She—He declares he loves the very ground I tread upon. He—Ah! I thought he had his eyes on the estate. —Harvard Lampoon.

Subbubs—Why are you sneaking into the house so quietly? Commute—Sh—h! The cook has company, and I do not wish to disturb them.

"I can safely say that no man ever attempted to bribe me, gentlemen." "Don't be down-hearted, old chap; your luck may change."

Citizen—I see you raise your own vegetables. Suburbanite—No! I simply plant a small garden so as to keep the chickens at home.—Life.

The Lawyer—I really hope I don't annoy you with all these questions. His Fair Client—Not at all. I'm used to it. I have a 6-year-old son.

He—I fancy men believe in friendship rather more than women do. She—Possibly, but the great trouble is it's generally their own friendship they believe in.

Wisdom—Honestly, now, did you learn anything while you were in college? Graduate—Um—m—well, I learned how to state my ignorance in scientific terms.

"Is your family fond of cereals, Mr. Jumpup?" "Oh, very! we're reading several in the Parlor Portfolio now, and can't hardly wait from week to week."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Cassidy—Shtop kletkn' about yer hard luck, man! Some mornin' ye'll wake up an' find yerself famous. Gasey—Faith, O'll bet ye whin that mornin' comes 'twill be me luck to overslape mesel'.

Mrs. Hiram Offen—I hope you washed the fish thoroughly before you put in on the broiler, Della. Della—Shure, what would be the use of that, ma'am? Hasn't it been livin' in the water all its loife?—Philadelphia Press.

"Oh, well, my dear," observed he to his wife, "you will find that there are a great many worse men in the world than I am." "How can you be so cynical, John?" replied his wife reproachfully.—Syracuse Herald.

Silas—So Zeke won't have anything but first-class literature? Cyrus—No. Why, he wouldn't even subscribe to a magazine because he saw "Entered as second-class matter" on the front page.

Superintendent—It is our usual custom to let a prisoner work at the same trade in here as he did outside. Now, what is your trade? Shoemaker, blacksmith or — "Please, sir, I was a traveling salesman."

Constance—I am going out in Algy's launch. Penelope—But naphtha launches are very dangerous. Constance—I know it. But Algy gave me the choice of either going out with him on his naphtha launch or his sailboat.

"I see a crank out West announces his invention of a theater hat for ladies that will shut up when the curtain rises." "He'd only invent a box party that would do that he'd deserve a medal."—Philadelphia Press.

"Here's a letter from Mirandy at college. She says she's in love with Ping Pong." "She is, hey? Well, she'd better give him up. We ain't gon' ter stand fer no Chinaman marrying later this family."—Woman's Home Companion.

Mr. Skinner—You'll have to wait a while for your wages this week. I can't pay you to-day. Clerk—See here, now, that won't do, sir. I've got to live, you know. Mr. Skinner—Nonsense! What put that idea into your head.—Chicago Tribune.

Lady (to furniture clerk)—I like the Louis XIV. and the Louis XVI. designs equally well. It wouldn't do, I suppose, to have both chairs in the parlor? Clerk—Oh, yes, madam; they would harmonize well—only two years' difference, you see.—Judge.

Teacher (to class in geography)—And who knows what the people who live in Turkey are called? Class (unanimously)—Turks! Teacher—Right. Now, who can tell me what those living in Austria are called. Little Boy—Please, num, I know. Ostriches!—Judge.

Hasty Harry—W'at youse fishin' here without any bait for? Don't youse know dat fish won't eat a bare hook? Strenuous Stove (scornfully)—W'at! Don't youse see dat if de fish don't bite I ain't got to go to de trouble o' takin' 'em off'n d' hook. Where's yea perfishonal instinct?

"Oh, maw," said the 10-year-old hopeful, "do you see how wet my clothes are?" "Yes, young man," spoke mamma, sternly, "and you have been in swimming." "No, maw." "Then how did you get wet?" "Why, some boys wanted me to go in swimming, and I ran away so fast I perspired."

"Young man," said the Irish magistrate, as a youthful prisoner was brought before him. "I would advise you to 'make a full confession if you want to get off with a light sentence." "And if I don't confess, then what?" asked the young man. "Oh, in that event," replied the magistrate, "I shall probably have to acquit you for want of evidence."

The First-Born: "Yes, it took my wife and me and my mother and my wife's mother and two sisters and an old aunt of mine and half a dozen of our cousins to pull our first baby through till it was 2 years old." "And did the little one become stronger by that time?" "No, we had another by that time, and came out of the dream." —Chicago Record-Herald.
