Spite of his many successes, Men leved him the same; My one pale ray of good fortune Met scoffing and blame. When we erred, they gave him pity,

My home was still to the shadow, His lay in the sun.
I longed in vain: what he asked for, It straightway was done.

Once I staked all my heart's treasure

We play'd—and he won.

Yes: and just now I have seen him, Cold, sminng, and blest, Laid in his coffin. God help me!

While he aut rest, I am cursed still to live :-even Death loved him the best.

-Household Words

THE DYING NEVER WEER -It is a striwith the Angel of Summons, he says to his oldest brother—the last audible good-and crash,—a large lot of linen and thread faces night of earth—"Kies me, kiss me!" It and edging, hosiery, &c. must be because the dying have reached a point too deep for our earthly crying and weeping. They are face to face with higher and holier beings, with the Father in Heaven, and his angel throng, led on by the Son himself; and what are griefs of a mourning, tears of a dying farewell - be it that they are shed by the dearest on earth -in that vision bright of immortal life and

"SHE ALWAYS MADE HOME HAPPY."-Such was the brief but expressive sentiment which a friend wished us to add to an obituary notice of one " who had gone What better tribute could be of fered to the memory of the loved and lost ! Eloquence with her most lofty eulogy, poesy with her thrilling dirge, could find nothing so sweet, so touching, so suggestive of the virtues of the dead, as those simple words: "She always made home happy."

everlasting reunion !

TRIUMPH OVER EVIL .- We are reward ed for every triumph we make over temp. tation. I will suppose there are many who have struggled against the vanity of vain pleasures; many who have put down evil thought with a strong will; many who, after a long, and it may be, an uncertain conflict with the seductions of the world at length have triumphed. I will put it to them whether, when they have combatted and so prevailed against the evil, and their hearts have not softened and melted within them, whether they have not felt within their bosoms a seraphic influence? They have so felt, and so it will ever be. No sooner shall they have driven from them the tempting demon of pride, of vanity, of anger-no sooner shall the evil have left them, than angels will come and minister unto them - Jerrold.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

PROSPICTUS. VOLUME FIFTEEN BEGINS SEPT 11, 1859.

MECHANICS, INVENTORS. Manufacturers, and Farmers.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has now reached L its Fourteenth Year, and will enter upon a New Volume on the 11th of September. It is the only weekly publication of the kind now issued in this country, and it has a very extensive circulations in all the States of the Union. It is not, as some might suppose from its title, a dry, abstruse work on echn calscience; on the contrary, it so deals with the great events going on in the scientific, mechan-ical, and industrial worlds, as to please and instruct every one. If the mechanic or arisan wishes to know the best machine in use, or how to make any substance employed in his business—if the house-wife wishes to get a recipe for making a good co'or, &c.,-if the inventor wishes to know what is going on in the way of improvements-if the manufactor r wishes to keep posted with the times, and to enjoy the best facilities in his business—if the man of lessure and study wishes to keep himself familiar with the progress made in the chemical lab ratory, or in the construction of telegraphs, steamships, railroads, reapers, mowers, and a thousand other machines and appliances, both of peace and war-all these desiderate can be found in the Scien-tific American, and not elsewhere. They are here presented in a reliable and interesting form, ad-pied to the comprehension of minds unlearned in the higher branches of science and art.
