OREGON CITY:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1860.

Republican Nominations.

For President,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN,

OF ILLINOIS.

For Vice President,

HANNIBAL HAMLIN,

OF MAINE.

For Presidential Electors,

T. J. Dryer, B. J. Pengra, W. H. Watkins.

To Free-State Democrats.

There are in Oregon at least three thousand voters calling themselves Democrats, and hitherto acting as such, who regard slavery as an evil, which the General Government is not, and ought not to be, required to protect and extend. They deem it a local institution, depending for its existence solely upon the legislation of the place where it is permitted, and if the issue were distinctly presented to them, stripped of its Democratic surroundings, of its extension or prohibition in free territory, they would, with Henry Clay, declare "that by no act on their part should it go beyond its present limits." To all such, we think it must now be plain, by the action of the Democratic party, that they are required to take a definite position upon this question. The real issue before this nation is the one suggested: Shall the power of the General Government be employed to protect and uphold slavery in the Territories? The Republican party says it shall not; the leaders, the controlling influence, of the Democratic party insist that it shall, and the actual, true fight in the great campaign now upon us, comes directly to this point, and to no other. There may be side issues occupying the attention of small factions, but after all the only vital question it that which we have stated, and we earnestly urge upon the attention of all such as we address in this article, the duty of putting themselves in such a position as to be enabled to give effect to their honest sentiments. It will not now do to talk about leaving the matter to the people of the Territories, for if Breckinridge be elected, that privilege is foreclosed, and his Administration, like Buchanan's in the Lecompton affair, will be so conducted as to force slavery everywhere in spite of the people. There is but one mode left—one only hope for those of any party who believe that slavery is not carried by the Constitution everywhere, and those men professing this belief, who, because they were 'born Democrats,' or have belonged to that party, vote either for Breckinridge, or, following a vain shadow, support the forlorn hopes of Douglas, even supposing his doctrines to be correct in the abstract, while they are idle and ineffectual to save us now—such men are as certainly pro-slavery as is Yancey or Davis, or even the smallest and meanest of all the Northern recreants who obey them, Jo Lane. When a dwelling is in flames, men do not stand by and say let the tenants put out the fire, if a majority of them want the building saved, but every one feels it a duty, so far as he has power, to arrest the conflagration; especially would this be so if the incendiary had contrived to make its occupants the subjects of his will and wickedness. The only earnest effort on the part of every good citizen would be to stop the mischief, by prohibiting its further extension. Now then there is imminent danger to the peace and safety and freedom of the country, growing out of the sectional schemes of the democracy for the extension of slavery; as Free State Democrats you know this and are opposed to it. You cannot support Breckenridge and Lane because you are convinced that they are pledged to carry out the plans of those who would sacrifice every other national interest to increase the power of the Slave States—that they are bound hand and foot to the odious system of tyranny which tolerates no freedom or independence, but sacrifices every Northern statesman who dares to believe there is a North, full of great and growing States having some rights.—You must, therefore, support Douglas or Lincoln; but will your vote for the former in any respect effectually restrain the mad ambition of the sectional demagogues who have made the temple of Democracy a den of political thieves? Can you not more directly and surely accomplish the object of your desires by doing as tens and hundreds of thousands of your brother Democrats have done in all the Northern and Western States, who, seeing that modern Democracy was a mere machine for extending slavery and crushing freedom, have repudiated its abomination, and now act earnestly with the Republicans because that thus only can they with certainty control and subdue the wicked schemes of its present leaders, and aid in bringing back the whole country to peace and quiet? In regard to all moral and political errors, there are always three nominal parties—those who uphold them, those who oppose them, and those who, professing disapproval, yet stand neutral for lack of courage or decision in making their opposition effective; but in reality there are only two parties, opponents and supporters; and among the last are all who do not actively resist the error. Just so at this time in Oregon; every voter who does not decidedly support the Republican candidates, is indirectly but certainly aiding and assisting Breckinridge and Lane in all their political heresies. This the result will show, and if unfortunately the State shall vote for them, while at least two thirds of its citizens are at heart opposed to them, the fault will lie at the doors of those who waste and fool away the privilege they have of putting Oregon among the Free States, of making her voice heard in the loud chorus of resistance to sectional disunion, to the tyranny of the pro-slavery party, and to the violation of legal and popular rights. We speak to you as to wise men. Inform yourselves thoroughly, and act calmly, prudently, and as though it depended upon your individual vote whether a base recreant to Northern rights and sentiments and true popular sovereignty, like Jo Lane, shall be promoted to a position of which he is utterly unworthy, or be banished out of sight as unfit for influence and office among freemen.

The Pro-Slavery Resolution in the Douglas Platform.

The News says we "are mistaken in supposing that the Douglas Convention adopted the Pro-Slavery resolution," quoted by us last week. We were correct; the resolution did pass, and is published in the St. Louis organ of Douglas as part of the platform. We cannot see why the News seeks to conceal the actual fact; it is not strange that the friends of Douglas, who wish to secure the support of those who are opposed to intervention for the protection of Slavery, should try to make them believe that he is not Pro-Slavery, but certainly nothing can be gained for any body by so gross misrepresentation as seems to be insisted on, by the concealment of the resolution. If the Douglas Democracy is in favor of enforcing restrictions for Slavery's sake, by every branch of the General Government, as the resolution imports, it ought to be known, therefore we publish it again. Douglas himself, in his letter of acceptance, refers to the resolution, and says it "is in perfect harmony with the others."

Mr. Wickliffe of Louisiana offered the following, which, he said, would give Douglas 40,000 in his State:

Resolved, That it is in accordance with the Cincinnati Platform that during the existence of Territorial Governments the measure of restriction, whatever it may be, imposed by the Federal Constitution on the power of the Territorial Legislature over the subject of the domestic relations, as the same has been or shall hereafter be finally determined by the Supreme Court of the United States, should be respected by all good citizens, and enforced with promptness and ability by every branch of the General Government.

Mr. Paine of Ohio called for the previous question, when the resolution was adopted.

☞ Delusion's advice at Portland was "to run one electoral ticket, if the Legislature would pass an act requiring a record to be kept of each voter's preference, and then the electoral vote of the State shall be given to him who is most preferred." Good idea that, if they can nominate trusty men, like Delazon and Chapman, who would cast the vote for Lane if Douglas had twice as many friends. And if the plan is adopted at all, why not have it apply to all the candidates, and so run only one ticket? Take the Republican candidates, all honest good men, and instruct them by every vote in the State, and no more Conventions will be necessary. Or if that won't do, take one from each party, say Mr. Dryer, Mr. Bush, and Mr O'Meara, and then all will be satisfied, great expense saved, and the voice of the people fairly expressed and made effectual. Hurrah for Union!

Good for the Germans.—In Milwaukie, Wis., there has just been an election resulting in a Republican triumph. The majority of the voting population is German, but heretofore it has gone Democratic by over 3000. This time the entire German vote came to the support of the Lincoln candidates and they were elected by 932 maj. This is a tremendous change in a city whose whole voting population is not over 5500, and is significant of a splendid vote for long Abe in November. It is next to impossible to find a German in any of the Western States who has not rushed into the Republican ranks. The course of the Democracy and of the Administration in defeating the Homestead Bill—"Free Homes for Free Men"—has aroused the whole race to the warmest enthusiasm, and they seem determined no longer to support the Slave power. Will not their brethren in Oregon observe and follow their example.

Coot.—Delusion is hard up. He has read his eyes sore in trying to find some grammatical flaw or political inconsistency in the Argus. After all his searching he acknowledges that the Argus is 'consistent,' but pretends he has found some bad grammar in our 'McMinnville correspondence,' which he quotes as follows: "The last that was saw of Shuck and Smith, &c." When we saw the above in the 'medium' we took down our file, thinking that possibly a mistake in the printer had escaped the notice of the proof reader, but instead of 'saw' the word seen was there just as it should have been. This is a small matter to notice, but it shows the mendacity and meanness of Delusion in a manner that cannot fail to attract the notice of even a Democrat.

Usury Law.—A petition for a usury law is in circulation in this county for signers. We are unable to find room for it this week.

Fitzpatrick's Position.

Some of the Douglas organs appear to think that the Alabama man who was on their ticket here about a week last month, is still a Douglas man, though he would not run but wanted to stand. In the papers just received, we find a letter from him defining his position, from which it seems that if he ever was worthy of the nomination with Douglas, he has got bravely over it. How in the name of common sense, a party could make such a blunder as to nominate so strong an opponent, we cannot conceive. If the managers can't contrive better than they did in this instance, they had better dry up and go home and play pins. The letter is dated July 3d:

"I could not accept the nomination with Mr. Douglas, for the reasons set forth in my letter of declension, and for others, which I said in that letter, I would not then impose. I differ entirely with him on the Territorial question, as set forth in my letter to Mr. Hudgins last fall, and as indicated by my vote on the Senate resolutions, commonly called the "Davis resolutions," which passed the Senate at the last session of Congress.

Differing as widely as we do upon the question of popular, or Squatter Sovereignty, and the protection of slave property in the Territories, I could not have accepted the nomination with Mr. Douglas, on the platform presented, without subjecting myself to the imputation of having abandoned well-matured opinions for the hope of obtaining power and place.

I would have supposed that these opinions, publicly expressed, and my declension of the nomination for the Vice Presidency, would have been a sufficient guarantee that, in selecting from the candidates, I would at least vote for those whose political sentiments conform most nearly to my own. I have always been a Democrat, and adhered with fidelity to the principles and usages of the party. The divisions and disruptions of the Convention at Baltimore should be, and I feel assured are, deplored and regretted by all Democrats, and by none, I am sure, more than myself.

According in sentiment with the platform upon which Breckinridge and Land have been nominated, I shall, as a matter of course, yield them my support.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, Ben. Fitzpatrick."

☞ Some of our despairing locofocos, like drowning men catching at straws, pretend to expect that Douglas, before the election, will withdraw, and then the party will come together, as though the separation involved no principle and was caused simply by personal matters. Though we think so far as Lincoln's election is concerned this step would make no difference, yet for the satisfaction of the chaps who feel so badly we quote the following from Forney's paper, as it shows that there is as much chance of their hopes being realized as there is that Lincoln will ask pardon of Jo Lane for daring to run against his ticket. Indeed it looks to us as though Douglas was doing everything in his power to secure Republican success as the most certain mode of winning his own victory over the tribes of pro-slavery who have defeated his ambition. He tells the Yankees among whom he is now traveling, that the "next President will hail from Illinois beyond any possible doubt," and nobody supposes he is quite so 'deep green' as to expect himself to be elected. If his friends and followers will only act as he seems inclined to do Breckenridge will not carry five States, and the Little Giant's revenge would be heavy but complete. We know it would give him special delight to hear that Jo Lane was thoroughly beaten in Oregon. Douglas men, will you help do it in the only sure way by giving the State to Lincoln? The Press says:

It ought to gratify the friends of Judge Douglas to know that he, himself, cordially sustains the policy of having no connection, direct or indirect, with the disunionists; that he desires above all, and most of all, to maintain the postion in which he has been placed by his record and his nomination, and also, that he can enter into no coalition with disunionists in the free States, who insulted and degraded those gallant men in the Southern States, now fighting for the National Democracy and for the old fashioned principles of the Democratic party, against a banded oligarchy, intent alone upon the destruction of the Union.—No true friend of Douglas in Pennsylvania, or elsewhere, can touch an electoral ticket which contains upon it the single name of a Breckinridge disunionist."

☞ The Democratic State Central Committee will stand at Eugene to-day. The Marshal went from this county of course as standing proxy: the machine could not be geared without his presence and skilful management. The Breckers have the control of the Committee, and of course will control the Convention by providing that none shall be represented who did not vote for Sheil. There will be a jolly time in primary meetings, but the result can easily be foreseen, for the power is in the hands of men who are utterly unprincipled, and care for nothing for consequences, so long as they keep the control and—the offices.

Sensible Man.—Hickman of Pa., Forney's friend and right hand man, who was elected to Congress last year as a Douglas Democrat, has come out boldly for Lincoln, and promises to stump every county in his State, which he says will give us over a hundred thousand majority in spite of any or all combinations.

☞ The Annual Conference of the M. E. Church in Oregon meets in Portland next Wednesday, Aug. 22. Bishop Ames will preside.

Delinquent.—E. M. Hall, Harrisburg (Thurston) P. O., Linn county, owes this Office $14 for subscription.

LATE FROM THE EAST.

The Pony Express to be Discontinued!

The exhibition on board the "Great Eastern" closes July 28th. She will sail for England, via Halifax, August 16th. Over six thousand persons visited her on the 18th of July. The whole number of visitors since her arrival has been 55,000.

The Democratic Convention of the Second District of Iowa nominated Ben. M. Samuels for Congress.

The Postmaster General is about to issue an important circular to Postmasters, requiring in all cases postage stamps and not money, to be used in the prepayment of postages, and prohibiting the use of the ruling stamp in canceling postage stamps. A neglect to cancel postage stamps effectually, or to postmark letters plainly, will be regarded as cause for serious censure if not removal, and all Postmasters are required to report every instance of such neglect. Instructions are also to be issued for the return of letters to the writers thereof when they are not taken out of the office by those to whom they are addressed.

The New Orleans Delta announces that Senator Benjamin has sailed for California to litigate a quicksilver mine title case, in the Courts of that State. He has received a retainer of $12,000, with a contingent, which will amount to fully half a million, should he succeed in gaining the case.

Accounts from Ruatan state that Gen. Walker left that place on the 27th of June, it was supposed for Central America. Honduras was to take possession of the Bay Islands on the 30th of June, and it was said the people would resist the transfer with force of arms.

Louisville, Cleveland, and other large cities, were on yesterday visited by very destructive tornadoes. If unroofed buildings, prostrated trees, blew boats from their moorings, etc.

Tribune's Washington correspondent says the defalcation of the New Orleans Postmaster amounts to $50,000.

It is reported that Cardinal Wiseman expired on the 27th of June.

The cattle disease prevailing in New England has been a subject of much investigation. Measures have been taken to prevent it from spreading. A report has been made on the subject to the Patent Office, from which it appears that the disorder— pleuro-pneumonia —is similar in every respecet to the cattle plague that has at times prevailed in various parts of Europe.

The New York Journal of Commerce traces Mr. Breckinridge direct from John Knox, the great reformer, and predicts that he will be the next President. General Lane has gone on a visit to his native State, North Carolina, accompanied by General Winslow.

POLITICAL.

Taylor, of Louisiana, Pugh, of Ohio, and Rust, of Arkansas, in behalf of the Douglas Executive Committee, have issued to the Democracy of the United States, an address of explanation and counsel. They declare as the universal sentiment of the supporters of Douglas and Johnson, that no compromise will be made for a joint electoral ticket; that they have made no propositions for a joint electoral ticket in any State, and that they expect the rejection of such propositions indignantly, whenever and wherever made. They say, "if we have any friends in any State, let them call a State Convention, at once, and nominate a full electoral ticket, pledging the exclusive support of Douglas and Johnson. We can agree to nothing else, because, to acknowledge the right of a factious minority to dictate their own terms of co-operation; to suffer them to violate the solemn professions of the Democratic party, and trample under foot our Democratic usages, would be to disband the national organization."

An immense Bell and Everett meeting was held in Cincinnati, July 19th. Speeches were made by Gen. Leslie Coombs, L. D. Campbell, and others.

Lieut. Mowry, of Arizona, has been appointed a Commissioner on the eastern boundary line of California.

Stephens, of Georgia, announces his intention of taking the stump forthwith for Douglas.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There was great excitement in New York occasioned by the arrival of Heenan, the "Benicia Boy," from England.

At the last two meetings of the Cabinet, the subject of re-establishing a daily Overland Mail, via Salt Lake City, has been under consideration. The President and all the members of the Cabinet, except except Postmaster General Holt, are in favor of the project.

A dispatch from Charleston, of July 17th, says that thirty-three buildings, comprising the best portion of the town of Dallas, Texas, were burned on the 7th July. Loss, from $300,000 to $500,000.

Discontinuance of the Pony Express.—Our correspondent at St. Louis, says the Sacramento Union, informs us in a private note that there is a strong probability the Pony Express will be discontinued permanently after the week ending July 21st. It was, he says, pretty well settled that Russell & Co., would get no mail contract, and as the Pony Express was now a total loss, almost, to them, there was no inducement to continue it.

Observance of the Sabbath.—On the 19th of June Queen Victoria issued a proclamation in which she commands her public officers to see to it that horse racing, public and private gambling, and all dissolute practices are suppressed on the Sabbath. Her conduct is severely criticized by a portion of the press, for it is shown that she attends "the Derby" and is not indisposed to the games of whist and loo.

The Sisters' School.—We are requested to state that the Sisters will re-open their school in this City on Saturday, the 1st of September next.

☞ Bishop Ames is expected to preach in the Methodist church in this City tomorrow morning at 10½ o'clock.

Sands' Sarsaparilla.—This purely vegetable remedy combines in itself the properties of an Antiseptic, a mild cathartic, and a tonic. It quickly removes from the blood, and other fluids of the body, the impurities of unhealthy secretions which engender and feed disease, thus striking at the root of the malady. Although proved so efficacious it may be taken at all times with perfect safety, as it contains no powerful drastic drug to debilitate the system, or mineral poison to ruin the constitution.

Prepared and sold by A. B. & D. SANDS, 100 Fulton st., New York. Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Read the advertisement in another column. Sold by Dr. STEELE, Oregon City, and by Druggists generally.

Moffatt's Life Pills.—The high and envied celebrity which this pre-eminent medicine has acquired for its invariable efficacy in all the diseases which it professes to cure, has rendered the usual practice of ostentatious puffing not only unnecessary but unworthy of them. They are known by their fruits; their good works testify for them, and they thrive not by the faith of the credulous. In all cases of costiveness, dyspepsia, bilious and liver affections, piles, rheumatism, fevers and ague, obstinate head-aches, and all general derangements of health, these Pills have invariably proved a certain and speedy remedy. A single trial will place the Life Pills beyond the reach of competition in the estimation of every patient.

Dr. Moffat's Phœnix Bitters will be found equally efficacious in all cases of nervous debility, dyspepsia, headache, the sickness incident to females in delicate health, and every kind of weakness of the digestive organs. As you would avoid the spurious and have the genuine, take no other!

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.—This invaluable remedy is the best one extant for the safe, sure, speedy, and permanent cure of coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, pleurisy, pneumonia, croup, whooping cough, bleeding at the lungs, pain in the breast or side, and in fact every form of throat, chest, and lung complaint, as well as Consumption itself.

This household remedy should be in the hands of every family and individual, as a timely application of it to a slight cold will cause immediate relief; while cases of long standing, obstinate, and apparently incurable character, will surely yield to its wonderful curative powers and its great adaptation to the wants of man when afflicted.

Look Out for the Thief!

A FEW days since I entrusted to one James Carl $120, to be by him taken to Portland and delivered to a certain man there. Carl never delivered the money, although he saw and spoke to the man with whom the money was to be left. The last that was seen of him he was on board the steamer Pacific, and he may have gone out on that vessel on her last trip. Said Carl is from Linn county, Iowa, and is about 30 years old—6 feet high, dark complexion, dark hair, and black eyes—a scar above his right eye. Beware of the scoundrel! JAMES L. LOVE.
