A NEW PATENT MEMORINE ADVENTMEMENTelightly altered, and adapted to the Water-Core-Like one John Wesley - who appropriated certain worldly sung-tunes to Devotional purposes - we apply Patent Medical Poetry to a better purpose :-C. W. Journal

Have you Corns or Bunnions on your feet? Have you a flesh-wound, dangerous, deep? Cold Water on the injured member keep. Have you a whitiow past endure? Cold Water'd prove a speedy cure. Have you, by chance, a scald or burn? Cold Water plenty on it turn.
Does a ring-worm show its head?
Cold Water sure will kill it dead.
No need of Boile with pain so bad,
Cold Water plenty can be had. Do faul Eroptions spoil your rest? Cold Water them has oft suppressed. If Eryspelan does your shin affect, Your health Cold Water will protect. In short, for Bunnen, Brune, or Wound, The remedy in Cold Water's found. It with Dougs has most the test, And always is acknowledged best.

CONSEQUENCES AND RESULTS OF MR. BUCHANAN'S ELECTION. -- If Mr. Buchanan should happen to be elected to the Presidency, it may be well to consider what will be his foreign policy. He seems to look on the Kansus difficulties with a real or affieted apathy, which gives rise to some grave speculations as to his future conduct. To escape from the civil war now raging ing in that Territory, to get rid of our iuhe may be unable or is unwilling to untie, a war with Spain, on the plan of the Ostend conspiracy, will be his most probable course and his earliest policy.

On the other hand, if Fremout is elected by the free States, the South will see that it will be better to fall back upon a different system of sostaining itself, than to resort to threats of disunion or force. The new slave States carved out of Texas will come peaceably late the Union, and Kansas can be let alone. The balance of powor would be fully kept up, and that without conflict or disorder. In one short year, secessionism would be abolished, and abelitionism annihilated. Here, then, is the simple and inevitable solution of all our difficulties, and to obtain it we must adhere to the candidate who is of all others the most certain of working it out, and that is Fremont .- N. THE CERCINNATI PLATFORM .-- If any of our reliders yet have any stomach for the Cincinnati platform, let them read the following from an Arkansas Whig;

"Now, this Cinciunati platform seems to be a perfect hodge podge. Tom Kirkman used to tell of a friend of his dropping in about dincer time on an old lady, who invited him to draw up to the table. There was a hoge pie of the pot order for dinner. The old lady helped him bountifully, and he being hungry, was doing justice to it. "Stranger,' said the old lady, 'you will find almost every sort of meat in this pie.' 'Yes, madam,' said he, 'and fish too,' as he drew between his lips what he imagined was the backbone of a red horse or sucker. 'Lord have mercy,' exclaimed the old woman, "if there ain't our fine tooth comb that Billy dost two weeks ago.""

OLD ENGLISH MANNERS.-In the reign ingglasses in public -the men as brooches or organisments in their hats, and the women at their girdles, on their bosoms, or sometimes (like the ladies of our day) in the center of their fans, which were then made of feathers, inserted into silver or ivery

At feasts, every guest brought his own knife, and a whetstone was placed behind the door, upon which he sharpened his knife as he entered.

In 1661, a Dutchman named Wm. Boo nen brought the first couch into England; and, it is said, the sight of it put both horses and men into amazement. Some said it was a crab shell brought out of China; and some imagined it to be one of the Pagan temples in which the cannibals adored

The business of cap making was ruined in 1591 by the common wearing of hats, which then came into vogue.

Shooting irons are of late invention; in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and James L. large stones inscribed with texts of scripture, were used for the purpose,

In 1684, two rich women desired to marry the Earl of Huntington for the sake of the title. One of them offered to lay down £20,000 on the day of her marriage. The other offered £5000 a year, during his life, and £6000 in cash, he to go with he to church and marry her; immediately after the caremony they were to take leave at the church door, and never to see each other again.

In Charendon's paper, is the following: At Henly, upon the Thames, a woman speaking against taxation imposed by parliament, was ordered by the committee to have her tongue fastened by a nail to a copy on the tree by the way side on a mar-ket day, which was accordingly done and a nals.

There is now on exhabition to our point sheps an ex-cellent picture of Franklia at the Court of France; not, however, critically true to but sy, if my mem-ory serves me right. In this point i rouking stands, as he ought, in the foreground, he being the soil of the subject; his plane after coursais well with a brilliant court, embrandered from bend to foot, and bedierned with diamonds and hair powder. Franklin, I understand, was dressed to second rate homespun, yarn stockings, ameliantal stoes, and his hair of its mater color; not at all consomes of any inferiority, however, but with that sell possession which is the distinguishing that of well herd people everywhere. His native signify was hersole decountion. As a stranger, he must have observed the common practice in France, of kinding, even in the streets, and other places, when friends meet, after a long or shert abscence, without regard to sex. This kinsing, however, is no more than our shis-This knowle, toward, to no more than one shall have a solution to another—once, or twoor, or more, according to the intimacy and freings. has applied the photographic process to a new and most useful purpose. "It appears," says the Bombay Telegraph and Courier, "that the camera was placed in a box, with a plate glass front, and a moveable shutter to be drawn up when the camera was sunk to the bottom. The camera being focussed in this box on land for objects in the foreground at about ten yards or other suitable distance, was let down from a best to the bottom of the sea, carrying with it the collodion-plate prepared in the ordinary way. When at the bottom, the shutter of the box was raised, and the plate was thus expected ternational difficulties in the settlement of for about ten minutes. The box was then its affairs -in short, to cut the knot which drawn into the boat, and the image developed in the usual manner." The view of the rocks and weeds at the bottom was perfect. Mr. Thompson imagines that the process will enable us to accertain the condition of structures under water. It may do more than that. If the handle of the machine be now turned slowly, the liquid in the basin will begin to move in different directions, and whirlpools. As the electricity on the conductor accumulates, the troubled liquid will elevate itself in the centre and at last become attached to the ball. Turn the bandle again very slowly, and observe now the few drops adhering to the ball assume a conical shape, with the apex downward, while the liquid under it assumes also a conical shape, with the apex upward, until both meet. As the liquid does not accumulate on the ball. there must necessarily be as great a current downward as upward, giving the column of liquid a rapid circular motion, which continues until the electricity from the conductor is marly all discharged silently, or until it is discharged by a shark, descending into the liquid. The same phenomena take place with oil or water. Using the latter liquid the ball must be brought much nearer, or a much greater quantity of electricity is necessary to raise it.
