Gov. Shannon's Visit to Lawrence—Pro-Pacifist Terminations to the Diminution.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.]

LAWRENCE, Friday, Dec. 7, 1855.

The news of Gov. Shannon's intended visit to Lawrence caused every variety of opinion and comment among the citizens. Some indulged hopes of his successful interference between them and the mob, but by far the greater number had no confidence in the result. Very few had any belief in either his good faith or his strength. So long have the people of this Territory been outraged by their neighbors and betrayed by their rulers, that it scarcely seemed credible that a man so thoroughly committed to the Abolitionists as Gov. Shannon could in any way afford them relief. Still, all acquiesced cheerfully in the general order issued by the Commander-in-Chief for the purpose of securing the utmost decorum and quiet during the visit.

Many did not even believe that he would come. Among those who had expressed the greatest distrust of the Governor and his motives, was Col. Lane, who emphatically declared, on the basis of personal acquaintance, that he was destitute both of strength and honesty. As the morning advanced, the most anxious observation was maintained of the Franklin road, in watch for the expected messenger. And as a "solitary horseman" was finally seen approaching at a brisk gallop, the feeling of expectation became almost painful.

This horseman, on being escorted into town, proved to be the expected messenger. He was greeted by some of our officers—Col. Kearney, and was immediately conducted into the presence of the Commander-in-Chief, to whom he delivered a written communication from Gov. Shannon, to the effect that the latter awaited the Committee of escort at Franklin. The Committee, under the direction of Gen. G. P. Lowry, had for some time been in readiness, and the order was at once given to mount.

On arriving at Franklin, the gentlemen of the escort were severally introduced to the Governor, and the latter expressed his readiness to proceed. Col. Boone and Col. Strickler of Missouri, accompanied him in his carriage, and Col. Kearney rode by its side. The party was met about half a mile from Lawrence by Gen. Robinson and Col. Lane, with a suitable retinue, and conducted into the town.

The conference continued till night. The visitors were the guests of Gen. Robinson, with whom they dined. The points of difference between the people of the Territory and the Executive were severally discussed with apparent satisfaction on both sides. The Governor expressed entire confidence in the people, on receiving a true statement of the case. He had not yet learned the death of Judge Barber, and expressed the most profound regret. He admitted the lawless character of the force assembled at the Wakarusa ford, and expressed great apprehension as to his power to control them. He trusted, however, that they might be controlled until the arrival of the United States troops from Ft. Leavenworth.

These apprehensions were shared by Col. Boone—a resident of Westport, who had accompanied the Governor into the Territory for the purpose of aiding him in restraining the invaders. This gentleman is a merchant of Westport and the Postmaster there; Jones, the Legislature's Sheriff, was his deputy. He is a grandson of old Quaker Boone, and has inherited the noble character of his ancestor. He is a gentleman highly respected by all; and does not hesitate to condemn in the severest language the outrages of the Abolitionists.

As the evening drew near, it was plain to be seen that the time for conference was insufficient. It was not thought best for the party to remain during the night; and it was finally agreed that they should return to Franklin and repeat the visit in the morning. The Governor promised to be in Lawrence again precisely at 8 o'clock; and hereupon, and with the most cordial adieu, he took his leave.

The character of the Council in the evening was essentially modified by his visit. The Governor had left a memorandum of the points which the people of Kansas, as represented by those assembled in Lawrence, were expected to guarantee, and of those he was willing to guarantee himself. The idea of taking from the citizens their arms had long since been abandoned; and the only remaining prominent point was the willingness of the people to contest the laws of the Legislature in a legal manner, so long as a fair trial before a Federal tribunal was secured.

A Committee was appointed to draft a document setting forth the facts and the points of agreement, and to be signed by the Governor and some of the prominent citizens. This Committee consisted of J. M. Winchell, C. K. Hilday, and the Commander-in-Chief. After about two hours, their report was made, and unanimously adopted—Gen. Robinson being further empowered to make such changes as the Governor might wish, not compromising the honor of the people or stultifying the Free-State Party.

Judge Johnson passed through the town this morning. He is on his way to Washington to contest the question of his removal and that of Judge Elmore; and, in passing, will address the people of the Union on the wrongs of Kansas. He goes by way of Leavenworth, to attempt the hastening of the United States troops.

LAWRENCE, Saturday, Dec. 8, 1855.

The Governor returned this morning, though so late that it gave rise to strong suspicion that he was himself a prisoner to the Missouri mob. In company with Col. Boone he is now in conference with Gen. Robinson and Col. Lane.

Judge Elmore and Sheriff Jones are also in town. The former came on private business. He does not entirely justify the Missouri mob, nor entirely condemn it, as one would expect a United States Justice to do.

Sheriff Jones is in a towering passion because he was challenged by our picket guard (who did not know him) and escorted in. He swears he will enter and depart at all times as he pleases. Personally, Mr. Jones is a gentleman, though too rabid a Pro-Slavery man to be a safe officer in Kansas. It is evident that he is greatly displeased at the attitude of Gov. Shannon; and he declares to me that if the latter made the contemplated terms with the people, he would at once resign his office. This would doubtless be a measure of great wisdom.—He was accompanied by Capt. Shaw of the 6th Regt. Cal. Arty., who received neither insult nor threat from citizens.

Last night our horse patrol, under Gen. Deitcher, Adjutant to Gen. Robinson, captured two of the enemy's mounted guard, who, admitting the possession of one of our stolen horses, were brought into camp. After being examined, this morning they were discharged and sent back under escort, with a pledge to return the horse.

The same patrol met a larger party of the enemy's horse guard, which, after a mutual challenge, wheeled to the right and rode off.

The report of affairs is now decidedly pacific in its character. The mob must either fight expressly against the Governor, or go home. We still wait with some impatience for the United States troops, which ought sooner to have been here.

MARRIAGES IN SAN FRANCISCO.—"And there shall be marrying and giving in marriage," says Holy Writ, and the fact is apparent by the subjoined tabular statistics furnished by the San Francisco Herald:

It is nothing less than a complete list of all the marriages that have taken place in San Francisco county during the year 1855. It appears there have been, during this time, 297 marriages. Assuming the population of the city to be 50,000, it gives a wedding for 87.81-100 persons in the place—all things considered a very fair proportion, all must admit. "There is a time for all things," saith the proverb, but our people seem to have taken all times for this.—The marriages are pretty equally distributed, in all the months of the year; but April—the most beautiful month of our spring season—stands pre-eminent, while blank January ranks lowest in the scale.—The following will show the number of marriages in each month of the year:

January	5	July	13
February	10	August	23
March	15	September	23
April	31	October	22
May	24	November	12
June	12	December	26

SCIENTIFIC EXPLORATION OF CALIFORNIA.—The Boston Atlas states that Mr. E. Samuels, an enthusiastic naturalist of that city, left New York in the California steamer on the 30th December, on a pilgrimage of scientific research. He proposes to make a thorough exploration of Northern California, in all the departments of Natural History, and in all the departments of that region east and west with object will remain in that region one or two years, devoting all his time to making collections in its animal, vegetable, and mineral kingdoms. His collections will be for the joint enrichment of the museums of the Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, and of the Boston Society of Natural History, of which last institution Mr. Samuels has been, for some years, the taxidermist with praiseworthy liberality the Panama Steamship Company on learning the purpose of Mr. Samuels, offered him every facility their line could afford, including a free passage for himself and all his necessary implements of collection, and letters to render him all the aid in their power. The enterprising house of Wells, Fargo & Co. have also volunteered no unimportant aid, and their agents in all parts of California will also receive letters, upon his arrival, to contribute all the assistance in their power to Mr. Samuels.

THE NEW OREGON FIRE SYSTEM.—The New Orleans Fire Department has been disbanded, and the city government has made a contract with Messrs. John Younts, for the extinguishment of fires for the next five years, at the rate of $100,000 per annum. The cost under the volunteer system never exceeded $45,000 per year.

"You look as though you were beside yourself," as the wag said to a fellow who happened to be reading by a donkey.

How to Square the Circle.—Eureka!

The circle is squared, side;—If you take a silver wire twelve inches and a quarter long, the quarter being allowed to unite the two ends, you have a circular wire exactly twelve inches; and if this wire is made to form the true square, each of its sides will be equal to nine square inches. Now, if the same wire is allowed to assume the true circle, it is evident that the area of the circle will be the same as it was in the square. For instance, if a wall be built around a city, and it is found to be twelve miles round, the area of that city is nine square miles. Therefore, the square of any circle is equal to three-fourths of the length of its own circumference.—London Court Journal

STATE REVENUE.—It is estimated that the State revenue arising from all sources, including canal and coal lands, will for the present year amount to upwards of $1,500,000. Almost all the lands in the State are now taxable and contribute their quota to the revenue of the State. In less than ten years, it is thought that Illinois will be enabled to liquidate her entire State indebtedness.

IF at a recent sale of the State lands lying in Illinois county, they brought the average price of six dollars per acre. A few years ago, we understand, they were refused at twelve cents State scrip.

IF during the last month, the Central Railroad Company has sold land to the amount of $1,100,000, most of which has gone into the hands of actual settlers.

IF A London paper says the British government is now determined to supply the troops in the Crimea with every comfort; and mentions among other "comforts," that "two very elegant black bearers" are ready for shipment to Sebastopol.

THE FIRST CHURCH IN KANSAS.—It is now a settled matter that the first church erected in Kansas will be under the auspices of the Unitarians. The sum of $5,000 has been raised in the denomination for the purpose, and the agent is now on his way to the Territory to superintend the work.

IF A late number of the Brooklyn American announced the destruction of the editor's hat;—whereupon the Conservator Times wonders if any press were left.

IF insults are like counterfeit money—we can't hinder their being offered, but we are not compelled to take them.

For the Argus.

Original Character.

I am a compound word, of two syllables,
My first lives in the deep, deep sea,
Which men a never deem to be;
Some of my first men ship away,
For the poor man's mortal coil;
My second from my first do come,
While yet in man's mind a home;
It stands, it moves, and yet lies still,
And doth thereby a function fill,
My wife is borne of e'en a'se's side
To serve man's ease and woman's pride!
I serve in storm; I serve in calm;
While woman's wrath I much do harm!

DIED:

At Lafayette, on the 1st December, Emma Ann, daughter of Sarah and John S. Pringle, aged 4 years and 5 months. Published by

On the 17th December, aged about one year, Stella, youngest son of Owen Belknap, of Benton county.

On the 7th January, in Salem, infant daughter of Hon. J. C. Peckles.

Editor Argus—Dear Sir: On the 15th of January I witnessed the death of Nicholas C. Glover, who died of typhoid fever. His last words were, "God has pardoned all my sins, and Christ is precious to me." On being asked if he had any desire of his acceptance with Christ, he said, "Yes," and then closed his eyes in death. His earthly tabernacle was giving way, and his fettered soul took its everlasting flight from his poor clay tomb. His parents and friends are not left to mourn as those who have no hope. He was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and had announced his profession though he had scarce attained to manhood, being only 20 years of age. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, from henceforth, yes, saith the Spirit, for they shall rest from their labors."

"See on those ruby lips the trembling breath,
Those cheeks now fading at the least of death;
Cold is the breast which warms the world before,
And those love-dimmed eyes now roll no more!"
W. S. WILKINSON.
Marion County, January 20th, 1855.

TO Fanny Fern's 1,000,000 Readers!
A NEW BOOK COMING!

WE have the pleasure of announcing that we have in press, and shall publish about the first of December, a new work of fiction, entitled
ROSE CLARK,
A ROMANCE—BY FANNY FERN.

The last work, and first continuous tale of this brilliant and fascinating authoress, "Ruth Hall," achieved a success unexampled in the annals of letters. In the language of a leading periodical, it "created a more profound sensation than any which has been issued during a quarter of a century." But it is unnecessary to allude to the merits of "Ruth Hall." Judging from the number of copies of it we have sold, we judge that every body in the United States has read it. As respects the work we have now in press, Rose Clark, we can only say that we regard it as, in every respect, a greater, better work; and are confident it will not only sustain, but even increase the reputation of its distinguished authoress. We have reasons for thinking "Rose Clark" will make a greater sensation than did "Ruth Hall."

It will form an elegant 12mo volume of over 400 pages. Price $1.25, on receipt of which copies will be sent by mail, post-paid. It will be for sale by all booksellers. Published by
40-3w MASON BROTHERS, New York.
