

The following, by Dow, Jr., is matches in its beauty:

Day by day old sorrows leave us,
Leave us while new sorrows come;
Come, like evening's shadows, lengthening,
Lengthening round the spirit's home.
Day by day false Friendship's flowers—
Flowers that shriveled in the Past—
Past, oh Past!—once bright and glowing;
Glowing once, but dimmed at last!
Last to fade of all is Fancy—
Fancy ever young and gay;
Gay as when young love was dreaming,
Dreaming, dreaming, day by day.

COULD NOT HAVE THE GOSPEL FOR THE FOXES.—That was a novel but not so had an argument which the mountain member urged in the Kentucky Legislature.

A few years ago, a bill proposing a premium on fox scalps was under discussion. It had been somewhat roughly handled in debate by members from the more populous regions, where foxes were scarce, and Mr. L——, from one of the mountain counties, rose to reply. We give only his peroration: "And are we, Mr. Speaker—we of the mountain regions—not only to witness the destruction of our crops, but actually to be deprived by those varmints of the consolations of religion?" This woke the House up, and set it agap for an explanation. He continued—"You know, Mr. Speaker, that we live in a rough country; that your fancy churches—your Presbyterians and Episcopalians—never send preachers among us. We depend for the Gospel upon circuit riders of the Methodist church; and, sir, everybody knows that they cannot be induced to travel where there are no chickens, and that chickens cannot be raised where foxes abound!"

EARNEST THOUGHTS.—It is not by men's professions, but by their fruits that we know them. By their fruits, not by their position in the vineyards of God. They may be planted by the rivers of water, and fostered by the genial influence of heaven, and yet there may be no fruit; the tree itself may be corrupt; not by the luxuriance of the blossoms; these may be fraught with the odor of a sweet fragrance, and very beautiful to look upon; but the frost of a single night may nip them in the bud, and violence, or a single blast, may scatter them to the winds of heaven, and when the gathering of harvest comes, there may be no fruit. By their fruits ye shall know them, not by their appearance.

DAVID'S heart was more often out of tune than his harp. He begins many of his psalms sighing and ends them sighing, and others he begins in joy and ends in sorrow. "So that one would think," says Peter Monin, "that those psalms had been composed by two men of a contrary humor."

"There is nothing," says one, "that endures so small a time as the memory of mercies received; and the greater they are, the more commonly they are recompensed with ingratitude."

A popular writer says that a woman "should be won by degrees." Certainly—win first her ears and eyes, then her heart, then her lips, and then her hand.

Bulwer says that "death often changes aversion to love." Certainly it does. We may have an antipathy to swine, and yet love pork and sausages.

THIS is simply the fermented juice and the distilled juice of the California grape, judiciously medicated with Peruvian Bark, turmeric rhubarb, juniper berries, and other vegetable remedies, skilfully combined, and in such minute and exact quantities as to constitute a small and homely dose of each remedy; which when combined form an innocent, harmless, yet active, tonic, alterative, anti-typic, diuretic, anti-itch, and sedative beverage, pleasant to the taste.

The inventor, in calling the attention of the public (especially the Californians who know the existence of the California grape) to these preparations, does so with pride and confidence; pride in proving the excellence of our native grape, and confidence in their remedial virtues, adapted for the following diseases:

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Hysteric Constriction, Acidity of, or Sour Stomach, Diseases of the Kidney, Gravel, Disorders of the Urinary Organs, Remedial and Intermittent Fevers, Fever & Ague, Nervousness, Weakness, Debility, Disease of the Skin, or want of Perspiration, Pain in the Stomach, Bowels, Clonic, Diarrhoea, &c.

The proprietor does not pretend that his Medicinal California Wine and Brandy is a "wonder or a miracle" in medical science, but appeals to the common sense of the public, and he does not hesitate to know that he knows from experience that the medicines in this, though small in quantity, will often effect a cure in some of the diseases enumerated, when more violent and powerful remedies have failed in their object.

Those drinking liquor only in the morning or before breakfast, would find the Brandy act delightfully on the nerves and stomach, keeping the bowels regular, &c.

As a general beverage, it is pleasant to the taste, slightly exhilarating, perfectly harmless, and gives the weak and feeble a feeling of health and strength.

MESSRS. A. B. & D. SANDS, New York: Gentlemen.—In the spring of 1853, while on our way from Indiana to this place, our eldest boy was seized with a swelling and severe pain in the legs which day by day grew worse, until his legs contracted, and became so painful that he could not walk, and we had to carry him about like an infant. We reached Albany on the 3d of October, completely worn out by fatigue. By this time, he was reduced to a perfect skeleton. Here we were enabled to consult a physician (Dr. Hill) who honestly confessed he could not cure him, although he could give him medicine that would relieve the pain. In this extremity something must be done or death was inevitable. Being recommended to try your Sarsaparilla, I presented a bottle. After taking some, he appeared worse; but persevering with it, I obtained a second bottle, which seemed to bring the disease and pain in the legs were relieved, his appetite improved, and his color began to return. Thus encouraged, I purchased a third bottle; while taking it the swellings in his legs broke, and some pieces of bone one eighth of an inch long came out, after which his legs straightened and healed up. He is now perfectly recovered, has no appearance of being a cripple, and can perform most kinds of common labor, as all our neighbors can certify. Yours, respectfully,

CHARLES A. M. LORRYEA,

Physician. 16y Surgeon.
