AN ALL ABIDING FAITH. The Illinois Central Railroad Company has an all abiding faith in the future of the Great Northwest. A short time ago, this was manifested by the establishment, in Seattle, of an agency to take care of their interests there. The latest effort is to put on a splendidly equipped new train service between St. Paul and Chicago. The new trains will be running Sunday, November 2. They will use their own rails between Chicago and Albert Lea, Minn., and the Minneapolis & St. Louis Ry. track from Albert Lea to Minneapolis and St. Paul, running into the union depot at St. Paul, which is the same that is used by all lines in that city.

The train is to be known as "The Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis Limited" and will consist of sleeping car, buffet library car and reclining chair car through without change between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Dining car service will also be maintained, supper being served out of Chicago and breakfast into Chicago. Trains will leave St. Paul at 7:10 p. m. and arrive in Chicago 9:30 a. m.; leave Chicago at 6:10 p. m. and arrive at St. Paul 8:40 a. m., making close connection at St. Paul with all western lines. Tickets can be purchased via this line, in connection with all western lines, at all stations. For further information regarding rates, routes, time, etc., call on or address,

CHAPTER ON SKIRTS.

LATEST CORRECT IDEAS ON MAKING OF THIS GARMENT.

Old-Fashioned Pull-Back Now in Vogue for Those Who Affect the Extreme—Skirts of Cloth and Liberty Satin—New York Fashion Notes.

New York correspondence:

LOW but apparently sure acceptance is being extended to the extra fullness and pleats introduced into skirts. The shapely, well-cut portion encircling the hips is accentuated by the lower broad, flat pleats, or by the series of graduating pleats behind. A wide box-pleat forming the center of the skirt, flanked on either side by smaller pleats, braid or passementerie, is a model sure to be liked. It gives length and preserves the straight line in front that is so much cultivated these days. On the other hand, there is a style of skirt that suggests the pull-back of years ago. It is as tight as can be at the hips, and almost as tight as can be about the knees. It is neither pretty nor comfortable as the wearer walks.

talks are subject to the changes that individual taste, purse or materials already in hand may dictate. But the last gown of this quartette is so happy an interpretation of new fashions, that to do more than to substitute for the ladies' cloth some like weave, would endanger artistic loss.

Sorts of wraps and coats are galore, and since permission is given for all grades from plain to fanciful, with an unusual abundance of materials and trimmings available, it's nearly as easy to get up a novel coat as a novel gown. In strictly tailored coats there have not been many novelties, but in dress coats and evening wraps new ideas are starting. Long, silky-napped zibeline has found favor for coat material. Lama cloth, resembling lamb's wool somewhat, is another stylish shaggy material. In long, loose fitting coats are seen many plain cloths heavily embroidered with braid and stitching. There are many light-colored cloth coats, and many of these are elaborately trimmed. Oyster broadcloth or melton is handsomely applied with panne velvet medallions outlined with bias folds of the material and fine silk braid, all the same color. Chenille outlining bias folds of cloth is another fancy trimming. While many coats are made with long capes and collars, others button close to the throat with high military collars. These are double-breasted and fasten with large buttons or cord ornaments. Cord and ornaments are used very freely as trimming. Coats with flounces of heavy lace are three-quarter length and have large cape collars of shirred white chiffon trimmed with tabs of the cloth applied with lace bands. Besides the untrimmed coat in the second of these pictures, three new designs

STREET DRESS MODELS SET FOR COPYING.

Four brand new designs of street dresses are presented herewith. In the small picture is one for which fawn broadcloth and heavy cream lace are proposed as materials. Brown velvet is suggested for the belt. Nearly covered by a coat in the next illustration is a dress for which gray silk and wool eolienne and cream lace would be fine, and a collar of white panne velvet and belt of pale blue velvet would be stylish touches, two colors of velvet often appearing on the same gown. Besides this design is one for oyster ladies' cloth, or kindred weave, with finish of black silk buttons and cord, for skirt and shoulder cape; for all-over of outside garments are presented herewith. For the first, bright red zibeline would be stylish, current preference being for something bright in color or a bit striking in weave for so plain a garment. To the others this does not apply. See the first of them in cream melton, white silk cord ornaments and beautiful embroidery in red and gilt silk floss and chenille, with gilt buttons, and you have it right. So, too, the three-quarter coat hardly could be improved if of bright red cloth, black silk braid designs, silk cord ornaments, with collar and inner part of sleeves of cream lace applied with Persian silk. The bolero of the concluding gulfure for the bodice, bright green velvet strapped with tabs of the goods for the yoke, and dress goods, banded with lace, for the sleeves. Last comes a skirt of the new pull-back order. For it are proposed electric blue canvas suiting, orange velvet ribbon, small gilt buttons, and for the bodice an odd collar of white moire embroidered in black and burnt orange chenille. The box-pleats of the Spanish bouffe are echoed in the sleeves. Like the other dresses, and all the garments of these pictures, these last de-suit might be light brown stamine and wool embroidery in oriental colorings. Such a jacket, of course, goes with a skirt of the same goods.

The prettiest form of the box-pleated skirt is that set into a yoke fitting the hips and this is made in two fashions—the one having a perfectly plain gored front, with the yoke and box plaits running around the side, and the other with a round yoke and plaits running into it, leaving just a plain narrow strip in front.

WHAT THEODORE ROOSEVELT SAYS.

An article on "The Presidency," by Theodore Roosevelt, to be published in the November 6th issue of "The Youth's Companion," will be of great public interest. When the article was written Mr. Roosevelt had not even been nominated for the Vice-Presidency.

Nothing was then further from his thoughts than that he would so soon exercise the great powers which are entrusted to the President of the United States.

In view of the circumstances the article possesses an importance more than ordinary, and it will be eagerly looked for. The number of "The Youth's Companion" containing it, and all the subsequent issues of 1902, will be sent free to new subscribers from the time their subscription of $1.75 is received for the 1902 volume. The new subscriber will also receive the Companion Calendar for 1903, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. Full illustrated announcement of the new volume and sample copies of The Companion will be sent to any address free.

CITY NEWS

Mr. Frank Mitchell is in the city again.

Mrs. A. Newsome is quite feeble as yet.

G. W. Johnson is slowly improving and he expects to be out in a couple of weeks.

Have you picked the winner in the contest for the most popular lady in Portland?

The jury in the second trial of J. W. Gladisee compromised on a verdict of manslaughter.

Geo. Smith, the convicted wife-murderer, was denied a new trial and sentenced to hang December 19.

Mrs. J. H. Haines is still quite ill. The sewing circle at the Zion A. M. E. church should be better attended.

Do not forget the entertainment at G. A. R. hall, November 21, for the benefit of Mt. Olivet Baptist church. The various committees are working hard to make it a success.

Mrs. E. N. Le Roy, of Pendleton, spent several days in the city last week visiting friends. She left for home on Sunday, November 9.

The publicity given to the society of Batchelors by our paper a few weeks ago is said to have caused several to decline to become members of the same for fear of the effect with the young ladies.

We have learned the reason why Mr. Frank Douglas was tempted to resign his position on his recent trip east, as he states that at Muscatine, Iowa, he saw a sweet potato weighing 10 lbs. Blood will tell.

The entertainment given at the A. M. E. Zion church on Tuesday evening was worthy of a larger attendance than was given. The various numbers on the programme were excellent and all who attended left well satisfied.

And now in Baker City the labor unions have declared a boycott on the leading hotel because they employ colored men as waiters. We are informed that the majority of the inhabitants sympathize with the hotel keeper. Thus it is always, first they refuse to admit Negroes to their unions and then attempt to boycott any one who gives them employment, no matter how menial the work may be. Is it any wonder that in case of strikes the sympathies of the colored man is against the strikers, especially when in nine-tenths of the labor unions a majority of the members are foreigners. We presume that next a boycott will be declared against the Hotel Portland.

A couple of single men in the employ of Uncle Sam were a short time ago presented with a wild goose pie by one of their collaborators who was very successful in the occasion of a few days' hunt. One of the gentlemen presented his to a lady of his acquaintance and our informant does not say that he had the pleasure of sharing it with her, the other more wise in his day and generation, had his nicely cooked at the restaurant where he boards, took it to his abiding place, and it is asserted, invited company to help him dispose of it. You can easily tell which was which by saying goose and observing the expression of satisfaction or displeasure which comes over the countenance.

At 3:30 a. m., Monday, November 10th, after an illness of about one month, Mrs. Lavina Bolden departed this life at her residence 351 1/2 Oak street. She was buried on the 12th inst. from the undertaking parlors of Heiman & Co., Rev. Blackburn, of the First Baptist church officiating. A large number of her friends attended the services. During her many years residence in this city she had made many close friends who will deeply mourn her loss. She leaves a devoted husband, a loving son and daughter-in-law, and two grand-children in this city, also a son in Pennsylvania, who can truly say gone before but not forgotten. The floral offerings were both elegant and abundant.

At 5:30 a. m., November 9, Willie N. Easton, the only remaining child of Mrs. Lulu Easton, passed away after being confined to his bed for about one week. He was buried from his late residence, 411 7th street, on November 11th, at 2 p. m., Rev. Blackburn, of the 1st Baptist church, officiating. The house was more than filled with sympathizing friends of the bereaved family. Less than five months have passed since Mrs. Easton was called to follow her oldest son, George, to his last resting place and now the loss of her other son leaves her and her aged mother alone. Since the death of his brother Willie, who has been a great sufferer from rheumatism for some time and has patiently borne his suffering and looked forward to the time when he would again meet his brother.
