Truth.-The divine Teacher instructs by suggestion. He does not forestall inquiry, but directs. He does not so much bring truth to us, as us to the truth. At least He points out the path by which we may, if we will, reach truth.-Rev. A. V. Raymond. Congregationalist, Schenectady, N. Y.

Riches.—There are other riches than noney. The mind has its riches of thought which always will command friends. There are riches of the heart which attract followers and lovers, and there are riches of genius which always compel the admiration and applaudits of the world.-Rev. C. B. Mitchell, Methodist, Cleveland, Ohio. Moral Suasion.-Christ's great work was to redeem men by the preaching of the Gospel, by moral suasion, not by the promulgation of dogma, nor the rack nor the fagot. But the church has men in her, even in this day, who would expel, yea curse those whose love for men's souls is greater than their love of dogma or canon law .-Rev. F. E. Washburn, Episcopalian, Newburg, N. Y. Folly-Folly is often due to ignorance and ignorance is often the result of folly. The fool in his ignorance destroys those things which stand in his way. On the contratry, the wise man seeking and finding knowledge transmutes them into blessings. Ignorant men and fools have burdened this earth in vast multitudes and still burden it.-Rev. F. Washburn, Episcopalian, Newburg, N. Y.

Wealthy Men Are Not Idlers .- I am not pleased with the implication that men of wealth are idlers-that men destitute of wealth are the only workingmen. Men of large wealth are, as a rule, hard-working men. Cornelius Vanderbilt died at the early age of 53 from overwork. John Jacob Actor. AMERICAN BREWING with a fortune in the neighborhood of $ MALTING COMPANY $100,000, finds no time for idleness. -Rev. B. B. Tyler, Disciple, Denver, Suffering .- Jesus Christ is the only one whence cometh our help for the perfection of our physical and spiritual disabilities, and the supply of all our needs of whatsoever sort they may be. He who suffers and refuses to apply where aid can be had deserves to suffer, but he who comes to the fountain of supply has the promise God shall supply all our needs .- Rev. Great Falls, - - - Montana. W. S. Bertolet, Lutheran, Philadel phia, Pa.

Hope.—By the roadside of human ife lie many specimens of manhood well-nigh useless, but Jesus Christ with infinite patience and love shows seem to be the most helpless "dead in trespass and sins," and by imparting o them His own divine life an strength nurtures them until they bud and blossom into Christian manhood.-Rev. S. Y. Robinson, Baptist, Brook lyn, N. Y.

The Golden Rule,-This civilization makes me think sometimes that things are tending toward the practice of the SAM R. WILBUR Golden Rule. Yet how far away from it we are. If among Christ's people, with wealth in their hands, this rule was practiced; if these people would devote their inheritance toward the advancement of the kingdom, as Christ did, how far we would advance along the true line,-Rev. A. G. McKeiway, Presbyterian, Charlotte, N. C. Faith.-History is taken on truth. Our knowledge of the future is of faith. From the experience of the past we infer as to the future, but that inferonce is nothing but faith. Our confidence that certain causes which prodence that certain causes which produced certain effects yesterday will Sacramento advertising produce similar effects to-day is faith, not sight; faith in cause and effect; faith in experience, but faith and nothing but faith, after all .- Rev. C. S.

Buck, Methodist, New York City. God's School.-What better school could God devise for character building than that in which we live-nature, with its endless variety, constant surprises and marvelous beauty; the home, with its delights, obligations and affections; society, broadening out from the home till it embraces humanity at large, and makes man akin with it all through sympathy, fellowship and appeals for services?-Rev

M. A. Breed, Congregationalist, Mon ticello, Iowa. A Divine System .- Christ arranged the divine system of living. He picked out twelve men whom he wanted to Photographic teach to spend their time in one special vocation and that was the spreading of the Gospel and the preserving of His teachings. From the apostles the church has a succession of ministers who are chosen to preach the Gospel and to administer the sacraments to the members of the church. The minister represents the undying, unchanging testimony of Christ .- Rev. D. Sessums, Episcopalian, New Orleans, La. Sin. There are two classes of sins. There are some by which man crushes, wounds, malevolently injures his brother man-those sins which speak of a bad, tyrannical and selfish heart. Christ met those with denunciation, There are other sins by which a man injures himself. There is a life of reckless indulgence; there is a career of yielding to ungovernable propensities, which most surely conducts to wretchedness and ruin, but makes a man an object of compassion rather than condemnation .- Rev. H. S. Bradley, Methodist, Atlanta, Ga.

The Oddest Stockings. Odd, but not by any means prettiest of stocking novelties, is the hose whose ornamentation is designed to make it look like a high buttoned boot You wear it with a low shoe, above which the stocking is scalloped up the front to represent a boot fastening, even to the actual tiny buttons sewed on. At the top of this singular decora tion is a pair of eyelets and a cord and tassel.

A man is unreasonable if he expects 16-year-old girl to talk and say any
