E. H. HOLMES, Correspondent.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 5, 1902. As it shall be my chief endeavor from time to time to keep the outside world advised of the social and political situation in Spokane, through the medium of the New Age, it is needless to add that every business interest. every faction, every project worthy of consideration, will be treated impartially by the undersigned. We shall not mince words, however, in dealing with abuses and pointing the way as we conceive it to be best, for the citizens of this community.

Spokane people have always felt kindly toward Portland and her good citizens, and the community of interest existing, and the fraternal feelings have rather been strengthened in late years than otherwise. We have sent Portland many a good man and woman, not to mention the young folks. Those two, aye those three, princely fellows, Dave Thornton, Morton Freeman and Geo. Brown, once claimed this city as their home, as well as Billy Cox, and as reports arrive here periodically that the boys are making it all right it gladdens the hearts of their friends. Many Portland people. too, have come here and have made excellent and useful ctizens, hence when the claim is made that a close community of interests and lasting friendship should and does exist between the two towns the assumption is well founded and it shall be the pollcy of the correspondent of the New Age in Spokane to cement that friendship and endeavor to keep the good people in the two towns advised of matters of mutual interest that they should both know. Mention was made in the last issue of the New Age relative to the attitude of the colored voters in Spokane. Generally speaking from a political stand point, and their courageous and bold stand for their political rights and freedom. It was pointed out in that article how little the boys really owed to the republican party of Spokane, and how little they had to expect from the same source in future. t might be pertinent to suggest to hose who have lately come in our midst, as well as to some of our re-publican friends of the "yaller dog" variety, that the younger element have pretty firm grip on the local-situaion and in fact control the same, and that unless they want to be known as 'handkerchief heads" they will have to join in, and go down the line together with their more progressive neighbors. Because there are bright days ahead for all concerned. If we advance there is promised political freedom, representation, fair treatment advocates in the councils of the powers that be, and a general breaking lown of the hideous nightmare of political ostrocism and degradation that has so long been practiced upon us in the house of our supposed friends. Years of experience have taught many a well wisher of his race here to move discreetly but determinedly in matters political, and that to retreat in the face of adversity and the ignominious treatment we have contended with for 18 years would be cowardice. We and a $5 gold piece under the pillow must grapple with the situation as we and during the absence of the occu-

Senator George Turner, backed by a valiant hosts of loyal democrats and thousands of republican friends and independent voters, has commenced to plan a line of action and battle in the interests of his own candidacy for reelection to the United States senate and also to secure the triumph of his party in the fall election in this county and state. Senator Turner is reck-oned by friend and foe as one of the great big brainy men of the nation His life has been dedicated, it would scem, in line, or along lines, of usefulness, and where he could accomplish much for our race. Years ago when the Negro was groveling in the mire of despond and degradation, hav-ing just emerged from slavery, friend-less, way back in Alabama, Geo, Tur-ner was United Sttes Marshal, and many a friendy turn he did those poor, unfortunates, risking life and even happiness, that he might extend a helping hand to those in the blackest hour of their adversity and misfortune. He always offered a word of encouragement, the strong protection of the law, and a fair trial in every instance where they were accused of crime. As a friend and admirer of Roscoe Conkling, he stood like old Stonewall Jackson for Grant's renonination in the stormy period of the nation's great post, when men were need ed. No student familiar with the history of this country and its great men can deny that Conkling should classed along with Sumner and Phillips and John Brown in his regard and love for the Negro race, and the cause of liberty and freedom. Senator Turner was Conkling's friend and Grant's friend, and it would indeed be passing strange if he was not the colored man's friend today. Long years of judicial training has made the senator already a ripe jurist and scholar, the peer of any man-surely the equal-in the senate, and for his illustrious service to our people and for his state all give thanks. A movement is on foot among all classes to give this great man a solid delegation to the next legislature which elects his suc-

There seems but little doubt that the ticket that shall be named at that con vention will be successful at the polls All the names that have been advance ed for the various places on the ticket are of men highly respected in the community and who would naturally inspire confidence on any ticket. One nomination that is conceded and is giving evident satisfaction is topic for the past week. His tragic end, queer as it may seem, is generally deplored. There are thousands of people that would have liked to see that daring criminal escape, while no well thinking man could lend any en-There is something, however, so attractive, or rather the glamour that surrounds these criminals is so filled with action, escapades and daring deeds that one feels instinctively a sort of sympathy for them, and more especially when they are pursued by a lot of city dudes commonly designated as a posse, but who are more often bent upon setting the fee of a deputy and keeping out of harm's way. Over here we had three or four sheriffs on Tracy's trail and a large number of deputies but it was a farmer's boy that gave information that led to his undoing, and it was farmers and laborers that wounded him, and caused him to end his wicked career. The sheriffs finally arrived on the scene in time to claim the reward.

A PROMINENT YOUNG MAN.

Cornelius Anderson Hughes, born at Charlottesville, Va., September 14 1861, left home at an early age and spent three years on the continent of Europe. Returned in 1881 as a protege of the late Jno. W. Mackay and made California his home. Married to Miss Ada Smithea, a British subject, and the only daughter of Rev. Fielden Smithea, of San Francisco. politics soon after reaching California and held many positions of trust while in that city. In politics he is a democrat of no mean ability and stands bigh in the councils of his party. His first public appearance in Oregon was as the principal speaker of the democrats in the opening of their campaign of 1900. The meeting was in the Chamber of Commerce. His interest was centered in Hon, Geo, E. Chamber-lain's candidacy for district after ~v. Chamberlain was successful in winning out in a strongly republican district and Hughes no doubt contributed largely to that result.

The friends made for Chamberlain in that fight remained loyal to him in his last fight for Governor of Oregon, and he was again successful,

Mr. Hughes is now a resident of Spokane, Wash., and will take an acive part in the interest of Senator Turner this fall in his re-election to the U. S. Senate. He has incorporated a club known as the "Iroquois," a re-sort for gentlemen, and will no doubt make himself felt in the new commun-
