I wud knott dye in winter, &c. BY THE AUTHOR OF "THOUGHTS ON A FADIST BORKA."

The Peace Spirit. The word "peace" has a very soothing sound to the disturbed spirit, and is apt to find advocates in any community.

The Hero of Sumter. Dr. Bellows, of All Saints Church, New York, delivered a discourse on Sunday, Oct. 27th, on the war, and in the course of it thus referred to Major, now Gen. Anderson.

Cato the Younger to the Sympathizers with Rebels. In one of our Eastern exchanges we find the following extract from Cato's speech to Cæsar.

American Enterprise.—Charles Reade, one of the sprightliest of English writers, says: "The constructive genius of the American people, stimulated by sound legislation, teaches us lessons at every turn."

Women and Home.—There is a bundle of delight bound up in the sweet word, home. The word is typical of comfort, love, sympathy, and all the other qualities that constitute the delights of social life.

General Grece.—The present time is fruitful in indications of destructive cannon, its shells, and every variety of deadly weapon.

McClellan and Beauregard Contrasted.—The following is taken from some of the recent letters from America of Dr. Russell to the London Times.

Who's worse than a dog? A creature less than a dog, but more than a man, is the creature that is called a dog.

War may cost an immense deal, but certainly not a thousandth part as much as peace upon the basis of a permanent division of the Union.

The Dying Never Weep.—The reason that the dying never weep, is because the machinery of life stop; therefore, the human system has ceased its functions.

Comparative Cost of the War.—Senator Dixon, in a speech at Hartford, compared the expenses of this war with those of England in hers with Napoleon.

The Rousharian Regiment.—Says one of our exchanges: "This is the name of perhaps, one of the best regiments that has been mustered into the service of the country."

Accepted the Invitation.—After the accession of South Carolina, the frontiers of that State formally invited any number of Massachusetts men to visit Dixie.

The Beauties of Mormonism.—In the course of a debate on the marriage bill in the Nevada Legislature, pending an amendment prohibiting the Mormons from celebrating the rite of marriage within that Territory.

Challenger to the Last.—A gentleman writing on the "Woman Question," says: "I confess, in all sincerity, that I have not seen an ugly woman."

Smoking by Boys.—By the way, there ought to be a summary edict against smoking by brats under age.

Coal Oil.—We caution our readers to be careful how they use coal oil; there is a great deal of poor stuff palmed off on the community called "coal oil."
