BOY AS TELEGRAPH MANAGER.
Roy Rose, 14 Years Old, Takes Charge of Important Office.

Roy Rose, 14 years old, is the youngest Western Union telegraph office manager in the country.
A. B. Taylor, superintendent of telegraph for the West Shore Road, has had a deal of difficulty in getting a man for the West 42d street office in New York. In one week not long ago three old and experienced operators tried it, and quit because of the intricate messages.

Mr. Perrin, assistant to Supt. Taylor, in despair wired his old friend, O.
W. Rose, ticket agent at Mount Marion, next above Kingston: "If you find any one who can do it tell him to come down and go to work at the West 42d street station."

Next morning when Perrin called up the West 42d street station some one answered whose touch and precision in telegraphy startled him.

"He's a good man," said Perrin.
Several days went by, and Perrin, well pleased with the new man's work, thought he'd run over and see what the new man looked like.

As he stepped into the office a rather stout boy of 14, rosy checked, with brown eyes, looking out sharply from behind eyeglasses, his straw hat pushed back on his head, was sitting at the desk reading a message.

"Hullo, sonny, where's the new manager?" asked Perrin.
"I'm the manager," the boy replied.

Perrin laughed. "No fooling, where is he? I want to see him."

"Well, you can look at me. My name is Roy Rose, and I'm the new manager. Who are you?"

"Why, I'm Perrin. But I didn't know you were a boy. Are you the one sent down by Rose?"

"Yes, he's my father. I have been here five days, and I guess I can do it."

The surprised assistant superintendent shook the lad's hand in amazement and pleasure. Rose had sent the best operator he could find, and so well did he do the work that three other men had failed to do he will be retained.

"I like everything here but the mosquitoes," the boy said. He is saving his money to go to college.

TOOK A RUNNING JUMP.
Mike Followed the Advice of His Wife and Landed in the River.

Many have heard the story of the two Norwegian brothers. One of them was on the boat when she started out. She was thirty feet from the dock when the other brother came rushing down, just a few seconds too late. The one aboard leaned over the railing and shouted: "Yump, Olle, yump; you can make it in two yumps."

This local instance is alike with a difference, says the Detroit Free Press.
One Michael McNolan, a sewer contractor in the pick department, was giving his folks an outing during the general celebration, and chose the Tashmoo as the means of transportation. On the way to the boat Michael dropped in every little while to light his pipe. That was his explanation, at least, and the more he fired his dhudeen the less disposition it showed to burn, except between beer slogs.

The family were all comfortable on the upper deck and watching for the hege lord and paymaster when the machinery began to work and the boat to move. It was five feet away when the belated passenger appeared, his face red and his pipe working like a smokestack. He stood on the edge of the dock, steadying himself and swinging his arms to give impetus to a jump, when the good wife issued an order:

"Git back, Molke, git back, and make a good run for the jump. Yez can never make it standin'."

Mike obeyed. By the time he made his run the boat was twenty feet off, but he made a gallant effort, went out of sight in his best store clothes for a bathing suit and came up spitting out water and other things for which a later explanation would be required.

He scorned life preservers showered upon him, dove down and brought up his pipe, swam to the side of the boat and when safely aboard demanded a reduction in fare.

Courtship in Germany.
One seldom hears of elopements in Germany. It is impossible for young people to marry in that country without the consent of their parents or legal guardians. Certain prescribed forms must be gone through of the marriage is null and void. When a girl has arrived at what is considered a marriageable age her parents make a point of inviting young men to the house, and usually two or three are invited at the same time, so that the attention may not seem too pointed.

No young man, however, is invited to the house until after he has called at least once and thus signified his wish to have social intercourse with the family. In Germany a man must be at least eighteen years old before he can make a proposal, but when it is made and accepted the proposal is speedily followed by the betrothal. This generally takes place privately, shortly after which the father of the bride—as she is then called—gives a dinner or supper to the most intimate friends of both families, when the fact is formally announced and shortly after becomes a matter of public knowledge.

Butter and Cheese by Parcels Post.
French syndicates in Normandy and Brittany use the parcels post for sending table butter and cheese to customers. Parcels weighing twenty pounds can be mailed for 30 cents.
