Kansas.

The news from Kansas is not otherwise than pleasant 'The "first boat" reached Kansas March 12, with some forty passengers on board The chonces for another triumph of the Arcun son, Squatter, pro-Slavery party, are spoken of a not otherwise than abundant, but our friends o freedom seed see no great misfo. tune in that. Before Kansas can be admitted as a State, or the people can make a Constitution, several local elections must take place, Arcusson or Missouri cannot afford to hire shiftless Missourians to run over the line to squat for many successive years, and the legitimate emigration from the slaveholding States is not large nor promises to be much larger ; while from the East the tide is only begining to move. The men who urged the pas sage of the Nebraska oill in Congress, saying that Slavery could not live there, and hance the dange. of introducing it by enactments was naught, spoke a great deal more truth than they meant to However, though the wickedness of the wicked i overruled, and doves are hatched out of what the muliciously laid as serpent's eggs, the woe that i denounced upon the evil-doors get no abatement of that account. But it should comfort the faithles Y. Times.
