The State Republican

Devoted to the Political and General Interests of the People.

Vol. I. EUGENE CITY, OREGON, OCTOBER 11, 1862.

No. 39.

Contents.

From the urgent and incoming report of the Secretary of the Interior, where it is requested that measures be taken for further protection, we extract the following:

Rutro, Oregon, Sept. 27, 1862.

Gentlemen: At a late sitting of the Senate, the following resolutions were adopted:

1. Resolved, That the report of the Secretary of the Interior be laid on the table.

2. Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be requested to state the character of the measures which the State has deemed proper to adopt in the matter of the Indian tribes.

3. Resolved, That the report of the Secretary of the Interior be transmitted to the Governor of the State, with a request that he shall take such steps as may be necessary to carry the resolutions into effect.

4. Resolved, That the report of the Secretary of the Interior be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs for further consideration.

By order of the Senate.

The State Republican.

The Law of Newspapers.

The publisher and managers, in committing their determination to print and publish this paper, have subjected themselves to the risk of an attack from certain elements in the community. But they believe and hold it as their duty to proceed with the task for which they have been prepared to undertake it. They are aware of the difficulties attending the establishment of a periodical of this character in Oregon, but they hope to overcome them, and to bring to the people of this State a paper that shall be useful to them.

The Oregonian, Jan. 6, 1862.

I have been favorably received here, and find the people disposed to be friendly and accommodating. The climate is delightful, and the prospects of health and happiness are enhanced by the beautiful scenery which surrounds us. The mountains are covered with snow, and the air is pure and invigorating. The soil is fertile, and the produce abundant. The people are industrious and thrifty, and the wealth is increasing.

Mr. Lincoln, Jan. 8, 1862.

This is a country of great promise and untold possibilities. The climate is mild and healthy, and the soil is fertile. The people are intelligent and enterprising. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 10, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 12, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 14, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 16, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 18, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 20, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 22, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 24, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 26, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 28, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Jan. 30, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.

Mr. Oregonian, Feb. 1, 1862.

I am glad to hear that the people of this State are doing well. The climate is agreeable, and the prospects for the future are bright. The people are intelligent and enterprising, and the wealth is increasing. The prospects for the future are bright, and the present conditions are favorable for the development of the resources of the country.