GOSSIP BY TELEPHONE.

The rural telephone service is bringing the isolated farmers into a community, and annihilating distance and solitude.

Whatever one says over the telephone all can hear who feel disposed, and the recognized custom is free from the stigma of eavesdropping.

Second Female Voice—Yes, it's me. First Female Voice—Have you got your dishes washed? Second Female Voice—No. We're just through breakfast.

First Female Voice—What did you have for breakfast? Second Female Voice—Fried mush, and eggs, and pork, and—say, what did you have?

First Female Voice—Oh, we had Graham gems. We're going to have roasting ears for dinner. Third Female Voice (breaking in)—So are we.

Third Female Voice—We've got lots. Send Sammy over after them and I'll give you some. Fourth Female Voice (the party is growing)—Say, Mary, how is the baby?

First Female Voice—Not very well. He is teething. Fourth Female Voice—Have you tried the medicine I gave you? First Female Voice—Not yet.

Third Female Voice—Say, next Sunday's quarterly meeting. Who is going to have the elder for dinner? Fourth Female Voice—He has promised to come to our house.

Second Female Voice—Well, I must go do my dishes. Third Female Voice—So must I. Good-by! Voices in Chorus—Good-by! (One by one the receivers click into place, and the wire hums emptily.)

UNCLE SAM IS EXACT. Contractor Held to Strict Letter of His Agreement. "No, sir," said a man in the Philadelphia Telegraph, "you can't do business with Uncle Sam in a spirit of a contract; you simply must obey his letter."

"Let me give you an instance of Uncle Samuel's character for exactness. We were awarded a contract for 1,000 feet of copper wire for League Island. We sent the order to the manufacturers and they turned in the stuff. In a few days we got a letter from the island authorities that that wire was only 985 feet long.

"We answered that we knew it, that the copper ingot did not yield any more and that we charged them only for 985 feet. Would that do? Not a bit of it. "They sent us word that if that wire was not brought up to 1,000 feet the lot would be rejected. Then we had to get a permit to send a man down to join on enough to make the demand good and he went down and did the work.

"In a few days we were notified that the piece he put on made the whole length 1,004 feet. We wrote back that we didn't care for the four feet and that Uncle Sam could have it. "Next morning comes an order to cut off that four feet or the whole bunch would be rejected. Then we had to get another permit for our man to go down and lop it off, which he did.

"Was it all plain sailing then? I should say not. When he threw the offending excess upon the ground the guard said: "Pick that up; that's against the rules." "He picked it up and was about to toss it into the river, when he was stopped in a mandatory way: "Here, you do that and you'll get yourself into trouble!" "So, thinking he'd find a resting place outside of the government reserves, our employe walked to the gate, where he found a sentinel. "What have you got there?" "A piece of wire." "You can't carry it out without a permit." "All right. I don't want to, and cast it down." "You pick that up," said the sentinel. "You can't throw things around here."
