Alarming Position of Austria---Danger of all Germany joining Russia. [Correspondence of the London Times.] Pants, Monday, July 23

There is reason to believe that the altitude of Austria at this moment occasions some anxiety, if through Canada and Siberia may at one time have not positive disquictude. Ever since the rupture of the Vienna Conferences, the Russian agents at Vi- ridian returns, as it is now doing, to its old lines in enna, who are more numerous than is generally Europe, Rome may once more see her Tiber frozen supposed, and who, perhaps, are to be found in re- over, and the merry Rhinelander drive his team on gions where they are least suspected, labor with re- the ice of his classic river. Whether the changes oubled energy to detach Austria completely from of the elimate mentioned have been caused by the her engagements with England and France .- change of the magnetic meridian or not, we have For the last fortnight much progress has been too few facts before us at present to decide conclumade, but particularly for the last six or eight days sively ; but the idea, once sprend abroad, will scon the results to a certain extent are more and more lead to such investigations as will, no doubt, remove observable. At St. Petersburg where the Austrian Ambassador, and indeed all Austrian subjects had been treated with more than hauteur ever since the treaty of the 2d December, a marked change has taken place. At the Court, and in the general society of the Russian capital, the Austrians are treated with the atmost arbanity, and are the obleats of the most delicate attention. Wherever they show themselves they are received with open arms and the very name of Amstria, that not long age stank in the nestrils of the Russians of all classes, scems now revered as much as la Sainte Russie itself could be. The order appears to have gone forth, and in truth is obeyed to the letter, that nothing, however great or however trilling, shall be left undone to win that government over to the inter- menian. Armeno-Turkish, Greek, and Hebrewests of the Czar.

Lord John Russ II and M. Drouvn de L'huys are the Scriptures. This agency will probably be far held up by Russia as martyrs to the truth. Rus-sia protests solemnly to Austria, who, I fear, lends year. The London Leligious Tract Society have too ready an ear, that she is still disposed to forget tentered their co-operation,; and the British and and forgive ; that she still accepts the principle of Fore an Bible Society have offered funds for printin four guaranties, and will accord it under any circumstances of success or disaster, under any eventualities of the war, and that this declaration she will repeat even on the ruins of Schustopol ; and she calls on Austria in the most solemn manner to aid her by her moral influence, and not to abandon her in such a cause. Anatria seems not insensible to this appeal, and I believe it has been intim ted on her part that, after all, what Russia demands is not too unreasonable. It is again stated that if France and England will accept the principle of the guarantees, Anstria pledg s herself, in the event of died, expressed a wish to hear read some choice to those Powers, and to resist the presence of a met, he was asked by his son-in-law, Sabinus, single Russian soldier on any part of the Ottoman whether he would have anything else; to which he territory in Europe. What she will do in case of a replied in these emphatic words, "ALUD NINL, contrary resolve she does not, I believe, say ; but from her tone and manner, it may be conjectured. It is her facility of belief in the assurances of Russia, and her occasional disposition to look favorably on her cause, that occasion the anxiety I have alluded to. The young Emperor is at heart with us, but his entourage is malignant, and, what is worse, is influential. His Majesty shows symptoms of the incarable malady under which the King of Prusia has so long labored; he is vacillating and uncertain, and the more his weakness is manifest the more daring are his couffiers. M. de Bruck is with us-so is M. Bach, and perhaps M. de Buol, but the Russian party may become too strong for them, and if the present Amstrian Ministry were upset, it and rule of life, and one which if more generally to call attention to the object to which it is at this stander. Never say a thing unless you know it to

Making a Distinction.

A Roman ecclesiastic, in reply to whatever question might be proposed, began by saying, "I make a distinction." A cardinal, having invited him to dine, proposed to derive some amusement for the company from the well-known peculiarity of his guest .--Saving to him that he had an important question to propose, he asked-

"Is it, under any circumstances, lawful to baptize in soup?"

"I make a distinction," said the priest ; "if you ask is it lawful to baptize in soup in general, I say no; if you ask is it lawful to baptize in your excellency's soup, I say yes, for there is really no difference between it and water."
