CATARRH OF LUNGS.

A Prominent Chicago Lady Cured
by Pe-ru-na.
Miss Maggie Welch, secretary of the Betsey Ross Educational and Benevolent Society, writes from 328 North State street, Chicago, Ill., the following glowing words concerning Peruna:
"Last fall I caught the most severe cold I ever had in my life. I coughed night and day, and my lungs and throat became so sore that I was in great distress. All cough remedies nauseated me, and nothing afforded me relief until my doctor said, rather in a joke, 'I guess Peruna is the only medicine that will cure you.'

'I told him that I would certainly try it, and immediately sent for a bottle. I found that relief came the first day, and as I kept taking it faithfully the cough gradually diminished, and the soreness left me. It is fine.'— Maggie Welch.

No Misgivings.
"How is business, Hans," asked his stretty."

A Tug at It.
She—You must not kiss me until we

He—Do you mean to say that you always insist upon that rule?
She—I've always tried to.

Stranger—I tell you, I like to see Cremation.

Not until 1884 was the first body cremated in England. The number of bodies cremated annually has steadily increased since both in England and the United States.

Myer—Syker is a friendly sort of a chap, isn't he?
Gyer—Yes; he's most too friendly.
Myer—How's that?
Gyer—He no sooner quits shaking leg.

Not Acquainted With Him.
"Neil's just crazy over Shakespeare."
"So he's her latest, is he? Where'd

The Prince of Wales.

The title of Prince of Wales is not inherited, and has usually been bestowed by patent and investiture, though in a few cases the heir to the throne has become Prince of Wales simply by being declared so.

A Valuable Gold Piece.
In 1787 a goldsmith of the name of Brasher coined a sixteen-dollar gold piece, which is now one of the rarest of coins, there being but four specimens of it known, all of which are held at $30.00 each. This rare piece has the well known motto stamped upon it in this mixed-up form: "Unium E Fluribus."

All That Was Necessary.
"Yon must abandon all business cares for the future," says the physician.
"But I fear that I have not yet accumulated sufficient money," protests the multi-millionaire.
"Enough!" repeats the doctor.
"Whv, my dear sir, you have enough money to pay physicians' fees for the rest of your life!"

Bananas English Style.
At English tables spoons are served with bananas. If the bananas are served as a single fruit course, however, sherry is usually sent around with it.
A few drops are poured upon the plate, and the banana, stripped little by little of its skin, is dipped into this and thus eaten.
In a Minute.
Nodd—Well, I wish I knew how to pass away a few hours' time.
Todd—Why, I thought you were with your wife just now.
"I was. I left her in a restaurant looking over the bill of fare."

It Came Home to Him.
The jokesmith called upon the father of the young lady and asked for the damsel's hand in marriage.
With a wrathful shout the old gentleman kicked the jokesmith from the parlor into the hall, out of the door, and down the steps and across the street, and as the young man fled thence he called after him:
"Now, sir, you may realize that many a truth is written in jest."—

OUR OFFICE DOOR.
Words Worth Reading from Wise Bros., the Famous Dentists, of Portland.

"Whenever our office opens to admit a patient," said Dr. W. A. Wise, of Wise Bros., the great dentists, Falling building, Portland, Or., "we want it to be because the patient desires and expects only the best and most conscientious work.
"That's the aim of our advertising.
"Whenever our office door closes behind a patient we want it to be the seal of satisfaction upon the service given—and friendliness for our practice—to bring him again—with friends.
"that's the aim of our work.
"Many people still think that getting your teeth put in order, or having some extracted and new ones put in costs lots of money and hurts. This is not so. It does not cost much money in our office, and it doesn't hurt a bit." That exclamation from our customers is getting to be widely repeated."

The Unfortunate
Maker of "Breaks."

A "break," in the ever-changing vernacular of social parlance, signifies some unfortunate chance remark that either refers to or suggests some subject best to be avoided. Everyone knows how often such "breaks," as they are called, occur, and how there seems to be some perverse fate that makes one go out of one's way to talk of topics that must necessarily suggest the one forbidden. If there is anyone at the table, for instance, who has some personal defect, the imp of perversity will probably cause the most tender-hearted person present to drag that particular misfortune into the conversation by alluding to some one who is similarly afflicted. Or if there is some family skeleton which must not be spoken of, it will always be brought forward by proxy.
"I am the most unfortunate individual in the world about such things," complained a young man recently. "It is simply impossible for me to steer clear of any unpleasant topic. It is like a lodestone to me, and I am drawn in its direction whether I will or not.
The other day I went with a house party to the M—s, who are all abnormally fat. 'Now, Bill,' I said to myself, 'remember, not one word about corpulency.' But in spite of all my efforts I managed to drag in the subject several times. To my horror, I heard myself mention Barnum's fat woman to Mrs.
M—, speak of some one's death from fatty degeneration of the heart when conversing with Mr. M—, talk admirably of Miss Slender's figure to Miss M—, and allude to the disadvantage of carrying weight to young M—, who nearly broke his heart at college because he grew too heavy to compete in the games. There was a perfect fatality about it, and I am sure they must have thought I did it all on purpose." "It was worse with me," laughed the young woman to whom he was speaking. "I went to stay with some people whose prominent family trait was a remarkably large nose. Like you, I resolved beforehand never to mention the defect, but the prohibitive word so preyed on my mind that, on one dreadful, never-to-be-forgotten day, I said to my host at the table, 'Please give me some—nose!' I intended to ask for salt, but the awful word got ahead of it and slipped out of my mouth quite clear and distinct. I was too much horrified to pass it off, and grew red as a peony, feeling ready to cry, but Mr. A—burst out laughing. 'I know exactly how it happened, dear child,' he said,
'and you mustn't mind it a bit.'"—New York Tribune.

CITY HALL TOO SMALL.

London Civic Business Hampered by Lack of Room.
London has suddenly discovered that it ought to have a respectable home for its rulers. One of the queerest of all the topsy-turvy things about this center of the empire is that probably 3,000,000 of its inhabitants don't know where its "city hall" is. The building from which the world's metropolis is LONDON'S CITY HALL.

ruled is an insignificant affair, beside which the municipal headquarters of any American city of 30,000 inhabitants would look imposing. It is quite overshadowed by the back part of William Waldorf Astor's house, which adjoins it on the north. The building is too small to hold half of the departments of a concern that spends $30,000,000 a year and rejoices in gross debts of $250,000. The county council recently voted down a proposition to build a new city hall.

Affinities Never Sudden.

There is more of ideal love and marriage in the world than it is the fashion to believe. Affinities are not so rare. But they are made, not born.
After all, what are affinities? People between whom attraction is developed to a maximum, who think and feel and act in entire sympathy. It is improbable that two people could meet and discover such a bond of perfect sympathy. Such a condition would be too good and great to gain without a struggle. No two people have the same training and education, the same environment, the same conditions for the formation of character and inclination.
We must make our affinities.—Cosmopolitian.

A Watchful Nurse.

Doctor—Aha! Glad to see you doing better. So you slept well last night, did you?
Patient—Who slept?
Doctor—Here's the record: "Slept, slept, slept."
Patient—Pshaw! That was the nurse.
—Interme.

Asked and Answered.

He—When poverty comes in at the door what is it love does?
She—Why, it flies out of the dining-room window, of course.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Some people have been suffering from Rheumatism so long that they can scarcely remember the time when they were entirely free from an ache or pain, and have long since forgotten the joys of a painless existence. They are at the mercy of every ill wind, and their misery is aggravated by exposure to cold or sudden changes in the temperature. They become walking barometers and most accurate in weather predictions, the increasing pains in muscles and joints foretelling the approaching storm or the coming of bad weather. It is from these constant sufferers that the great army of rheumatic cripples is recruited. Their bodies are worn out by the incessant pains and the joints become so stiffened and bent that they are at last compelled to give up or hobble about on crutches.

Nobody ever outlived Rheumatism; the disease never loosens its grip or leaves of its own accord, but must be driven out by intelligent and persistent treatment through the blood, for Rheumatism of every variety and form is caused by an over acid condition of the blood, and the deposit in muscles, joints and nerves of corrosive poisons and gritty particles, and it is these irritating substances that produce the inflammation, swelling and pains, which last as long as the blood remains in this sour and acid state.
To cure Rheumatism permanently the blood must be purified and invigorated, and no other remedy does this better and restores to the thin acid the body the acid poisons and irritating so well or so promptly as S. S. S. It restores its nourishing and health-sustaining properties. And when strong health, increases the appetite and tones up the digestion.
