KING OF ITALY.

He Is Posse-sed of Great Will Power an I Many Acc. molishments.

Whatever he does, no matter how trivial, is attacked (I use the word advisedly) with such force and such determination that it is invariably carried to a successful is not at his command. issue. For instance, all the world knows of his collection of coins, but few have heard of its origin. One day when a small boy he was playing in the garden of the Quirinal, and found a Pius IX, penny, with which he rushed delighted to Queen Margherita. She explained what it was, and incidentally told him about others more important. From that moment he began to collect, and he has now become one of the greatest numismatists in the world. It is the same with swimming. He learned quickly, and reached such perfection that it was his custom to jump from a man-of-war into the open sea, have his swim, and return without help.

Other accomplishments are music and painting. Queen Margherita, who is exceptionally fond of music, seeing her husband so indifferent to it, decided that her son must play at least the plano, if he had any talent at all. Masters were procured when he was a small boy, with the result that he is a very fair planist, and satisfies even the critical taste of his mother. Of painting he knows less, but can dash off a very respectable sketch, showing verve, but a lack of knowledge of color. But, above all and before all, the king is a man of will, and, try as he may, no one can turn him once his mind is made up.-Rome Correspondence Pall Mall Gazette.

The popular secretary of the Wells-burg, N. Y., board of trade is Mr. W. J. He says: "I had been troubled with rheumatism all my life, even when a boy. It attacked me in the legs, arms and shoulders. The pain in the latter was particularly severe. I, of course, took medicine for it, but did not obtain permanent relief. One about three years ago while reading a newspaper, I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and determined to give them a trial. I had taken but three boxes of the pills when the trouble, which had been my affliction from childhood, entirely disappeared. "About a year later I had another attack of rheumatism which was brought on by working in a damp place. I rememoered well what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People had done for me, so I immediately purchased some. Strangely enough, just three boxes again cured me, and have been entirely free from rhem matism ever since. I have told a num-ber of people about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and they have taken them with most bene-ficial results." (Signed) W. J. DALTON. MONEY TO FEED THE BIRDS.

Gov. Flower Gave a Stable Boy a Tip and He Is Now Wealthy.

L. Schreiber & Sons have flied sult in the United States Circuit Court at Richmond, Va., against Lela Moore Newman and her husband, Walter G. Newman, to collect $4,006, alleged to be due them by the Newmans.

The story back of the suit concerns the desire of a man who left a town in Virgicia a penniless, friendless boy and returned having money with which to feed the robins. The Newmans live near Somerset, Orange County, and are now building a magnificent country estate. Mr. Newman was the poor boy, and he is now spending money in a way that has surprised all Orange County out of three years' growth.

The story of Mr. Newman's success reads like a romance. It was told by one of the lawyers representing the complainants in the suit. It is said that when he left Orange County Walter Newman was an humble stable boy. He made his way to New York and found a friend in the late Governor

Flower. It is a well-known fact that when Flower was a potent factor in the business of making great fortunes in Wall street he would take any friend of his who desired it along with him on a great money-making venture and one. This was Newman's luck, says the story told by the lawyer. He was "put onto a sure thing" in the market by Mr. Flower and gathered in $18,000. With this as a starter he was soon very wealthy. A good part of his money was

His Prophecy Came True.

Edward Wigglesworth, "Hollis professor of divinity at Cambridge," in a little pamphlet published in the portentous year of 1775, must have had a correct idea of the prosperity of this country during the century just closing, as he predicted that the population of the "British American colonies" in 1900 would be 80,000,000.

Included in this estimate was Nova Scotia, now the Dominion of Canada, which with its last recorded census result of 4.800,000 added to the 76,000,000 of the United States fulfills almost to the letter the accuracy of the Wigglesworth prophecy. And this somewhat remarkable forecast was not based upon any species of guess work, but upon a well defined and clearly constructed tune of more than $200,000,000, most mathematical theory, which, reduced to plain words, can be best described in the language of its author:

> "The British-Americans have doubled their numbers in every period of twenty-five years from their first plantation.'

> Taking this statistical fact as a basis for his calculations the Harvard divinity professor constructed a system of reckoning the increase of a country's population which history has shown to be as correct as his method was simple. Assuming that the 1775 population was 2.500,000 Mr. Wigglesworth estimated 5,000,000 for 1800, 10,000,000 for 1825, 20,000,000 for 1850, 40,000,000 for 1875 and 80,000,000 for 1900, and the record of the United States census since said the parent.
