with dark, strong and abundant hair; a somewhat long and tapering neck; rather broad and difinitely marked shoulders ;only a moderate fullness of bosom (in wo man); a finely shaped waist, and rather long and slender limbs. The whole figare is often striking and brilliant.

The round face is generally associated with soft and light hair, blue eyes, a clear complexion; a rather short neck; finely rounded shoulders; a full chest (and in woman a luxuriant development of bosom) large, but tapering limbs; and comparatively small feet and hands. The whole figure is portly in man, and soft and voluptuous in woman.

The oval face generally goes with the high forehead, the straigh nose, the intensly expressive eye, wavy or curly hair, rather a small frame, deflant in fullness, moderately rounded limbs, and a figure as a whole, characterized by intellectuality and grace.

These three classes of faces and forms vided indefinitely, as their combination in different degrees gives rise to corresponding varieties.

Helen of Troy, according to the descriptions we have of her, must have had a face and form of the first-named class; for we are told that she was tall, and that she had "a. very long and white neck, whence she was said to be the daughter of aswan." The saintly Elizabeth of Hungary, the most beautiful woman of her time, had a similar temperament. "Her beauty," Montalembert says, " was regular and perfect; her entire figure left no improvement to be desired in it. Her complexion was dark and clear; her hair black; her figure of unrivaled elegance and grace ;her walk full of nobleness and majesty." He adds :- " It was easy to see that in this earthly beauty there was painted a brilliant reflection of the immortal beauty of her soul."-

REMEDIES FOR INCREASE OF CRIME .-The increase of crime in the country at large, has become a matter of universal notoriety, and the failure to punish criminals, has rendered the laws on the subject almost absolute. Indeed, the only result which in many cases follows a murder, is a grave waste of eight or ten days time by court, lawyers, juries and witnesses, and a bill of cost to the Comonwealth.

A religious paper now before us makes an effort to explain the cause of the inerease of crime, and to suggest remedies. The cause, it alleges, is found in part in the fact that more attention is given to the mere intellectual, than to the moral culture of youth; that in times of great civil convulsion, when anarchy and violence prevail, as in the first French revolution, it is the learned, and not the ignorant, who lead the way to destruction. No severity of law, says the writer, no strictness in the enforcement of penalties, will secure public justice amongst a corrupt community, or serve as a substitute for an honest heart in the people. You may multiply jails and penitentiaries, yet, in spite of all these, crimes will multiply so long as the heart of the people is left in all its corruption, to work at the great foundation of erime. The conclusion to which the writer comes is, that Christanity has a power exceeding all others is counteracting human wickedness, and is adequate to all the present necessities of the nations, sinking under the weight of their own corruption and crimes.

CORE AND ITS USES .- Many persons see corks used daily without knowing whence comes these useful materials. Corks are cut from large slabs of the cork-tree a species of oak which grows wild in the southern countries of Europe. The tree as stripped of its bark at about sixteen years old; but before stripping it off, the tree is not cut down, as in the case of the oak. It is taken while the tree is growing, and the operation may be repeated THE subscriber has bought out the establish every eight or nine years; the quality of the bark continuing each time to improve as the age increases. When the bark is taken off it is singed in the flames of a strong fire, and, being soaked for a continuing attention, and, being soaked for a continuing a strong fire, and, being soaked for a continuing a strong fire, and, being soaked for a continuing a strong fire, and, being soaked for a continuing a strong fire, and is now carrying on the HARNESS and SADDLE. RY business in all its branches; the LiveRY STABLE belonging to the establishment, is also kept up, where horses and carriages are constantly kept up, where horses are constantly kept up, siderable time in water, it is placed under heavy weights, in order to render it straight. that no efficient substitute for it has been discovered. The valuable properties of cork were known to the Greeks and Romans, who employed it for all the purposes for which it is used at the present day, of the old customers and gain as many more as with the exception of stopples. The ancients mostly used cement for stepping the mouth of bottles or vessels. The Egyptians are said to have made coffins of cork, the feelings or affections over the intellect; which, being spread on the inside with a city. 23 A lady who is residing in Richnend city, formerly a communicant of converted to the Baptist faith, under the ministration of the Rev. Dr. Williams, of the First Baptist Church of that city, was on Sunday evening immersed in the presence of a large congregation. This lady had been afflicted for a number of years with the rheumatism, so much so that she was unable to walk without assistance.-After her immersion she "came up out of the water" relieved of her affliction, and was enabled to proceed to her home without the help she formerly required. This wonderful cure was made the subject of some very feeling remarks by the paster of the chart which who attributed it to the the church, who attributed it to the agency of the Divine Spirit."

Prof. Carl then appeared, held the anvil upon his breast; bent the bar of iron almost double upon his arm; held the anvils upon his arms, etc., for a longer period than Mr. Madison had done. He then took the large flint stones which had been rejected by his rival, and hammered them o pieces, signalizing his performance by cracking in two a flag stone about large enough to serve as a stepping block for a door. After this he held one of the heavy anvils over his head for forty one seconds : lifted a sixty-pound weight upon his little finger and swung it around his head, and held two men on his hair while he whirled

Mr. Madison was then called out by the audience, and requested to give an account of himself. He excused himself in the matter of the stones by saying that his rival was in constant practice, while he had not broken a stone for a year. Being urg. ed to swing the weight around his head, he declined to do it, on the score of inability. and as Prof. Carl had not held the anvils on his knee. In short, he virtually acknowledged himself a whipped man.'

THE PUBLIC LANDS .- Since 1850 Con gress has granted to railroad enterprise twenty and a half million of acres of the public lands as follows :-- to lowa 3,456,-000; Michigan, 3,096,000; Illinois, 2, 595,052; to Alabama, Missouri and Florida, each 1,800,000; to Mississippi Wisconsin and Louisiana each 1,465,497. In the year 1856 nearly forty million acres of land were disposed of, ten millions for cash, eight millions for land warrants, six million of swamp lands approved to the States, and fifteen millions granted to mil roads-making a total of nearly twice the business of any previous year.
