"DIED YESTERDAY."-Every day is written this little sentence-"Died yesterday," so and so. Every day a flower is plucked from some sunny home ; a breach made had property and owed debts. His prop some treasury of love. Each day from the summer fields of life, some harvester disappears-yes every hour some sentinel falls from his post, and is thrown from the ramparts of time into the surging waters of eternity. Even as we write, the funeral you know General Jackson !" of one who "died yesterday" winds like a winter shadow along the street.

"Died YesterJay." Who died ! Perhaps it was a gentle babe, sinless as an angel, pure as the zephyr's hymn-one | I offer you." whose laugh was as the gush of the summer rills loitering in the bower of roseswhose little life was but a perpetual litany. a maytime crowned with the passion of strength of his name." flowers that never fade. Or, mayhap it was a youth, hopeful and generous-whose struggle for the guerdon in the distance. But that heart is still now, he "died yes.

terday." "Died yesterday." A young girl, pure as the orange flowers that clasped her forehead, was stricken down as she stood at the altar ; and from the dim aisles of the temple, she was borne to the "garden of the slumberers." A tall, crowned man, girt with the halo of victory, and at the day's close under his own vine and fig tree, fell to dust even as the anthem trembled on his lips ; and he, too, was laid "where the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep." An aged patriarch, bowed with age and cares, even as he looked out upon the distant hills for the coming of the angel host, sank into a dreamless slumber ; and on his door post is written, "died vesterday."

"Died yesterday." Men, women, and children are passing away; and hourly, in some graveyard, the soil is flung upon the dead. As often in the morn we find some flower that blushed sweetly, in the sunset has withered up forever, so daily, from the bivouac to stand against our post, we miss same brother soldier, whose cheery ery in the sieges and struggles of the past has been as fire from heaven upon our hearts.

Each day some pearl drops from the jewel thread of friendship-some lyre to which we have been wont to listen-has been hushed forever. But wise is he who mourns not the pearl and music lost, for life with him shall pass away gently as an eastern shadow from the hills, and death be a triumph and gain .- Chicago Journal.

THE WORD SELAH .- The translators of the Bible have left the Hebrew word Sclah, which occurs so often in the I'salms, as they found it, and of course the English reader often asks his minister, or learned friend, what it means. And the minister, or learned friend, has most often been obliged to confess ignorance; because it is to this duel matter. The one is, leat I a matter in regard to which the most learned have by no means been of one mind. The Targums, and most of the Jewish commentators, give to the word the meaning of 'eternally forever.' Rabbi Kimchi regards it as a sign to elevate the voice. The authors of the Septuagint translation appear to have regarded it as a musical or rythmical note. Hender regarded it as indicating a change of note; Mathewson as a musical note, equivalent, perhaps, to the word 'repeat.' According to Luther, and others, it means 'Silence !' Gesenius explains it to mean, ' Let the instruments play and the singers stop." Wocher regards it as equivalent to 'sursum corda-up my soul !' Sommer, after examining all the seventy-four passages in which the word occurs, recognizes in every case an actual appeal or summons to Jehovah. They are calls for aid and pravers to be heard, expressed either with entire directness, or, if not, in the imperative, "Hear, Jehovah !" or "Awake, Jehovah ! and the like still earnest addresses to God that he would remember and hear, &c .--The word itself he regards as indicating a blast of the trumpets by the priest. Selab, itself, he thinks an abridged expression. used for Higgaion Selah-Higgaion indicating the sound of the stringed instruments, and Selah a vigorous blast of trumpets .- Bibliotheca Sacra. Editing a newspaper or magazine into common use. is a good deal like making a fire. E body supposes he can do it 'a little b than anybody else.' We have seen pr doubt their fitness for apple-peddling, ing exen, counting lath, and hoeing nins, but in all our experience we i yet met with that individual who not think he could 'double the cir tion' of any paper or periodical in months."

JACKSON'S SIGNATURE .- Some time in 1835 or 1836 a gentleman in Tennessee became involved and wanted money ; he in some happy circle ; a jewel stolen from erty was not available just then, and off he posted to Boston, backed by the names of several of the best men in Tennessee. Money was tight, and the Boston bankers looked closely at the names.

"Very good," said they, "but, but-do "Certainly."

"Could you get his indorsement !"

"Yes, but he is not worth one-tenth as much as either of these men whose names

"No matter, General Jackson has always protected hunself and his paper, and we'll let you have the money upon the

In a few days the papers with his signature arrived. The moment these Boston path was hemmed by flowers, with not a bankers saw the tall A and long J of Anserpent lurking underneath-one whose drew Jackson, our Tennessean says he soul panted for communion with the great could have raised a hundred thousand doland good, and reached forth with earnest lars upon the signature without the slightest difficulty.

So much for an established character for henesty. If men have differed with Andrew Jackson politically, no man could deny him the merit of being an honest

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE .- The following is too good to be lost. It is often made a subject of complaint that ministers of the gospel participate in political matters .--An anecdote of a Mr. Field, who lived in Vermont several years ago, contains a good reply :

As the reverend gentloman went, at a time, to deposit his vote, the officer who received it being a friend and parishioner, but of opposite politics, remarked,-

"I am sorry, Mr. Field, to see you here."

" Why ?" asked Mr. Field.

"Because," said the officer, "Christ said his kingdom was not of this world." "Has no one a right to vote," said Mr. Field, "unles he belongs to the kingdom of Satan #"

This at once let a ray of light to the darkest chambers of the officer's cranium which he had never thought of before.

27 Everybody has heard of the man who, not quite liking a certain article in a newspaper to which he was a subscriber, went in and curtly stopped his paper, and then stepped across the street as quickly as he could, to see if the building was tumbling down; and, being disappointed in not witnessing such a catastrophe, watched every morning afterward for a long while to see if the proprietor did not suspend the publication of his paper.

A DEAD SHOT .- In his "Cyclopædia of Wit and Humer," Mr. Burton quotes from a work published in 1796, entitled "Modern Chivalry," the following reply to a challenge : "Sir, I have two objections should hurt you; and the other is, les you should hurt me. I do not see what good it would do me to put a bullet through any part of your body. I could make no use of you when dead, for any culinary purpose, as I would a rabbit or turkey. I am no cannibal, to feed on the flesh of men. Why then shoot down a human creature of which I could make no use ? A buffalo would be better meat. For, though your flesh may be delicate and tender, yet it wants that firmness and consistency which takes and retains salt. At any rate it would not be fit for long sen voyages; you might make a good barbacue, it is true, being of the nature of a raccoon or an opossum ; but people are not in the habit of barbacuing anything human new.
