OWNED BY HIS MILLIONS.

Russell Sage Helpless in the Power of His Accumulated Wealth.
Russell Sage is the most indefatig able financier in the world to-day.
Conservative financiers, who know what they are talking about, will tell you that Russell Sage is worth more than a hundred million dollars, and that he has at least twenty-five mil lions in cold, hard cash—an amount of ready currency greater than that pos sessed by any other millionaire. He has been working hard since his early youth. He was a member of Congress long before the present generation of men and women came into being. For fifty years he hasn't missed, all sum med up, more than sixty days from his office, including occasional indisposi tions, rare two or three-day vaca tions and business absences from the city, and so on. Even when the crazy chap threw a carpet-bag full of dynam ite at Mr. Sage a few years ago the old gentleman was recovered from the shock and back at his desk two days later. His friends confidently expect to see him haggling with "Apple Mary" over the price of the two ap ples, which he takes for his luncheon.

for a good many years to come yet.
Mr. Sage has worn the same overcoat for six years now, and it is a pretty seedy-looking affair. He wears shock ing hand-me-down clothes and impos sible hats, this constituting one of the secret sorrows, it is said, of his amiable, generous and even-tempered wife.
None of the stories bearing upon Rus sell Sage's acute appreciation of the value of money is exaggerated. Here is one that hasn't been printed: Last sum mer the Wall street men living on Long Island arranged for a ferry boat to meet them at the Long Island City station at 9:30 on business mornings to convey them to the Wall street slip, and thus save them the trouble of crossing over to New York and taking the L. train downtown to their offices. They ar ranged to pay 10 cents each per morn ing for this ferry ride from Long Island City to Wall street, New York. They invited Mr. Sage to join them. But Mr.
Sage wouldn't. He continued to cross over to New York on the ferry to Thir ty-fourth street, which he was entitled to do without cost on his regular Long island railroad pass. When he reached New York he was entitled to ride down town without giving up a nickel to the L. road, for, as one of the directors of the L. Company, he, of course, had an L. pass. Thus he saved each day 10 cents, to do which he endured the long ride downtown on the L. with its hot, sooty, soft-coal engines.

GETTING EVEN WITH WOMEN

A certain French merchant who died in the year 1901 left a very handsome legacy to a lady who had refused to marry him twenty years previously.
The will stated that the testator made the bequest in order to express to the legatee his gratitude for her forbear ance in leaving him to lead a happy bachelor life of independence and freedom. A British sailor by his will directed his executors to pay his wife the sum of 1 shilling "to buy hazel nuts, as she had always preferred cracking these to mending stockings." The will of John George of Lambeth, who died in 1791, ran thus, says the People's Friend: "Seeing that I have had the misfortune to be married to the aforesaid Elizabeth, who ever since our union has tormented me in every possible way; that she has done all she could to render my life miser able; that heaven seems to have sent her into the world solely to drive me out of it; that the strength of Samson, the genius of Homer, the prudence of Augustus, the skill of Pyrrhus, the pa tience of Job, the philosophy of So crates, the subtlety of Hannibal, the vigilance of Hermogenes, would not suffice to subdue the perversity of her character; that no power on earth can change her—weighing maturely and seriously all these considerations, I have bequeathed and hereby be queath to my said wife Elizabeth the sum of 1 shilling to be paid to her within six months after my death."

Japs in Hawaii.
According to J. K. Brown, inspector of Immigration for the Hawaiian Is lands, the Japanese labor which has flooded to the country since the exclu sion of the Chinese is less desirable for plantations than the Chinese. Neither the white nor the natives of Hawaii will work on the plantations. It is an interesting fact, as explained by Mr.
Brown, that in some cases the Japa nese learn trades and displace white skilled laborers. In all the discussion of Chinese exclusion in the United States there has been very little said about the Chinese supplanting skilled labor.—Buffalo Express.
When those we like play it, it is a violin, but when those we dislike be gin to finger it, it is a fiddle.
