Latin. It was issued at Mentz, by Faust & Schoeffer in 1457, just four hundred years ago. The most perfect copy known is that in the imperial library of Vienna. It is printed in folio on vellum, and is a superb specimen of printing. A second edition of the work was issued in 1459, under the patronage of the St. Albans and Benedictine Monks, which contained, probably, the first printed text of the Athanusian creed.

The earliest printed book, containing text and engravings, is called the Histories of Joseph, Daniel, Judith and Esther, printed by Joseph Pfister at Bamberg, in 1462. It is among the rarest typographical curiosities in existence, there being only two known capies of it-one at the royal library at Paris, and another in the collection of Earl Spencer. The entire text of the Bible with similar embellishments appeared in 1473.

Guttemburg invented, and first used separate letters by movable types in 1442. As early as 1423 he had printed with lines cut in wood, but this was only a small me chanical advance on what had been done for many years.

The first engraving on wood, of which there is any record in Europe, is that of the ancient " Actions of Alexander," by the two Cunios, executed in the year 1285 or 1286. The engravings are eight in number, and the size about 9 inches by 6. Stereotype printing was introduced into London by Wilson, in 1804. The first tragedy in English was "Gorbodue, or Ferrex and Porrex," in 1561; and the first comedy, the "Supposes," in

The first recorded novels are the Milesian tales of Aristides.

The first almanac in the English lauguage was printed at Oxford in 1673.

The first printed music was in 1503 .-No more than forty tunes had been published in any one book before 1594.

The first printing press set up in America was " worked" at Cambridge, Mass., in

The first book printed in America was the "Bay Psaim Book," published at Cambridge.

The first books of music published in America were issued in 1714 and 1721the former by the Rev. John Tufts of Newbury, and the latter by the Rev. Thomas Walter of Roxbury.

The first paper mill erected in America was at Elizabethtown, New Jersey, which William Bradford, Royal Printer of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, purchased in 1723. In 1730, the second went into operation at Boston, the Legislature of Massachusetts granting aid.

The first newspaper printed in the New World was published in Boston, under date of September 25, 1690. A copy of this paper is preserved in the Colonial State Paper office, London. It is about the size of a sheet of letter paper, and one of the pages is blank .- Boston Transcript,

IS THE MOON INHABITED !- RECENT DISCOVERY BY THE ASTRONOMER HANSEL. -It is well known that the moon always presents nearly the same side toward the earth, while the opposite side is never seen from our globe, No bedies of water or clouds can be spen on the moon by the aid of the most powerful telescope, nor is the apparent direction of stars close to its edge changed by refraction, as would be the case if an atmosphere enveloped the moon. Hence it has been inferred by Whewell, the reputed author of a late work entitled "Of Plurality of Worlds," that the moon has no atmosphere or water, and consequently no inhabitants.

This inference is shown to be inconclusive by a recent discovery of the astronomer Hansel, whose study of the moon's motion, continued for many years, has established the fact that the center of gravity of the moon, instead of being like that of the earth, at the center of figure, is beyoud that center, and farther from the side next to the earth than it is from the other side, by seventy-four miles. The nearer side of the moon, therefore, is a vast, extended protuberance or mountain, of a friend may be almost as genial as his seventy-four miles high; and any fluid, whether air or water, would flow downwards from the nearer to the farther side of the moon, where, for aught we know, intelligent living beings may exist. The nearer side of the moon cannot be inh 'sited, at least by beings to whose existence air and water are essential, as is the case with all terrestrial animals.

The late celebrated mathematician, Gauss, proposed, as a means of settling the question whether the moon is inhabited. that a huge monument should be crected on the Steppes of Siberia, as a signal to the inhabitants of the moon, in the hope that they might be induced to erect a similar signal to apprise us of their existence. The discovery of Hansel shows that such an experiment could be attended with no success, inasmuch as the inhabitants of the moon, if there are any, being on the farther side, could never see a monument on the earth.

A CHAPTER OF FIRST THINGS .- The exerts an appreciable influence on the

THE PAPER MILL .- A visit to a paper mill suggested to Gothold the following train of thought :- " And so paper-that article so useful in human life, that repository of all the arts and sciences, that minister of all governments, that broker in all trade and commerce, that second memory of the human mind, that stable pillar of an immortal name-takes its origin from vile rags! The rag dealer trudges on foot, or drives his cart through the towns and villages, and his arrival is the signal for searching every corner, and gathering every old and useless shred. These he takes to the mill, and there they are picked, washed, mashed, shaped and sized, in short, formed into a fabric beautiful enough to venture unabashed even into the presence of monarchs and princes. This reminds me of the resurrection of my mortal body. When deserted by the soul, I know not what better the body is than a worn and rejected rag. Accordingly, it is buried in the earth, and there reduced to dust and ashes. If, however, man's art and device can produce so pure and white a fabric as paper from filthy rags, what should hinder God by his mighty power to raise from the grave this vile body of mine, and refine and fashion it like unto the glorious body of the Lord Jesus Christ? (Phil. iii. 21.)

A GOOD REASON WHY A MAN SHOOLD NOT BE SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY .- A few weeks ago an Irishman, who had been vegetating in the lower part of the State, was tried and convicted for stealing, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary in this city for a term of ten years. On being asked by the Judge what reason he had to assign why the sentence should not be prenounced upon him according to law, the Hibernian replied :

"Well! yer honor, I'm a good dimecrat; yer henor's a dimecrat, and the jury is all dimecrats; but tare an' ouns, the no nothins themselves could'nt have trated me

Pat's plea was was greeted with loud applause, but was not considered good .-When last heard of he was on the point of making his entrance into the State Prison, protesting all the time that the jury was was composed of disguised "no nothins." -Frankfort (Ky.) Commonwealth.

An Inish Vendict .- In an Irish story in Bentley's Miscellany, a murdered schoolmaster is said to have been found dead in the road, with his head full of fractions. "I think its a shoe-aside," said Larry.

"The horse's shoe, was it ?" "No, allana," said Larry; " shoe aside is Latin for cutting your throat." "But he didn't cut his throat," said the

"Sure it's all one," said Larry, whether he did it with a razor on his throat, or a hammer on his head. It's shoe-aside all "But there was no hammer found."

"No-but he might have hid the hammer after he did it, to throw off the disgrace of the shoe-aside." "But wasn't there any life in him when he was found?" " Not a taste. The Crowners set on him, and he niver said a word; and if he was alive be would."

" And didn't they find any thing ?"

"Nothing but the verdick." " And was it that that kilt him ?"

" No, my dear, 'twas the erack on the head. But the verdick was 'twas done, and somebody done it, and they were blackguards, whoever they were.'

97: So far as the Bible is concerned, simplicity of interpretation is essential to that simplicity of heart which is the good ground for the "good seed." Faith withers and dies in the shade of artificial and labored explanation.

0.7 Let us be careful to distinguish modesty, which is ever amiable, from reserve which is only prudent. A man is hated sometimes for pride, when it was an excess of humility that gave the occasion.

OF It was a fine and true remark, that they who will abandon a friend for one er ror, know but little of the human character, and prove that their hearts are as cold as their judgments are weak!

The sigh that rises at the thought voice. 'Tis a breath that seems rather to come from him than ourselves .- Milton,

OF THE SYSTEM.

Since the first introduction of this Medicine, numerous imitations have sorang into existence, founding their claims to the confidence of the community on the curative powers contained in Sersaparilla knot, the great reputation and extended use of which has been mainly airributable to the many wonderful cures effected by the Use of this Preparation. While Sarsaparilla Root forms an important part of its combination, it is, at the same time, compounded with other vegetable remeiles of great power, and it is on the peculiar combination and scientific unamer of its preparation, that its remarkable success in the cure of diverse depends. Other preparations imitate it in the style of putting up, and in bearing the name of one of its ingredients, and here ents their recembiance to it. Those needing a remerly and purifier like this, are requested to note where this difference exists, and in making choice of what they will use, not to take any other but that one entitled to their confidence, from the long list of cures it has effected.
