham as recorder of deeds, and the Hon. John P. Green as stamp agent. The Washington Evening Star says that none of these gentlemen will be re-moved, as they have given satisfaction in the discharge of their duties. If the Afro-Americans who want to serve their country would believe that they cannot succeed any of the gentlemen here named and would go in for some other positions in the foreign and domestic service, they would save them-selves a lot of sleepless hours and a big chunk of disappointment in the round

At Cordray's Theater.

Signorini Estetani Collamarini will surely appear as Carmen. Mignon and Azucena and Il Trovatore with the Boston Lyric Opera Company during their engagement in this city at Cordray's theater, week beginning January 6. No better evidence of pluck and determination, coupled with a desire to give the music loving people of this city an opportunity to enjoy the very best the musical world affords, can be offered through Colonel Thompson's engagement of Collamarini, Russo and Alessandroni for the Boston Lyric Opera Company, which contains the great favorites, Josephine Stanton, Bertha Davis, Sara Carr, Daisy Howard, Henry Hallum, John Henderson, George Kunkel, Charles Huntington and the superb chorus of 35 voices. It is safe to say that Colonel Thompson's is safe to say that Colonel Thompson's liberality will be dully appreciated, and that capacity houses will be in order. The sale of seats is now on. The following will be the repertoire: Collamarini nights, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, when "Carmen," "Il Trovatore," "Mignon" will be produced. Comic opera nights, "Fenoing Master," "Biol's Eye" and "Wane." "Wang."

At the Metropolitan.

You are pretty sure of picking a winner when you bet on the fun and amusement offered by the new "Turkish Bath' Company. Manager F. A. Wade has piloted many dramatic ventures successfully, and this is one of his most ambitious efforts in the amusement line. Among the members of the admirable cast we note Miss Etta Merris, the soubrette, who ren-ders quaint and eccentric sougs in a charming manner, and Mr. E. L. Graves is a comedian of well known reputation. It is five years since the play made a trip to the woast, and it has recently been rewritten, and brought up to date by Mr. William Lyteli, the successful farce comedy writer. With an organization possessing so many pleasing features in the way of songs, dances and refined spec-ialties, the audience should only be limited by the size of the house when it is presented at the Metropolitan theater next Sunday night and all weck.
