THE LINCOLN

The Blackwell Hotel Company

Most beautifully and desirably located, on Madison street at Fourth avenue... a section free from noise and dust—most convenient to all points of the city and commanding a magnificent view of Puget sound, Mount Rainier and the Olympic range. The Lincoln is easily accessible from all steamboat landings, depots and theaters. All cars transfer to the hotel door. It is a new, modern, exquisitely furnished structure, containing 225 rooms—100 with private baths—arranged to give its patrons every comfort. The drawing rooms, lobby, dining rooms and gentlemen's cafe are most luxurious, and will be found especially attractive to tourists and commercial travelers, while the service and cuisine will satisfy the most exacting palate.

OLD FAVORITES

How Can I Leave Thee? How can I leave thee? How can I from thee part? Thou only hast my heart, dear one, believe Thou hast this soul of mine So closely bound to thine No other can I love, save thee alone!

Blue is a flow'ret Called the forget-me-not, Wear it upon thy heart, and think of me! Flow'ret and hope may die, Yet love with us shall stay, What cannot pass away, dear one, believe.

Would I a bird were, Soon at thy side to be, Falcon nor hawk would fear, speeding to thee, When by the fowler slain, I at thy feet should lie, Thou sadly should'st complain—joyful I'd die.

Though Lost to Sight, to Mem'ry Dear, Sweetheart, good-by! The fluttering sail Is spread to waft me far from thee, And soon before the fair'ring gale My ship shall bound upon the sea. Perchance, all desolate and forlorn, These eyes shall miss thee many a year, But unforgotten every charm— Though lost to sight, to mem'ry dear.

Sweetheart, good-by! one last embrace! O cruel Fate, true souls to sever! Yet in this heart's most sacred place Thou, thou alone shalt dwell forever! And still shall recollection trace, In Fancy's mirror, ever near, Each smile, each tear, that form, that face— Though lost to sight, to mem'ry dear.

Those Evening Bells, Those evening bells! those evening bells! How many a tale their music tells, Of youth, and home, and that sweet time When last I heard their soothing chime.

Those joyous hours are passed away; And many a heart that then was gay Within the tomb now darkly dwells, And hears no more those evening bells. —Thomas Moore.

EXPENSES OF A PRINCE.

What It Costs Britain's Royal Heir to Live. The popular idea about a royal prince is that he is an exalted personage, with a magnificent income, says Hour Glass. There is, however, another aspect of the case, concerning which many people are in ignorance, namely, the enormous expenditure invariably connected with a princely establishment. The following authentic details as to what it costs the Prince of Wales to live may, therefore, prove instructive to the general reader. It is not generally known that there are about eighty servants employed in the prince's household, and the wages of these people aggregate not less than $40 a week. Out of this sum the royal chef receives £200 a year, the butler a similar amount, and two of the stewards $150 apiece, in addition to special perquisites. Then there is the cost of provisions, electric lighting and other domestic expenses, which involve a further outlay of at least $300 a year. It is also essential that his royal highness should keep a good stable, and the maintenance of thirty horses, carriages, grooms, coachmen and other attendants will readily account for another $300 of his income.

During the London season, also, the king's eldest son is naturally expected to give a certain number of house parties, and it need scarcely be said that these entertainments must be in every way consistent with the regal position of the distinguished host. In addition to these parties, the present prince, like his father, gives several royal balls every year, the total cost of which means a further serious inroad in his income. Again, it is only reasonable to expect that his royal highness will be one of the best dressed gentlemen in the kingdom, and this desirable qualification is only attained by judicious expenditure. For example, it may be stated that the Prince of Wales generally dons a new suit of clothes twice a month and a new silk hat about the same period. He never wears a pair of boots more than half a dozen times, and these are of superior quality, at 2 guineas the pair. He rarely uses a pair of gloves for more than one occasion, and his hosiery and other clothing are sufficiently versatile and multitudinous in character to start a man in business. In all probability $1,500 a year would barely cover the princely expenses for clothing. But even this estimate does not meet the cost of those naval and military uniforms which the prince has to purchase in order to appear in his various official capacities in connection with the British army and navy, and for these splendid garments, some of which cost $100 each, at least another $500 a year must be added to the expenditure.

Another important item of expenditure is that represented by gratuities to servants when the prince and princess become the temporary guests of other royal families, either at home or abroad. Take, for example, a visit to the Czar of all the Russias, which, apart from traveling expenses, would mean at least $100 in royal tips among the countless servants of the Muscovite monarch. It is not a matter of general knowledge that when the Prince of Wales was receiving his education at Cambridge he was allowed an income of £3,000 a year. He was of a frugal disposition, and managed to maintain the dignity of his position without running into debt; on the contrary, it is stated that he actually saved money out of his allowance.

A correspondent asks: "In writing to my pastor how should I address him: Dear Dr. Smith, or the Rev. Dr. Smith, or Dear Sir?" We have not a chaplain department, but if we had we would instruct the department to say: "My dear woman, do not write to your pastor."

THE WASHINGTON SEATTLE

THE SCENIC HOTEL OF THE WORLD. This magnificent tourist hotel is Seattle's most prominent architectural feature—being situated upon the highest point of land in the downtown district—300 feet above sea level. It is, however, easy of access by private tramway, by regular hotel conveyance, by street car or by carriage. The scenery from The Washington is the most superb to be found on the Pacific coast. The appointments and furnishings of The Washington are entirely modern and high-class; the cuisine and service are most satisfactory. The rates are exceedingly reasonable for a fashionable Tourist Hotel. The Washington is situated in the midst of six acres of beautiful grounds, which with the broad driveways, green lawns, and a profusion of roses and carnations, make the location an ideal one. The scenery from The Washington and grounds is unsurpassed in the West—no other point in Seattle giving such a magnificent view as can be had from this hotel. President Roosevelt was charmed with the scene that met the eye, from the verandas and grounds of the hotel, and so expressed himself. Thousands of others, in public and private life, have come and gone since the opening of this grand hostelry, who have added their tribute to the many expressions of pleasure and satisfaction derived from a glimpse of the Puget Sound country from this vantage ground, including as it does a view of mountains, lakes, Sound, harbor and all Seattle.
