New York, Nov. 21th .- A letter from Fernandina, Florida, 10th, gives an account of the bombardment of St. Marys, Ga., which says our troops landed and were fired on by rebels, who mustered strongly, whereupon the guaboat Mohawk fired shells into the town for twenty minutes. A female, bearing a fing of truce, approached the gunboat and a lieutenant went ashore and met her. On his return the boat hauled off, intending to return to Fernaudian, when the rebels fired a volley of musketry. The gunboat immediately returned abreast of the town and shelled it for an hour and a half, reducing half the SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1862. in Richmond as an endorsement of rebelplace to ashes.
