Nearer to God. Nearer, my God, to thee,
Nearer to thee!
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me;
Still all my song would be,
Nearer, my God, to thee—
Nearer to thee!

Though like the wanderer. The sun gone down, Darkness be over me, My rest a stone; Yet in my dreams I'd be Nearer, my God, to thee— Nearer to thee!

There let the way appear, Steps unto lieaven; All that thou sendest me, In mercy given; Angels to becken me Nearer, my God, to thee-Nearer to thee!

Then with my waking thoughts, Bright with thy praise, Out of my stony griefs Bethel I'll raise; So by my woes to be Nearer, my God, to thee Nearer to thee!

Or, if on joyful wing, Cleaving the sky,
Sun, moon, and stars forgot,
Upward I fly;
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to thee—
Nearer to thee!

-Sarah Flower Adams.

A Thought on Two.-This life cannot be lived over again. The moments that pass, pass forever. I now behold the clock-there, that tick is past, and still another, and yet another. So pass days, months and years; so pass opportunities neglected, and half of our time without the proper effort. Young man, a word with you-you cannot rub out the figures of life as the boy does the arithmetical question upon his slate. The great black-board of life it is upon which you make the mark, in the night of God and men, and once made is there forever. If we make a wrong mark it will not serve us to ait down and repent, because we cannot rub it out. The true principle of life is to go on, not with the mistakes, but with the corrections. The mark you made yesterday, improve it to-day .-Let every day be a witness of some greater good-

ETERNITY.-Eternity has no grey hairs. The flowers fade, the heart withers, man grows old and dies. The world lies down in the sepulchre of ages,-but time writes no wrinkle on the brow of Eternity !-- stupendous thought! The ever present, unborn, undecaying and undying-the endless chain compassing the life of God-the golden thread, entwining the destinies of the uni-

Earth has its beauties, but time shrouds then for the grave-its honors, they are but the sunshine of an hour-its palaces, they are but as the gilded sepulchre—its possessions, they are toys of changing fortune-its pleasures, they are but as

Not so is the untried boarne. In the dwelling of the Almighty can come no footsteps of decay.-Its day will know no darkening-eternal splendor forbids the approach of night. Its fountains, too will never fail; they are fresh from the eterna throne. Its glory will never wane, for there is the ever-present God. Its harmonies will pover cease; exhaustless love supplies the song.

CURIOUS, BUT NOT AGREEABLE.-I have no sympathy for machinery; the action of machines of great power terrifies me by its impassibility.-There are some, above all, employed for bearing out metals, which do so to an alarming extent.-Whatever these may happen to soize between their iron teeth, once seized, the thing must pass through a hele more or less great towards which all fabricable substances are conducted. Of whatever size the thing may be that goes in-let it b a beam of the greatest thickness-it will come out stretched into a knitting needle of the greatest fineness. As for the machine, it merely turns, and it matters not to it what the substance may be which it has to crush and draw out. You offer it an iron—the monster draws it to itself and devours it. You don't take your hand back quickly enough, the machine pinches the end of your finger, and all is over. You may cry out, but if there be no one present with a hatchet to cut your wrist off, after the finger comes the hand, after the hand your arm, after the arm the head, after the head the body. Nothing will avail you; the shortest plan for your friends is to look out for you on the other side of the machine. You went in a man, you come out a wire; in five minutes you have grown two hundred feet; it is curious, but not agreeable .- Picture of Travels in the South

ALL ANIMALS CAN TALK .- At the annual meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Science, held lately at Baltimore, it was shown that, after all, there are no dumb beasts. Dr. Gibson read a very interesting paper on the language of animals. He says that every variety of animated being possesses some means of intelligible commu nication. Each creature, by sounds or signs of correspondence, has a language understood by its own kind and sometimes learned by others. Emotions of caution, affection or fear-of joy, gratitude and grief-are disclosed by simple tones of voice, or by impressive gestures, to signalize feelings, strictly comprehended, and often answered. Insects and birds, fish and beasts, thus express themselves-in distinct languages, signed, spoken and sung, seen, heard and felt. He illustrated his theory by stating familiar facts relative to do-

A few nights ago, Mr. Jones, who had been out taking his glass and pipe, on going home late, borrowed an umbrella, and when his wife's tongue was loosened, he sat up in bed, and suddenly spread out the parachute.

"What are you going to do with that thing?" said she.

" Why, my dear, I expected a very heavy storn to-night, and so you see I came prepared." In less than two minutes Mrs. Jones was fast
